COAL AND RAIL LABOR DISPUTES HOLDING STAGE

Green Again Assails Auto Unions.

Predict Steel Pay Boost

A general increase of 10 per cent in steel workers' wages April 1 was indicated last night in the announcement of one company of a pay boost of that amount and the statement of another that similar action would be taken. Pittsburgh advices predicted the U. S. Steel corporation would approve such an increase today. Details on page 23.

Washington, D. C., March 26.—[Special.]—Three new labor disputes today shattered the calm which followed settlement of the automobile crisis, giving President Roosevelt more snarls to untangle, if he is to save his recovery program from the paralysis of strikes. The threats which arose today were:

1. Resuming hostilities in the automobile plants, William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, today denounced the company unions in motor plants as the instruments of the manufacturers. He called for passage of the Wagner bill which would outlaw all company unions and force the auto magnates to deal with the A. F. of L.

2. As the bituminous coal code was reopened for hearings, the United Mine Workers of America moved to force an increase in wages and a cut in hours even in those union fields such as Illinois and Indiana where the mine operators have wage contracts which do not expire until March 1, 1935.

3. Joseph B. Eastman, the President's railroad coördinator, today failed to reach a settlement of the rail labor dispute; the question seemed destined for settlement by the President or by the mediation and arbitration machinery provided for in the railway labor act.

Attacks Company Unions.

In criticizing the automobile company unions as dummies, Mr. Green called for the passage of the Wagner bill prohibiting them at this session of congress. Settlement of the strike has no bearing on the need for the Wagner bill, he argued.

"The issue of the company union is another matter separate and apart from this agreement. Labor, of course, holds that the company union is no union at all," Mr. Green declared.

"Company unions existing in the automobile industry," he continued, "were established by the companies. There would be no such unions if the automobile manufacturers were forbidden to organize them, finance them, foster them, and maintain them. When the Wagner bill becomes a law, company unions, such as these, will pass out because they are no longer sustained by the funds of corporations.

"In my opinion, the terms of the settlement of the threatened automobile strike make imperatively necessary the enactment of the Wagner bill at this session of congress."

Coal Pacts Expiring.

The coal wage dispute loomed when the coal code was opened for hearings again. Moves are being made by unions to force a $5 per day minimum basic wage for 350,000 miners in the Appalachian fields, where wage contracts expire April 1. If this move succeeds, the unions may attempt to force a similar revision in wages in Illinois, Indiana, and other union fields, although contracts there do not expire until March 1, 1935.

Operators in the Appalachian fields are still holding out under threat of a strike, insisting that they cannot pay the higher rate and maintain reduced hours.

The railroad wage controversy was on its way to the White House late today when arrangements were being made for the railway labor executives to confer with President Roosevelt. Conclusion of the negotiations carried on by Mr. Eastman between the managers' conference committee and the Railway Labor Executives' association appear close at hand.

Labor Would See Roosevelt.

The conference with the President was sought by the labor representatives after Coördinator Eastman at a two hour session this morning placed before them the views of President Roosevelt, obtained in two sessions at the White House yesterday.

President Roosevelt tonight was unable to complete selection of the three man board which, under the auto strike agreement, is to rule on cases of alleged labor discrimination. The White House was unable to reach the man whom they want for the third impartial member. The industry is reported to have suggested Nicholas Kelly, counsel to one of the manufacturers, as their representative.

Another Snow Is Due After 6.2 Inch Fall

With an official snowfall of 6.2 inches yesterday, March is living up to its reputation of recent years of being Chicago's snowiest month. Starting in 1930, every March has brought either a record breaking or a substantial snowfall.

The outlook for today, according to C. A. Donnel, chief weather forecaster, is for some more snow this morning, to be followed by cloudiness this afternoon and probably fair and somewhat warmer weather tomorrow. Mr. Donnel warned, however, that these indications might be upset by more heavy snows.

Slush Impedes Trafic.

Yesterday's snow began falling early in the morning and continued to about 7 p. m. Although the official depth was measured at 6.2 inches, there was never at any time more than three or four inches of snow in the streets, and this was due, Mr. Donnel explained, to the wetness of the snow. The total precipitation for the 24 hours ending at 7 p. m. was .53 of an inch.

Street trafic was impeded by slush, as was foot trafic, but never to the point of paralysis. To motorists the most annoying feature was that the sticky snow plastered windshields.

South Bend, Ind., last night was waging a losing fight against the worst blizzard of the winter. More than twelve inches of snow had closed all highways out of the city and threatened to stop motor trafic on city streets. Many street cars were stalled and automobiles half covered with snowdrifts lined the streets. The snow was still falling late last night.

March Records Are Snowy.

Yesterday's snow proved interesting to Mr. Donnel, whose records show March as a heavy snow month. On March 25 and 26, 1930, Chicago received the worst snowfall in its history, 19.2 inches. The following year, on March 7, 8, and 9, the city was buried under its second record breaking snow—16.4 inches. Then, on March 20 and March 22, 1932, there was a fall of 8.9 inches. On March 24 and 25, last year, the fall was 5.1 inches.

Yesterday's storm caught two men in the middle of the spider web span between the east and west towers of the Sky Ride at the Fair. Both made their way to safety after completing an inspection. Paul Hendricksen and M. M. Anderson, superintendent and assistant superintendent of cable work for John A. Roebling's Sons company, were about half way between the two spans, sliding on the cables, when the storm started. New tracks and tractor cables will be installed at the ride this week.

BOOTH'S DOCTOR'S 5 CHILDREN MAY GET PAY BY U. S.

Salt Lake City, Utah, March 26.—(AP)—Sister M. Rosamunda, a member of the faculty of Sacred Heart academy at Ogden, Utah, today heard with interest of a proposal to reimburse her and four other surviving children of Dr. Samuel A. Mudd of Maryland for punishment suffered by their father for attending John Wilkes Booth, assassin of Abraham Lincoln.

A dispatch to the Telegram said a bill planned for introduction in congress by Senator Schall of Minnesota proposes to pay $200,000 to the heirs of Dr. Mudd.

Because he set Booth's leg when the actor appeared at his home in southern Maryland the morning after Lincoln's assassination, Dr. Mudd was arrested as a co-conspirator, his property was confiscated and he was sentenced to Dry Tortugas, an iland off Florida.

While there he checked a yellow fever epidemic after the prison doctor had succumbed to the plague, and subsequently was pardoned by President Andrew Johnson.

Mark Hanna's Kin Target of Extortion Plot

Thomasville, Ga., March 26.—(AP)—A plot to extort $10,000 from Howard M. Hanna, a nephew of the late Mark Hanna, was disclosed tonight as officers tried futilely to trap those responsible.

The first extortion note was written on March 20 to Hanna, Cleveland financier, who maintains an extensive country estate here, and contained a demand that the money be placed in a package and dropped at a specified location. The note apparently was written by an educated person.

A dummy package was prepared after officers were stationed about the spot, but the extortionists failed to show up. Last Saturday a second extortion note was written to Hanna. The writers said they had "watched" the spot where the money was to be left, but there was no chance of getting it without "killing some of your men."

Does Not Wish to Kill.

The note added that the extortionists did not wish to kill, but warned Hanna that "we'll get you" in case the second instructions were not followed.

The second rendezvous was set for tonight at a point near Thomasville, and Hanna's chauffeur, Eddie Parish, drove down the road and tossed out a dummy package while twenty officers watched.

Officers said a Negro plunged from a clump of bushes after the car had passed and seized the package. The officers opened fire, but he escaped. A short time later the officers arrested a Negro near the extortion rendezvous, but he wrested away from his captors and escaped in a volley of shots.

Officers said they believed the extortion plot was of local origin. Hanna, who is here with his wife and five children, remained at his estate tonight. He was quoted as saying he never considered the extortion threat seriously.

5,000 Acres in His Estate.

Hanna has an estate of some 5,000 acres here, known as the Melrose plantation. It originally was the property of his father, the late Dr. H. Melville Hanna.

Hanna is chairman of the board of the M. A. Hanna company of Cleveland and a director of the Union Trust company of Cleveland, the National Biscuit company, the Products Steamship company, and the Eastern Coal Dock company.

Estates of the Hannas are picturesque examples of modern plantation life in the south and are completely equipped. Each employs many servants in addition to tenant farmers. Hanna's wife and children spend several months here each year.

Mark Hanna had a home in Thomasville.

Demands Curtailing of Speculation.

Washington, D. C., March 26.—[Special.]—With his desk cleared of urgent business, President Roosevelt tonight planned to leave Washington tomorrow for a week's fishing off the Florida coast.

On the fishing trip, to be taken aboard Vincent Astor's yacht Nourmahal, President Roosevelt will have with him a small group of close friends who have been his "shipmates" on other similar cruises. These will include Mr. Astor, Dr. Leslie Heiter, George St. George, Kermit Roosevelt, and Judge Frederic Kernochan.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 26.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today called on congress to pass legislation with "teeth in it" for the control of the nation's stock and commodity exchanges.

He asked that the law be so severe "that speculation, even as it exists today, will of necessity be drastically curtailed." His demand was made in a letter to Senator Duncan U. Fletcher [Dem., Fla.] and Representative Sam Rayburn [Dem., Tex.], chairmen of the congressional committees which are handling the pending stock exchange bills.

Charging the exchanges with organizing one of the most determined lobbies which has fought any of his legislation, the President said that the country would not be satisfied unless the exchange control measure is drastic. People generally, the President said, blame the speculation on exchanges for the 1929 artificial boom and the resulting slump.

Outlines Law He Wants.

The President threw his full weight behind the controversial margin restriction sections of the bill. Outlining the type of law he wants, he said:

"The two principal objectives are, as I see it, first, the requirement of what is known as margin so high that speculation, even as it exists today, will of necessity be drastically curtailed, and, second, that the government be given such definite powers of supervision over exchanges that the government itself will be able to correct abuses which may arise in the future."

In his letter the President said:

"Before I leave Washington for a few days' holiday I want to write you about a matter which gives me some concern.

"On Feb. 9, 1934, I sent to the congress a special message asking for federal supervision of national trafic in securities.

"It has come to my attention that a more definite and more highly organized drive is being made against effective legislation to this end than against any similar recommendation made by me during the last year. Letters and telegrams bearing all the earmarks of origin at some common source are pouring in to the White House and the congress.

"The people of this country are, in overwhelming majority, fully aware of the fact unregulated speculation in securities and in commodities was one of the most important contributing factors in the artificial and unwarranted 'boom' which had so much to do with the terrible conditions of the years following 1929.

"I have been definitly committed to definite regulation of exchanges which deal in securities and commodities. In my message I stated, 'It should be our national policy to restrict, as far as possible, the use of these exchanges for purely speculative operations.'

Two Definite Objectives.

"I am certain that the country as a whole will not be satisfied with legislation unless such legislation has teeth in it. The two principal objectives, are, as I see it:

"First, the requirement of what is known as margins so that speculation, even as it exists today, will of necessity be drastically curtailed; and

"Second, that the government be given such definite powers of supervision over exchanges that the government itself will be able to correct abuses which may arise in the future.

"The bill as shown to me this afternoon by you seems to meet the minimum requirements. I do not see how any of us could afford to have it weakened in any shape, manner, or form."

'Blue Eagle' Ruth Loses Her Feathers

Miss Ruth [Blue Eagle Ruth] Brannon, who is running against four men for the Democratic nomination for congressman from the 11th Illinois district, yesterday was warned by Illinois NRA authorities to desist in her use of the bird on her campaign posters and literature.

She Gets the Warning.

Miss Brannon betrayed only hurt surprise when informed yesterday that a letter had been mailed to her on Saturday by N. E. Cassidy, state NRA compliance director, asking her to explain why she had violated section 10-A of the National Recovery act and informing her that a penalty of $500 a day or six months' imprisonment or both was provided for malicious violation of that or any other section.

Later she said her campaign manager had the letter in his pocket. It had been delivered at her Joliet headquarters.

"I'll just have to cut the eagle off the posters and go on," she said. "I'm a law abiding citizen. If we cut off the tops that will do it."

Section 10-A Is Invoked.

But section 10-A says that "Use of NRA insignia or letters on a political poster in such a manner as to tend to identify it with a particular political faction is unauthorized and contrary to NRA circular No. 1 of July 23 interpretation," etc.

The complaint against Miss Brannon's use of the Blue Eagle was made by one of her four opponents, James A. Howell of Elgin, professor of law at Loyola university. Howell was nominated for congress in 1932 on the Democratic ticket and lost in the election to Congressman Frank R. Reid, Republican veteran, by 1,333 votes. Reid is not seeking reëlection.

Howell has charged publicly that "Blue Eagle Ruth," who is 28 years old and pretty, is not serious in her political campaign, but is in the field only to split the nonorganization vote he would poll against Arthur L. Hellyer of Hinsdale, who is backed for the Democratic nomination by Lieut. Gov. Thomas F. Donovan.

Ruth's Idea of It.

"James Howell is making all this trouble for me," said Miss Brannon. "The thing that makes him mad isn't that I used the Blue Eagle, which I honestly thought I had a right to do because I was a speaker for the NRA speakers' bureau. The thing he's maddest about is that I'm a woman. He thinks women ought to be in the kitchen and he's bound to beat me.

"I think we need women at Washington to show those men something about running the government. I certainly do. I'm absolutely serious.

"This is a life work for me. Howell and those men think they can browbeat me. They make me tired. Everybody's always ready to take a crack at a woman. Well, it's the day of the woman, I think. All the world's a great big kitchen. They need us. And I want to help Roosevelt."

Miss Brannon is a teacher of debating at St. Francis college, Joliet. She lives with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. George H. Brannon, at Manhattan. She was graduated from the University of Chicago in 1928. A brother, Dr. Londos Brannon, is a surgeon at the Joliet penitentiary.

ROBBERS SMASH WINDOW AND ROB LOOP GEM STORE

Four bandits, one carrying a machine gun, held up the Gould loan bank and jewelry store, 111 West Van Buren street, after throwing a baseball bat through a front window last night. One of the robbers filled a bushel basket with all the diamond rings and other jewelry he could scoop up from the show window. The entire robbery was executed in about one minute.

Morris Gould, owner of the concern, was inside with a clerk and one customer when the bandit car drew up to the curb in front of the store. The man with the machine gun ran to the doorway while one of his two companions smashed the plate glass window with the bat.

When Gould heard the crash of glass he ran to the door, but was ordered back by the machine gunner. After gathering up the jewelry the three robbers ran to their car, in which the fourth member of the band had waited at the wheel. Gould estimated the amount of his loss at $2,000 or $3,000.

ENGLAND BARS INSULL'S WIFE; MAY ROAM SEA

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 26.—Friends of Samuel Insull in London received a severe blow this afternoon when the home office informed them that Mrs. Insull would not be permitted to land in England. Early this morning a number of well known persons who are backing Insull in his flight from American justice called at the home office. The deputation handed a written guarantee to the home secretary that they would be responsible for her in every way.

The Insull delegation was politely informed the request and guarantee would receive every consideration and that the deputation would be informed as soon as a decision had been reached.

Friends Are Furious.

The decision was handed out this afternoon. It was to the effect that, having given due consideration to all aspects of the case, the home office decided it could not see the way clear to permit Mrs. Insull to visit England. Officials declined to state the reason for their action.

Insull's friends are furious. There is much talk about bringing the matter up in the house of commons. They declare that if satisfaction is not given there the matter will be carried to the house of lords.

Meanwhile, there was a hurried consultation as to what to do for Mrs. Insull. It was finally decided that one member of the Insull group should leave immediately for Athens. This person is expected to depart tonight or tomorrow. If necessary, Mrs. Insull will be taken from Athens aboard a private yacht. Thus it appears that the wife of the fugitive Chicago utilities promoter will join her husband in roaming the seas.

Claim U. S. Is Unfair.

Private cables from the United States received here this morning by Insull's friends indicated that American authorities wish to interview Mrs. Insull as soon as possible. These friends of the Insulls declare that unfair methods are being used against her to force her to return to the United States, and that if American authorities cannot get their hands on Insull they intend to get every other member of the family.

As far as Mrs. Insull is concerned, she is a fixture at Athens unless she takes the same route her husband did. France has refused to grant her a visa unless it receives a guarantee from Great Britain that she will be allowed to land in England. Other countries through which she must pass have already indicated they are only willing to issue a visa on condition that French and English visas are granted.

The situation is becoming extremely complicated, and Insull's friends complain that Mrs. Insull is not helping matters. They declare she is irresponsible and likely to do "something silly" which may land her in a worse jam than ever. It is reported she fears American authorities now want her in connection with Insull's escape from Athens and that if she returns to America she would be subjected to a third degree in order to force her to reveal her husband's hiding place.

Only Way Out Is by Sea.

Though this may sound absurd, the fact remains that Mrs. Insull is still in Athens and likely to remain there until United States authorities intervene in the matter to get her necessary permits to leave Greece. There is only one route left for her to leave at the moment, and that is by sea. Even in that case she must obtain permission from Greek authorities.

There is another matter causing concern to Insull's London friends. All this coming and going and engaging of lawyers and chartering of vessels is costing a great deal of money. Although the Insull funds are not exactly low, money to finance Insull's escape is still required by the friends to enable them to keep up the pace.

Today some Insull art treasures found their way to Christie's famous auction rooms in London. They included a magnificent icon of Madonna and Child. It is done in oils on a solid gold background. Its value is not revealed. A fine enameled inkstand stolen from the Louvain museum during the world war and later bought by Insull is also for sale.

Received with Pleasure.

THE TRIBUNE'S correspondent handled both pieces before they were handed over to officials of Christie's. The firm received the treasures with obvious pleasure.

"We have had this icon before," one official remarked. "It was sold by us over 50 years ago, according to our marking on the back."

He refused to say what the two pieces are expected to fetch, but expressed the belief they would bring a good sum.

Both articles are said to have been given by Insull to his friends in London as wedding presents. The friends now are said to feel that he has more need of the funds for his flight from American justice than they have of the wedding presents.

May Be Headed for Dardanelles.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ATHENS, March 26.—Steering carefully between Greek ilands in the Aegan, Samuel Insull's chartered freighter, the Maiotis, is slipping northward bound for Rumania, it was reported tonight. Insull, it is said, hopes to reach this new refuge through the Dardanelles without penetrating Greek waters. The reports are based on the claims of seamen entering the port of Piraeus that code messages from the Maiotis were picked up today and were much stronger than the ship's messages in the past several days when the vessel was loafing off the Italian iland of Rhodes.

DUE HERE TOMORROW

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TORONTO, Ont., March 26.—Martin J. Insull's departure for Chicago tomorrow to face charges of larceny and embezzlement was definitly assured today. The fugitive utilities operator was indicted by the Cook county grand jury on Oct. 4, 1932. Since that time American authorities have carried on their fight in the courts to extradite him.

The warant of surrender for Insull's extradition was received in the mail from Ottawa today by C. R. Magone, official of the provincial attorney general's department.

Due in Chicago Tomorrow.

Mr. Magone immediately communicated with State's Attorney Courtney of Chicago and was told that Lieut. Frank Johnson, the presidential messenger for the demanding power, would arrive here tomorrow morning to return Insull.

Insull will reach Chicago Wednesday morning. He probably will be arraigned in the Felony court and released on bail immediately, pending the preliminary hearings and the fixing of a date for his trial on charges of abstracting $364,720 from the treasury of the Middle West Utilities company.

Wan and Careworn.

This afternoon Insull received the official news that the writ for his temporary freedom had reached Toronto. He held a farewell conference with his attorney, J. C. McRuer, in his hospital cell at the Don jail. McRuer said his client appeared wan and careworn after 10 days in Toronto's ancient and malodorous jail. The lawyer added that his client was cheered with the prospect of getting out of jail tomorrow.

ATTORNEY TO ASK ICC TO ORDER CUT IN ELECTRIC RATE

Harry R. Booth, an attorney for the Illinois commerce commission, announced yesterday that tomorrow he would ask the commission to order an immediate reduction in the electric rates of the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois.

He will recommend, he said, that the company cut its rates to the point where it will not be making more than 6 per cent profit on its investments. How much such a reduction, if ordered, would amount to is uncertain, but it is estimated it may amount to $1,000,000 a year.

A hearing on a proposed rate reduction has been going on for some time. The Public Service company has contended that during 1933 it made a profit of $8,400,000 on an investment of $150,000,000, or less than 6 per cent. Commission experts disputing this claim declare the profit has been far above 7 per cent.

Jailed as Reckless Driver, Brooding Farmer Kills Self

For a week Arthur Bahr, 24 years old, Kane county farmer living near Elgin, brooded over his arrest on a reckless driving charge following a minor trafic collision between his milk truck and the automobile of W. E. O'Brien of Rockford. Yesterday he went to the home of a neighbor, Louis Hartje, and killed himself with a shotgun. A coroner's jury returned a verdict of suicide while despondent.

ROOSEVELT TO VETO 'ECONOMY' MEASURE TODAY

BULLETIN.

Washington, D. C., March 26.—(AP)—President Roosevelt tonight wrote a veto message for the independent offices supply bill, carrying the disputed veterans benefit amendment. It will be transmitted to congress tomorrow.

Washington, D. C., March 26.—[Special.]—Ending a month long journey through congress, the independent offices appropriation bill carrying the major portion of the administration's economy program today was headed for a veto at the hands of President Roosevelt.

Although the senate finally agreed to the so-called house "compromise" amendments dealing with veterans' benefits and government pay cut restoration, the President intends to reject the measure on the ground that the addition of some 200 million dollars to the budget cannot be permitted at this time.

The compromise on the federal pay cut restoration was accepted by the senate by a vote of 59 to 19; the veterans amendment was agreed to by a vote of 48 to 39.

Drop Out 143 Millions.

Senate agreement to the house proposals means that congressional additions to the budget in the form of veterans' benefits and federal pay will approximate 200 million dollars instead of the 343 millions which would have been required under the amendments originally adopted by the senate. The restoration of 10 per cent of the 15 per cent federal pay cut, as finally agreed upon, will involve about 100 millions a year, it was estimated, while the house compromise amendment on veterans is expected to cost approximately 90 millions.

The house amendments were designed as a possible happy medium between the 343 million dollar senate proposals and the budget recommendations of the administration. Throughout consideration of the bill, however, there was no indication that Mr. Roosevelt would accept even the less drastic house amendments and indications tonight were that the President intends to stand firm against the additions. Chairman Clifton A. Woodrum [Dem., Va.], of the house appropriations subcommittee in charge of the bill, stated that in his opinion Mr. Roosevelt will veto the measure at once. Other Democratic leaders were noncommittal as to the possible attitude of the White House.

Restores 10 Per Cent of Pay.

As finally approved by congress, the measure calls for the restoration of 10 per cent of the 15 per cent pay cut imposed on all government employés under the economy act last year. Five per cent will be returned at once, retroactive to Feb. 1 last, and 5 per cent on July 1 next. The senate had proposed restoring the full 15 per cent on July 1, and President Roosevelt in his budget message asked for the return of only 5.

The major provisions of the house amendment on veterans involve the restoration to the pension rolls of all Spanish-American war veterans and all world war veterans with "presumptive" disabilities, on a basis of 75 per cent of the amount they received prior to passage of the economy act. All service connected disability cases would be returned to the rolls with their full former status.

The President's veto, it was understood, will be based on the fact that the world war veterans with injuries only "presumed" to have service connection will be restored to the pension rolls permanently. The administration, it was said, would be willing to accept a temporary restoration pending investigation of each case, but will not agree that all "presumptive" cases should be returned on a permanent basis.

Detroit, Mich., March 26.—[Special.]—Richard L. Byrd of Pontiac, who was picked by the union representatives at Washington as labor member of the automobile labor board set up under the terms of the strike settlement, was a member of the American Olympic team in 1912 and won points in the weight throwing contest of Stockholm, Sweden. He is 42 years of age and was born in Illinois. During the war he enlisted in the marine corps in California and had a lieutenant's commission, and was under orders to sail for France when the armistice was signed.

Byrd entered the automotive labor organization picture last November and since then has been active in support of unionism. Unemployed since last fall, Byrd with his wife and 10 year old daughter, lives in a two story frame house at the north edge of Pontiac.

Byrd, who was once a safety director in the Fisher Body plant, at Cleveland, has lived in Detroit, Ferndale and Pontiac since 1928. He was a safety director at General Motors dye plant No. 23, and later was employed in the safety division of the Fisher plant in Pontiac. Later he worked in the General Motors Truck company plant here, and is an officer of the union at that plant.

Byrd was elected secretary of the organized groups of automobile workers in Pontiac, and in the conferences at the White House he was one of the labor spokesmen who presented the union side of the controversy to President Roosevelt.

SPAIN PERMITS RICH FUGITIVE TO RETURN HOME

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

PALMA, Majorca, March 26.—Juan March, reputed to be Spain's richest man and often described as the uncrowned king of Majorca, returned to his home here late last night with the full consent of republican authorities.

Only five months ago March was in a prison just outside Madrid, where for 18 months he had awaited trial on charges of having bribed monarchist officials in 1926 to give him a tobacco monopoly in Spanish Morocco. The capitalist was never brought to trial.

He bribed two prison guards to aid his escape last November. March took one of the guards in an automobile with him to Gibraltar, where they both boarded a steamer for Marseilles. While living in France the millionaire fugitive was elected a deputy to represent Majorca in the cortes at Madrid. He intimated today he may take his seat in parliament immediately after the Easter holidays.

RAFT'S NEW LOVE MAY COST MOST OF HIS SALARY

New York, March 26.—[Special.]—George Raft's reported offer of marriage to Virginia Peine Lehmann Jr. [Virginia Pine in the films], Chicago heiress and film beauty, may cost the screen star a large slice of his $300,000 a year salary in alimony payments to his wife.

"He flaunted her in my face," Mrs. Raft declared in an affidavit that sent process servers scurrying about town today to tag the film star with her complaint in a separation action.

She asked $25,000 counsel fee and $1,200 a week alimony, a jump from the $50 a week that Raft has been paying her under a private separation agreement since he reached the heights.

Mrs. Raft said she had been particularly humiliated and held up to public ridicule by her husband's public statements that he contemplated marriage to the Chicago heiress.

AUTO INDUSTRY SPEEDS UP; BOTH SIDES SATISFIED

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., March 26.—[Special.]—Both sides, employers and labor, today were expressing satisfaction with the settlement with which President Roosevelt averted a strike in the automobile industry. The automotive plants, which already were working at high speed on the 1934 models, put on more workers and the industry was operating at a faster rate than ever trying to catch up with unfilled order books.

Manufacturers in general, turning their attention to the Wagner labor disputes bill, took the ground that it has been tossed out of the picture by the terms of the President's settlement of the automobile controvery. The Michigan Manufacturers' association, through John L. Lovett, its general manager, in a brief statement took the ground that the Wagner bill is incompatible with the plan of collective bargaining set up in the automobile industry.

"No Union Monopoly."

"The government has made it clear," it read, "that it favors no particular union or form of representation. In other words, no organization, company union or other, has any monopoly as a represenative of American labor.

"Those who claim to speak for employés must disclose the names of those whom they represent. Obviously, the employer cannot be rightfully accused of discrimination against members of outside unions if he does not know who they are. The employés themselves are protected against the possibility of discrimination on account of membership in outside unions by the board created to pass on disputed cases.

"The Wagner bill, which would create strife, widen the gap between workers and employers, and in effect set up a labor dictatorship exceeding in scope and power anything yet experienced in the United States, appears to have been thrown out of the picture by the President's statement accompanying the strike settlement."

Workers Applaud Terms.

Spokesmen of both sides who participated in the Washington conferences are expected home tomorrow. Meanwhile, terms of the settlement were being applauded at meetings of workers. In Flint, union members applauded the peace terms of the settlement and prepared to give their returning delegates a rousing welcome. In Pontiac, similar action was taken by the executive council of the five union locals, while in Detroit union men at meetings expressed satisfaction.

One discordant note was sounded by Matthew Smith, general secretary of the Mechanics' Educational Society of America, a union of tool and die makers. In a telegram to the President and to Gen. Hugh S. Johnson Smith assailed the settlement. He said it was "a Versailles treaty of industry, possessing more germs of future industrial strife than the pre-dispute set up." Smith said two representatives of his union who were sent to Washington were not admitted to the settlement conferences.

JAPAN SEIZES SIX AS SPIES; BRITISH OFFICIAL VICTIM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, March 27.—[Tuesday.]—The spy phobia to which Japan is unusually susceptible broke out again today. The acting commercial counselor of the British embassy and five other Europeans, including prominent German businessmen and a famous physician, are the latest victims.

After being arrested at Yokosuka by naval gendarmerie Sunday, the six were detained on charges of trespassing on a fortified zone. They were released last night.

Those arrested were H. A. Macrae, acting commercial counsellor of the British embassy; Dr. and Mrs. W. Becker, O. A. Begg, and Herr Bomhr, German business men, and Dr. Paravicini, noted physician with offices in Yokohama. The party, on a week-end trip, hired a sampan and unwittingly landed in a fortified zone.

Alfred Barr, American construction engineer, was arrested Sunday afternoon for taking movies of a destroyer in the bay. He was released after his films were confiscated. It is permitted to take pictures in Tokio bay and so far as is known, Barr did not violate any law.

PICK COMMITTEE TO GATHER PARK MERGER VOTES

John C. Bowers is chairman of the committee, Bernard E. Sunny is treasurer, and Douglas Sutherland is executive secretary. The park district act, if approved by the voters, will consolidate the city's 22 independent tax-spending park areas under one administrative board of five commissioners in place of the present separate boards with their 114 commissioners. Some of the small park district boards are opposed to the merger.

POPE PIUS LAUDS ROOSEVELT FOR AID TO JOBLESS

Grants Private Audience to Davenport Bishop.

VATICAN CITY, March 26.—(AP)—Pope Pius highly praised President Roosevelt's work for the unemployed today in a private audience granted Bishop Henry P. Rohlman of Davenport, Ia.

The pontiff told Bishop Rohlman the President is engaging in a highly Christian effort in a highly Christian spirit and said he is pleased with a report of results of this work.

His holiness said also that he is appreciative of Mr. Roosevelt's work in getting freedom of religion for Americans in Russia.

Pope Shows Knowledge of Farming.

The pope showed himself well acquainted with agricultural affairs, said Bishop Rohlman, as they discussed affairs of the bishop's diocese, set in the midst of an agricultural belt.

The bishop was told by Pipe Pius that he was fortunate to be located in an agricultural area, where, he said, people have so many advantages over residents of large cities.

When the bishop told him of a parish of 60 families, 50 of whom owned their own farms only to lose them as a result of the farm crisis, the pope said he is sure of a general improvement for agriculture.

Special Blessing for Sulpicians.

The holy father gave bishop Rohlman a special blessing for the Sulpician seminary, of which the bishop is president, and said he admired their work.

The high number of Catholic high schools in the Davenport diocese—21—also was remarked by the pope. He gave Bishop Rohlman a holy year medal.

Bishop Edward Joseph Kelly of Boise, Idaho, also was given a private audience by the pope. Bishop Kelly said his audience, which lasted 25 minutes, was most cordial.

Remarking at the size of the bishop's diocese, which includes all of Idaho, the pope said it was a great thing that the bishop was young. He added that he himself had not been tired in body or mind for one day during the holy year, despite tremendous work.

Prisoner Says Attorney Gave O'Gara Gun.

Attorney Harold W. Jirka, brother of Dr. Frank Jirka, state commissioner of health and son-in-law of the late Mayor Cermak, was seized and lodged in the county jail yesterday after he had been named in the confession of a prisoner in the jail as the man who smuggled a loaded revolver to Francis [Mickey] O'Gara, robber and parole violator.

Attorney Jirka is alleged to have furnished the weapon as a part of the unsuccessful plot of O'Gara, confessed participant in more than 40 local holdups, and five other prisoners to escape from jail early last Saturday morning. The plot was frustrated when the gun was found hidden in O'Gara's cell. The subsequent investigation brought reported threats from Sherif Meyering of a wholesale shake-up in the official jail personnel.

Tells of $6,000 Pledge.

Carl De Salvo, under sentence of a life term as a habitual criminal, was the prisoner who turned informer and gave the authorities the information which led to the arrest of Attorney Jirka in his apartment at 1259 Winnemac avenue. Jirka, according to the confession of De Salvo, was to have received $6,000 if the jail break had been successful.

In a brief hearing yesterday afternoon before Judge Daniel P. Trude of the Criminal court, Jirka was ordered to be tried before a jury on April 2 to determine whether he is sane. Three charges of operating a confidence game, previously filed against Jirka and stricken with leave to reinstate, also were reinstated yesterday. His bond in these cases was increased to $30,000.

Jirka is alleged to have defrauded three clients who had retained him in various lawsuits. The complainants in the three cases are Mary A. Brady, 2636 North Clark street; Lena Lomanto, 6444 North Francisco avenue, and Mrs. Mary Gara, 2233 North Oak Park avenue.

Attorney Drops Jirka.

Attorney Frank Tyrrell, original attorney for Jirka in the confidence game cases, appeared during the hearing and announced that he is "washed up" with the defendant.

"I befriended this man," Tyrrell told Judge Trude, "and gave him space in my office. I have not seen him for several weeks and I don't want anything more to do with the case."

According to the confession of De Salvo there were four others besides himself and O'Gara in the jail break plot. They are Harry Dobkin and Harry Grove, sentenced Saturday by Judge Walter P. Steffen to serve life sentences for the murder during a robbery of a loop handbook keeper; Harry Merck, Morris Barad, awaiting trial for robbery, and Frank Kerwin, awaiting trial in a robbery case.

Jail Guard Suspended.

The loaded gun was given to O'Gara, according to the De Salvo confession, in the lawyer's cage in the county jail, where attorneys are allowed to confer with their clients. Jirka, records showed, was De Salvo's attorney and had no known reason nor official permission to confer with O'Gara.

As the result of this disclosure, Jail Guard John L. Stapleton was suspended by Sherif Meyering pending an investigation of the plot. Asked how the conference between O'Gara and Jirka could have been arranged in violation of jail rules, the sherif said:

"It appears there was negligence on the part of the guard. I have written a letter to the county board asking that all lawyers' cages be screened in order that it would be impossible for attorneys to pass anything to their clients during conferences."

Details of Reported Plot.

The escape plot was arranged by the "grapevine" manner of communication in the jail, De Salvo said. By a system of prearranged signals by which information was relayed from cell to cell by means of code rappings on cell walls, Jirka was selected as the man to bring the gun to the jail, according to the confession.

It was specified that the revolver must be nickel plated, De Salvo said, because those in the plot were afraid that Dillinger's efforts with a wooden gun might cause guards to doubt the genuineness of a dark weapon.

Jirka, when he visited his client De Salvo, was told to see O'Gara about "a certain matter," jail authorities learned from the confession. The attorney made the visit, in violation of jail rules—just how being as yet a mystery—and, according to De Salvo, handed the loaded weapon to O'Gara at 10:30 o'clock Friday morning.

At that time, according to jail authorities, O'Gara outlined the manner in which the $6,000 fee for the attorney was to be collected. The proceeds of a series of bank robberies, holdups, and other criminal ventures was to provide the money in case of a successful escape.

De Salvo said that the escape was to have been accomplished at 6 o'clock Saturday morning when the prisoners were awakened and taken to the bull pen as usual. At that time O'Gara was to have called a jail guard and announced that he needed some water. When the guard appeared O'Gara was to have pressed the revolver into his body, disarm him and knock the guard unconscious.

O'Gara was to have taken the keys from the guard and unlocked the cells of the other conspirators. Freed from their cells, the prisoners were to have proceeded to the officers' corridor, smashed a window and lowered themselves to the jail court using ropes to be fashioned from bed sheets. Then, according to De Salvo, those included in the plot planned to scale the jail wall and meet armed confederates on 26th street near the jail.

Alleged Aides Seized.

Sam Garvase and Roy Brady, named in De Salvo's confession as the armed confederates awaiting the men, were seized by police and placed in the county jail.

After obtaining the confession of De Salvo, two police squads went to the apartment of Jirka and took him into custody. Jirka denied his guilt and pointed out that he was not the only one who had talked to O'Gara during the day which the gun was passed. The career of Jirka has been a checkered one for the last several years. The three confidence game charges against him, which were reinstated yesterday, were first brought in 1931. At that time he was found insane by a jury and ordered to Dunning while the charges were stricken with leave to reinstate. He later was found sane in the County court and was released.

It is understood that he had agreed to make restitution to complaining clients and also had agreed not to take a new law case.

Held on 3 Theft Counts.

De Salvo is being held on three charges of robbery. The record shows that on Jan. 22 he robbed Mrs. Blanche Sadowski, 1350 Dickson street, of her purse, containing $4.50, in a street robbery. The next day he went to Mrs. Sadowski's home and repeated the robbery, taking three rings. The other charge is the outgrowth of the robbery on Feb. 3 of Mrs. Albert Gorski, 1941 North Lincoln street, of $98.

The bureau of identification records show that De Salvo was sent to the Juvenile court on Jan. 27, 1915, for burglary. On Jan. 29, 1917 he was sentenced to Pontiac reformatory for burglary, but was paroled in December, 1919. He was sentenced to the penitentiary on May 6, 1920, for robbery, but the records do not show when or how he was released.

IOWA GIRL WHO QUIT GANDHI WED TO CHICAGOAN

Nila Cook Bride of Albert N. Hutchins.

New York, March 26.—(AP)—Nila Cram Cook, plump, brown eyed Iowa girl who became a disciple of Mahatma Gandhi in India, was married today to Albert N. Hutchins, who described himself as a writer.

"Hutchins was signed as a mess boy on the liner City of Elmwood, on which Miss Cook returned to New York on Saturday," said Frederick Fender, assistant superintendent of the International Mercantile Marine.

Tropical Romance Likely.

From this statement it was believed that this new romance in the life of the spectacular Miss Cook, who said upon her return "I want to play on the banks of the Mississippi," had its origin on shipboard, under tropical skies, after she was deported from India.

Hutchins pleaded with city officials at the municipal building that there be "no publicity." Miss Cook, daughter of the late poet George Cram Cook, gave her age as 25. Hutchins said he was 28, the son of William Hutchins of Chicago.

They arrived at 4 o'clock just as the marriage license bureau was closing, with Leslie Fulenwider and George S. O'Neal, who witnessed the marriage. Deputy City Clerk Thomas J. Barry performed the ceremony.

Three Shield Bride.

Miss Susan Glaspell, author and stepmother of Miss Cook, said at her home: "I didn't know a thing about it. Indeed, it is surprising news to me. Truly."

Miss Cook and her father left Davenport some years ago to live on the slopes of Mount Parnassus in Greece and there capture anew the classic spirit of life.

While in Greece she married Topolo Proestoes. That marriage ended in a divorce. They have a son, Serios, 6, who was with Miss Cook when she arrived Saturday.

Becomes Gandhi Disciple.

In 1931 she renounced occidental life on the theory that it provided no lasting spiritual pleasures and she became a follower of the Mahatma Gandhi. For days she remained on the doorstep of his room, sleeping there without protection from the weather.

She entered his seminary in the vale of Kashmir, but left abruptly after eight months, declaring that she sought again new pleasures, and Gandhi, displeased because she strayed from the flock, banned her from his presence.

Then British authorities declared her a vagrant, ordered her deported, and had her carried on board the liner City of Elmwood on Feb. 13, to be returned to the United States.

GERMANY TO GIVE WORKERS FREE VACATIONS AT SEA

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, March 26.—The German leisure organization, Strength Through Joy, announced today that every week during the summer 3,500 German workers would be taken on vacation tours aboard oceangoing German liners. These excursions are planned in fulfilment of the German Labor Front's promise to provide free vacations.

"Hundreds of thousands," it was announced, will be sent on free vacations this year. Most of them will go to different parts of Germany, particularly "bordering regions and regions of depression." Since the organization began its work a few months ago it has sent 12,000 city workers to winter resorts.

The sea trips are the big prizes in the vacation schedule. There will be cruises in the North and Baltic seas.

The proprietor of a large resort hotel who refused to entertain workers was put in the labor service army to dig ditches "to show him what National Socialism means."

N. YORK STATE POLICE CHIEF GIVES SECOND RECITAL ON PIANO

Albany, N. Y., March 26.—(AP)—Maj. John A. Warner, superintendent of New York state police, tonight gave his second piano recital of the winter before the Albany Community chorus, playing a difficult program from Bach, Chopin, and Wagner.

Last month the tall, muscular police superintendent, son-in-law of former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, played in his first recital in seventeen years. Albany music critics described his technique as "flawless."

In his office this afternoon the major was at work as usual. He spoke of the recital as if it were an every day occurrence.

"It's merely a part of the Community chorus program," he said.

He dropped music entirely for seventeen years and took it up again only recently. For ten years, he said, he had no piano in his home.

ORDERS TRANSIT LINES' RECEIVER CASES CONTINUED

Upon the suggestion of Attorney Walter L. Fisher and lawyers representing both senior and junior security interests, Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday continued indefinitly the receivership cases of the surface and elevated lines. The postponement was looked upon as being in the best interests of the bondholders, pending the working out of a new franchise ordinance by the city officials. Last week the city council voted to let the 1930 merger ordinance lapse on April 3.

Expressing unanimous confidence in the management of the transit properties under the federal receivership of Judge Wilkerson, spokesmen for the various bond protective committees at the hearing yesterday voiced opposition to any immediate forced foreclosure sale.

Ald. James B. Bowler, chairman of the council local transportation committee, said yesterday that on April 4 the city will request from Judge Wilkerson an order directing the receivers of the traction properties to establish the universal transfers between the surface and elevated systems.

A meeting of a sub-committee to begin work on the drafting of a new ordinance, which had been set for today, was postponed.

DEPUTY SHERIF FACES BARRAGE OF COAT HANGERS

Fifi D'Orsay Greets Server of Writ.

Cleveland, O., March 26.—(AP)—Sobs, screams, a shower of coat hangers and flying cold cream jars greeted Deputy Sherif Robert Montjoy today. He sought to serve a writ of attachment on Fifi D'Orsay, French-Canadian film actress, in her dressing room at a theater here.

"Every place I go for three years there are sherifs waiting for me. I am seek to death of the whole business," she stormed.

"I pay them $16,000 for booking me and all I get is a screen test," she said, stamping her feet and sobbing.

Finally Fifi's husband, Morris Hill, former University of Wisconsin athlete, prevailed upon the deputy to leave the room, but the storm grew worse instead of better.

The writ, obtained by a local law firm, calls for payment of $420 for legal services performed for the actress when she appeared here in 1931.

Reports that Bobbe Arnst, musical comedy actress, will marry Robert A. Cavanaugh, Yale graduate and Chicago lawyer, in the near future, probably at Greenwich, Conn., were confirmed by Cavanaugh last night. Rumors of the couple's engagement have been circulated for sometime.

Cavanaugh, who practices law at 332 South Michigan avenue and resides at 1500 Lake Shore drive, married Katherine Kane of Winnetka on Sept. 13, 1924, and was divorced by her last Aug. 19.

Cavanaugh is 30 years old. He said he met Miss Arnst four or five months ago when she was making a stage appearance in Chicago. Following their marriage, he said, they will live here.

DEMANDS HOUSE VOTE INQUIRY ON WIRT'S CHARGES

Speeches of New Dealers Are Recalled.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 26.—[Special.]—While the utterances of numerous members of the Roosevelt brain trust and other new dealers proclaiming a revolution were being recalled, the house addressed itself today to the question of investigating the charges of Dr. William A. Wirt, Gary, Ind., educator, that the brain trusters are plotting the overthrow of our form of government.

Representative Alfred L. Bulwinkle [Dem., N. C.] introduced a resolution calling for an investigation of the charges by a select committee of five members. Speaker Rainey referred the resolution to the rules committee and Mr. Bulwinkle announced he would ask a prompt hearing on the question of recommending its adoption.

Little Enthusiasm Shown.

The Democratic leaders of the house, whether because of or in the absence of instructions from the White House, evinced little enthusiasm for a house inquiry. Majority Leader Joseph W. Byrns [Dem., Tenn.] said the charges should be investigated but would not say he would ask the rules committee to report the Bulwinkle resolution.

Speaker Rainey sought to discredit Dr. Wirt in a public statement in which he said that the investigation should be made by the department of justice. Inasmuch as a department of justice inquiry would be secret the speaker was accused at once of seeking to hush up and whitewash the charges.

"The publicity which is being given the statements of Dr. Wirt demands an investigation by a competent branch of the government," said Mr. Rainey. "If it is true that we are in the process of 'a deliberately planned American revolution,' and if it is true, as Dr. Wirt states, that certain persons prominent in the reconstruction program made declarations of that character, it should, of course, be investigated.

"Difficult to Believe."

"Dr. Wirt, as I understand it, is a school teacher in Indiana. It is difficult indeed to believe that conspirators would divulge their plans to Dr. Wirt.

"If there are men, little or big, connected with the recovery movement who have made the statements he alleges, whether they were serious or joking, Dr. Wirt should give their names. His refusal to do it brands him as a mere publicity seeker, determined to sabotage the recovery program of the administration as much as possible.

"If the charges are true, and if a revolution is in progress, the men who are responsible for it are guilty of treason under the constitution of the United States. And the matter should be investigated by the department of justice. If the statements he alleges were made as a joke the men who made them ought to be at once severed from their connection with the recovery program. If the statements were seriously made, and if they are plotting to overthrow the government, the department of justice will know what to do in the matter.

"Dr. Wirt can render a patriotic service, if he wants to render a patriotic service, by giving the information at once to the department of justice so that they can carry on the only kind of an investigation which would result in proper treatment for the men who are participating in his alleged revolution."

Senator Ready to Act.

If the house should fail to order an investigation, several senators will move an inquiry by the upper house. One of them is Senator Thomas D. Schall [Rep., Minn.], who had this to say on the matter:

"If the charges made by Dr. W. A. Wirt that a conspiracy exists among the professors surrounding President Roosevelt to destroy our government and substitute communism for it can be proven—this is treason."

Everywhere today there was speculation on the identity of the brain truster who told Dr. Wirt that Mr. Roosevelt is merely the "Kerensky of this revolution," who, in due time, will be supplanted by a Stalin. The reputed remark has received wide credence because of the radical utterances of many members of the brain trust. "Revolution" has been a word looming large in their public and private discussions of the objectives of the new deal.

Uses "Revolution" Once.

Up to the time he took office Mr. Roosevelt had not presented himself to the public as a revolutionary leader. Only once during the election canvass his biographer, Ernest K. Lindley, points out, had he uttered the word revolution at all. He said his election would be more than a victory; it would be a "revolution—the right kind, the only kind of revolution this country can stand for—a revolution at the ballot box."

If he had any definite conception of the bloodless social and economic revolution he was to lead he touched upon it only vaguely in his campaign speeches, as at the Commonwealth club, San Francisco, where he advocated a new "economic constitutional order" comprising a partnership between the government and business enterprise, a foreshadowing of the NRA.

In a revision of previous utterances issued about the time of his inauguration the President expressed the belief that "we are at the threshold of a fundamental change in our economic thought."

Mr. Tugwell's View.

That the new deal does not envisage that sanctity of property which constituted the corner stone of the capitalistic system nor the regard of enterprise and superior intelligence was disclosed by Prof. Rexford G. Tugwell, a leading member of the Roosevelt brain trust and assistant secretary of agriculture, who was one of the architects of the NRA.

In his Chicago speech Oct. 28 last, Dr. Tugwell said the restoration of the "old gold standard" would mean a "shylock's collection from debtors which can be stored away and made safe from the vicissitudes which beset less cautious or less lucky people."

"It seems to me a mistake," he continued, "to provide flands of safety in a changing world to which some of us may retreat clutching certain sterile goods, and especially that this retreat should be particularly designed for the protection of the gains which are got from the sabotage of recovery."

On another occasion Dr. Tugwell explained that "we are turning our back on the policeman doctrine of government and recapturing the vision of a government equipped to fight and overcome the forces of economic disintegration. A strong government with an executive amply powered by legislative delegation is the one way out of our dilemma."

And Mr. Richberg.

Donald Richberg, veteran radical leading framer of the NIRA and now drawing $12,000, the highest salary, as general counsel for the NRA, saluted the revolution on July 31 in these words:

"Sometimes when I see well fed, jovial men, and well dressed, cheerful women chatting in their comfortable homes, I wonder how many of the fortunate people in this country understand that the long discussed revolution is actually under way in the United States. There is no need to prophesy it is here. It is in process.

"In many other countries there have been revolutions since the world war, each one with surprisingly little bloodshed but with a tremendous exercise of force and oppressive power. In this land of ours we are attempting the greatest experiment in history. Revolution by the sword and revolution by the pen and the voice are different.

"The violent overthrow of parliaments and rulers is nothing new, but the peaceful transition of all departments of government from one fundamental concept of a political economic system to another is different. It is a fact that today the American people are undertaking a revolutionary experiment in self-government."

Wallace Expounds Theory.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace has expounded on several occasions the revolutionary character of the new deal, particularly the theory of the subordination of profit in business. At Muncie, Ind., on Nov. 14 he said:

"The supreme function of businessmen as I see it is not to make a profit, although a certain amount of that is necessary, as long as we are under a capitalistic system—but to run the business machine so as to maintain fair balance between productive and consumptive forces, and especially between farmers and laboring men.

"We need a new type of business man who is willing to work out the national or international balances, whoever they may prove to be, and who is willing to devote all his talents to bringing about a fair workable relationship between the income of labor, the income of agriculture, and at the same time receive only a small return on capital and a modest salary. If the 'new deal' means anything it means the subordination of capital rights and property rights to human rights.

"This is a glorious theory. The problem is to give it tangible form. We have done extraordinary things in Washington during the last eight months, but I think out accomplishments so far are but the faintest foreshadowing of what is necessary."

Gen. Johnson Quoted.

Gen. Johnson, field marshal of the Roosevelt revolution has interpreted the New Deal in numerous speeches from which the following excerpts are drawn:

"We have had many periods of prosperity. The trouble was that it wasn't evenly enough spread over the country. Too much of profit went back to build new factories and too little went to let people buy the products of the factories we already had. That was bad both ways. It produced too much and it consumed too little. Also too great a share of prosperity went to too few people.

"As long as human beings are what they are one man will earn more than another, but there must be a limit to this if we are to keep our country going. Just because a man has a million dollars he doesn't actually consume very much more than a man who has a thousand dollars. The very rich do not buy forty dollars worth of ham and eggs for breakfast. If we want to keep our country going we have got to find a way to let everybody buy half a dollar's worth of ham and eggs."

Need "New Safety Valve.

"A human economic and political system has failed when people can no longer live under it by their own efforts. We must substitute for the old safety valve of free land and new horizons a new safety valve of economic readjustment.

"This is a profound change in economic policy of a great nation. It is something new under the sun. It is the President's own concept. No exponent of economic theory suggested this plan to him.

"In this new scheme of things, labor organization has a new place that it never occupied before—new duties, new benefits, new responsibilities.'"

SIX 'BRAIN TRUSTERS' DENY THEY PLAN TO START REVOLUTION

New York, March 26.—[Special.]—Six members of the Roosevelt "brain trust" today denied that they imparted to William A. Wirt, Gary, Ind., school superintendent, details of a plot to supplant President Roosevelt with a Stalin. James H. Rand Jr. outlined such an enterprise before a house committee last Friday.

Federal Trade Commissioner James M. Landis.

William I. Myers, head of the farm credit administration vice Henry Morgenthau. Mr. Myers also is a Cornell professor.

Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Tugwell said he couldn't identify the "brain trust."

"I was greatly surprised, not to say amused," he said, over the telephone from Washington. "I had never heard of Dr. Wirt before."

CALLED VICTIM OF JOKE

The latest quirk in the "revolution" charges directed at the administration's brain trust by Dr. William A. Wirt, Gary educator, is the report that Dr. Wirt was the victim of a practical joke.

From Washington came the story yesterday that while Dr. Wirt was in the capital last summer he was a guest at a cocktail party attended by a number of the younger administration workers. The young "brain trusters," according to this version, plied Dr. Wirt with fearsome plans for their revolution, the overthrowing of the President, and the elevation of an "American Stalin."

Then, so the story goes, the joke got out of hand and became a serious national problem—so the culprits are afraid to confess. Whether this report is a true one or not, Dr. Wirt, when questioned last night, refused to make any comment.

GIDEONSE CALLS WIRT A VOICE OF INFLATION LOBBY

Prof. Harry Gideonse of the economics department at the University of Chicago yesterday termed the charges of Dr. William A. Wirt, Gary educator, merely a scheme to discredit the "brain trust" so that a congressional lobby now advocating inflation will win the President's favor.

Prof. Gideonse said that Dr. Wirt is a member of a lobbying group known as the Committee on the Nation, whose representatives in congress are doing everything they can to advance the inflation program. The opposition of the "brain trust" to the lobby's desires has led to Dr. Wirt's outburst in retaliation, Prof. Gideonse declared. He pointed out that Dr. Wirt is a strong supporter of Indiana farmers who favor inflation.

"When it is discovered that Dr. Wirt is a member of this lobbying committee," asserted Prof. Gideonse, "what he has said about the 'brain trust' will not be taken so seriously. The revelation will clearly show the motive back of his attack."

ADMITS STARTING CAFE FIRE; 2 HELD, TWO ARE SOUGHT

Confessing that he and a companion started a fire which several weeks ago razed a restaurant at the southeast corner of Montrose and Narragansett avenue, William Haas, 19 years old, 1103 Central avenue, Forest Park, was charged yesterday with arson and attempting to defraud an insurance company.

William Garamony, owner of the restaurant, was seized and booked on similar charges. Warants were issued for his wife and Charles Nicasia, 931 Anna avenue, Forest Park, whom Haas named as his companion. The arrests were made by Lieut. Joseph McDowell of the Irving Park station on orders from the state fire marshal's office.

"Garamony gave Nicasia and me $25 each for the job," Haas is reported to have told First Deputy Fire Marshal Frank Doherty. "We soaked the place with gasoline and touched it off. Garamony said he had $2,500 insurance on the furnishings."

DR. WIRT CALLS SANER MINDS TO ROOSEVELT'S AID

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.

Congress has virtually abdicated and will never regain its power of legislation unless a complete investigation is made into the motives and influence of the "brain trust." The new congress will find itself thwarted at every turn unless the present session acts to curtail the power of the brain trust.

With these statements Dr. William A. Wirt, the Gary educator, yesterday amplified his previous declaration that during the next two months legislation will probably be passed "which will make all elections to congress unimportant."

"There is no point," said Dr. Wirt, "in having the people select their representatives when their present representatives have practically abdicated and a new session would find itself beaten before it started."

Hits "Advance Consent."

Dr. Wirt referred particularly to the "advance consent" provisions in many on the national recovery administration codes. These codes, he had previously explained, allow the government to be judge, jury, and prosecutor. A man entering into an agreement with the government under the codes, he said, can beo rdered under threat of punishment to consent in advance to any regulation of decree which the government "decides is good for him."

"What can congress do to counteract the evils that might arise in view of these strict provisions whereby the individual has signed away his recourse by agreeing to the code?" Dr. Wirt said.

"We have shredded our liberties to the administrators," he said, "and if we come to the point where the government can compel arbitration in labor disputes and forbid strikes, we are doing just what Hitler has done. The whole idea of 'cracking down' is wrong."

Discusses Threat Charge.

Discussing his charge that 100 intellectual radicals of the brain trust had threatened to resign unless President Roosevelt "went along with them," Dr. Wirt reiterated his statements that the President's motives could not be impugned.

"But this action of the intellectual radicals is as raw a thing as ever happened to any President," Dr. Wirt declared. "President Roosevelt is trying to act as a judge. But so far he has heard only one side. His old friends, the solid constitutionalists, have not come to the front.

"I don't know why. They should be with him now. The country needs their counsel, and the President would probably welcome a more strenuous presentation by the constitutionalists of their side of the case. This is a call to arms to the constitutionalists."

In his home at 750 Jackson avenue, Gary, Dr. Wirt was in readiness yesterday to go to Washington and testify before a congressional committee if he is summoned. He said that he would not reveal the names of the members of the brain trust who gave him his information of the "plotted revolution" unless he deems it necessary to do so before a congressional committee "for the welfare of the people."

All day yesterday the telephone was ringing in Dr. Wirt's modest home, with people in Gary and throughout the country calling him to commend him and disagree with him. Most of the calls were congratulatory, as are most of the 500 letters he has received in the last few days. He has, however, received several threats against his life.

One letter which Dr. Wirt made public was mailed at Buffalo, N. Y., typewritten, and signed "A Faithful Member of the United States of America Royal Citizen Secret Society." The writer threatened Dr. Wirt with death. Dr. Wirt disclosed the contents of the letter to emphasize that he did not want his motives misinterpreted.

Willing to Make Sacrifice.

"I am not threatening any one at Washington or trying to hold a sword over their heads," he said, "but the consciousness of the American people must be aroused. Some one must tell them what is going on. I am merely repeating what has been told me and what has been published before but not read widely. If some one must be sacrificed to make the people aware I am willing to be the one."

Dr. Wirt said that he did not take the threat seriously and had not asked for police protection.

Another communication he received yesterday was a telegram from San Francisco in which the sender suggested that Dr. Wirt's charges be investigated by a "committee of outstanding citizens free from any suspicion of partisanship or pussyfooting." Dr. Wirt would not comment on the suggestion.

ECONOMIC PLANNING DOOMED TO FAILURE, SAYS DEAN HEILMAN

Long time economic planning is incompatible with democracy and impractical as a cure for depressions, Dean Ralph E. Heilman of the Northwestern university school of commerce declared yesterday in addressing the Junior Association of Commerce at the Great Northern hotel.

Such a course is doomed to failure for three reasons, he said. First, war between nations would upset any balance. Second, the plan would have to be enforced in all countries of the world to maintain its course. Lastly, he said, consistency in following a single plan over a period of years is incompatible with a democratic form of government, whose essence is change and the conflict between groups and interests.

To harmonize all these interests is an unattainable goal, but even if it were attainable it would be undesirable, Dean Heilman said.

"While 'economic planning' are very soft words," he said, "we find strict compulsion necessarily lies behind them. Every branch of industry would have to be placed under the dictatorship of some board or commission."

CLEANERS TELL OF DR. SQUIRES' FIGHT ON GANG

Assail Conspiracy Charge at Racket Trial.

BY GEORGE WRIGHT.

Dr. Benjamin F. Squires, University of Chicago economist, entered no conspiracy with Al Capone and his gang and instead fought the gangsters with every resource at his command. Testimony to this effect was given yesterday to the jury in Judge Philip J. Finnegan's Criminal court, where Dr. Squires is one of the eighteen defendants in the racket conspiracy trial.

Owners of cleaning and dyeing plants throughout the city took the witness stand in behalf of Dr. Squires and told how he stabilized the industry through the establishment of the Cleaning and Dyeing institute. This was the first defense testimony to be introduced in the trial, which has been in progress since Jan. 4.

Typical Defense Witness.

The testimony of Adolph Roth, 2417 North Western avenue, head of the Star Cleaners, was typical of that of a dozen other owners of cleaning and dyeing plants. Roth said Squires had told the members of the industry that Capone was trying to chisel into the business, but would get in only "over his [Squire's] dead body."

The story told by Roth in between a barrage of objections from Assistant State's Attorneys Edwin J. Raber and Thomas Dodd Healy, was substantially as follows:

"The Cleaning and Dyeing industry was demoralized by the fact that out of town cleaners were advertising prices ranging from 39 cents to $1 per garment while local prices were at a minimum of $1.75 for a man's suit and $2.25 for a woman's dress. Considerable work was being sent out of town. About the same time the inside workers union was talking of establishing a plant of its own to compete with the employers."

Employés Locked Out.

The owners locked out the employés because of this threat of competition, Roth said. Dr. Squires was brought in as arbitrator. He settled the differences and established a price of $1 per garment. The institute was then formed and each firm contributed 2 per cent of its profits for the maintenance of the institute.

James P. Gorman was appointed labor commissioner to stop chiseling in the industry.

Roth testified that for a time the business operated peacefully until the members of the institute were summoned to a meeting in the Knickerbocker hotel. Dr. Squires, Gorman, and Attorney Morris Kaplan, another defendant, told of overtures of Capone to get into the industry and police it for half of the money being paid in the institute.

"Dr. Squires said the gangsters would get in only over his dead body," said Roth, under questioning by Attorney James McShane. "He said the industry could either have Capone or Dr. Squires, but not both. We voted unanimously to follow Dr. Squires."

"Rope Around Our Neck."

"At that same meeting Attorney Kaplan told us that it was easy to get in with the gangsters," the witness said, "but once we did, they would have a rope around our neck and we never would get them out."

Q.—Did Squires help the industry?
A.—It kept me in business.

In addition to the testimony of the cleaning plant owners, the defense also produced a number of character witnesses, among them Mark Cresap, chairman of the board of Hart, Schaffner & Marx, and James Mullenback, labor arbitrator and professor. Squires will take the witness stand in his own behalf this morning.

Ald. Oscar Nelson, one of the defendants, won an important victory at the morning session of court when Judge Finnegan ruled out the prosecution testimony of Nell Wolf, which was to the effect that the alderman was at the office of the late Edward J. Brundage, one time attorney general, at the same time Al Capone was in the office.

Another development yesterday was the announcement that the grand jury voted true bills for conspiracy against Harold Johnson, former Lexington hotel clerk, and Thomas Doyle, an investigator for the defense. It is charged that Doyle persuaded Johnson to commit perjury regarding the payment of money to Capone by one of the cleaners.

CCC BOY PHONES MOTHER WHILE AT WHITE HOUSE

Higginsville, Mo., March 26.—(AP)—The telephone rang in the home of Mrs. Charles Kresse Saturday.

"The White House calling," the operator said. Over the wire came the voice of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt. She told Mrs. Kresse of a visit to a Civilian Conservation Corps camp in Washington at which Mrs. Kresse's son, Albert William, did such a good job of acting as guide that the first lady invited him to the White House.

Then Mrs. Roosevelt turned the telephone over to Albert William, who was so excited he hardly knew what to say.

"And you talked to the President's wife?" the townspeople asked Mrs. Kresse today. "Well, well——"

AMERICA'S Smoothest CIGARETTE

EXPECT PROCESS TO EXTRACT GOLD FROM SEA WATER

Chemists Already Getting Bromine Profitably.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 26.—(AP)—A chemical innovation which promises to tap profitably some of the three quadrillion dollars' worth of gold in the sea was announced to the American Chemical society here today.

This promise, not only of gold, but silver, radium, tin, iron, nickel, lead, vanadium, mercury, and nearly a score of other minerals, appeared in the first report of a dazzling commercial success, made by a new kind of chemical plant that opened two months ago near Wilmington, N. C.

The plant takes bromine from Atlantic ocean tidewater. To the chemists it was described as the "wildest and boldest" American commercial venture in a decade. Already, from a flow of 25,000 gallons of sea water a minute, it is taking bromine at the rate of a million dollars' worth a year.

It is the first big break into the mineral treasures of the ocean. Chemists describe it as the beginning of a new industrial era. They estimate ten years will be needed to perfect extraction of the metal which is to follow bromine.

Automotive Initiative Again.

The story of bromine, as told today, showed how it is likely to be done. The Wilmington bromine plant was erected by the Ethyl-Dow Chemical company. This company was formed jointly by the Dow Chemical company and the Ethyl Gasoline corporation. Its process, including new gold discoveries, was described by Willard H. Dow of the Dow company, Thomas Midgley Jr., vice president of the Ethyl Gasoline company, and other chemists.

The American automobile, they said, really built this seawater plant. Demand for anti-knock fuels required more bromine than was in sight ten years ago in the land source, certain rare "bitter water" wells.

At the start the only seawater process suggested was to pump some of the Pacific ocean over the Rocky mountains into an artificial lake in a desert, there to let it evaporate into "bitter water." The whole project was regarded as an utter impossibility.

Reveal Precious Metals.

But the gold from anti-knock fuels kept the scientists at work. In the end they hit on a sea bromine extraction formula as simple as a high school chemistry lesson.

In the Wilmington plant they discovered that the bromine process was "ionizing" the gold in the Atlantic seawater. It was giving the almost infinitly minute dissolved gold particles an electrical charge by which they may be attracted to stick to filters.

Spectroscopes revealed several pounds of ionized gold in the 25,020 gallons a minute flow; twice as much ionized silver, and considerable ionized mercury.

Ordinarily, said the scientists, the mere expense of pumping 25,000 gallons a minute would make it hopeless to take out the gold at a profit, even after the filter formula should be discovered.

But with bromine paying the pumping bill, and a good profit besides, gold becomes a prospective by-product. The same applies to all the other sea minerals.

San Francisco Bay.

The gold in the sea is unequally divided. A study by Dr. Fritz Haber, the German Nobel prize winner who died a few weeks ago, showed it most abundant in the fiords of Norway, where he found two-tenths of one part in a million. It was supposed to be dissolved out of the granite bottoms of the fiords.

The second richest sea gold was in San Francisco bay. There it was thought to come from gold bearing sands flowing into the bay from the Scramento river.

On the Atlantic coast the gold content assayed at about one part of gold for a billion parts of water. There the bromine which is now extracted profitably is about 70 parts in a million.

But its value rose to about 10 million dollars a cubic mile when the United States raised the price.

In the whole world there are about 300 million cubic miles of seawater. At the American gold price this is three quadrillion dollars worth in the sea.

DISBAR LAWYERS WHO AID CROOKS, PLEA OF LOESCH

Crime Commission Head Speaks in Racine.

Racine, Wis., March 26.—[Special.]—Disbarment of the lawyer-criminal was urged tonight as a crime deterrent by Frank J. Loesch, veteran crime fighting president of the Chicago Crime commission, in an address before the Racine County Bar association.

"I denounce the criminal lawyer, who is a greater criminal than his client because he advises and consorts with him and on arrest protects him by criminal practices," Mr. Loesch said. "Let each bar cleanse itself of every disreputable practitioner. Criminal lawyers of odorous reputation are tolerated and recognized professionally when they should be ousted from their bar associations and disbarred."

Ethical lawyers, too, should follow more strictly the code of their profession, he added. When occasion arises such lawyers should advise clients to prosecute criminals of any degree and not evade that duty or compound a felony, he explained.

Offers 10-Point Program.

These were two features of a 10-point program offered by the 81 year old veteran of the bar to cure crime. He declared the challenge of the organized criminal should be met by every lawyer as a leader even to the end of "confining the criminal to some American iland available for those whose anti-social conduct forbids their return to society."

Among his other remedies he listed better equipment and training of police, state crime laboratories, reform of criminal procedure, coöperation of state, national, and municipal crime fighting units, taking police out of control of politicians, appointment of judges and prosecutors for long terms, and the divorce of the alliance between crime and politics.

"As a first requisite police should be taken out of the control of politicians wherever they are under such control, and that is in 99 per cent of the cities of the United States," Mr. Loesch said. "Closely related is the alliance of crime and politics.

Urges Honest Elections.

"Lawyers can by a united front, through legal safeguards, secure honest primaries and elections to end the alliances, which are based on fraudulent elections. The criminal produces the fraudulent votes which keep the corrupt politicians in power or in office. In return the latter give to the criminal secret protection against arrest or prosecution."

Of long terms for judges and prosecutors he said a long elective term would be more desirable than present short terms, but long term appointment by governors would be more ideal. Under the latter system the paralyzing and corrupting hand of the crooked politician would be removed to permit such officials to give the greatest degree of service.

BAR SUMMONS 2 ATTORNEYS ON ICKES' CHARGES

High Court Commission Will Hear Case.

In the oak paneled conference room at the headquarters of the Chicago Bar association, 160 North La Salle street, members of the association's board of managers and grievance committee met solemnly yesterday in their capacity as commissioners of the Illinois Supreme court. With all the dignity of an en banc court hearing they opened the first important case under the powers vested in them by the high court last April 21.

The charges of "unprofessional conduct" placed against Attorney Lucius J. M. Malmin, former federal judge of the Virgin ilands, and Attorney C. W. Larsen, former assistant city corporation counsel, by Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes, were formally presented and read. The complaint alleges the attorneys made a false attack on Ickes' reputation and threatened to make their charges public unless they got federal jobs.

Ten Days to File Answer.

The hearing made the charges a matter of record in the same manner as a suit or an indictment is brought into court. In keeping with court procedure the commissioners gave the respondent attorneys ten days to file an answer to the charges. As neither of the attorneys was present the commissioners ordered that notice be served upon them. The hearing was then adjourned.

The new method of hearing complaints against lawyers, which is said to place Illinois in advance of sister states, was instituted under a rule of the State Supreme court on the recommendation of the Chicago and Illinois Bar Associations. It was advocated as a measure to speed justice.

Old System Speeded Up.

Under the former system in Chicago an investigation was conducted by the grievance committee of the Chicago Bar association. After formal complaint was filed with the Supreme court, a special commissioner was named to hear all the evvidence previously collected by the association. In avoiding such duplication the new method has greatly speeded investigations. The bar commission now gathers the evidence and presents it to the Supreme court with a recommendation on disciplinary action.

It was said that a hearing date in the case of Malmin and Larsen may be set April 5, by which time the answers will have been filed. The convenience of Secretary Ickes, who said he will personally appear to press the charges, will probably determine the date of the hearing, which will be public because the Supreme court rule so orders unless the accused demure. Malmin and Larsen have said they would demand a public hearing.

Attorneys Promise Denials.

They have said their answer to the charges would embody statements of denial they made when Ickes forwarded his complaint from Washington on Saturday.

Malmin and Larsen said their actions in the entire matter were motivated by friendship for Ickes. The charges grow out of administration of an estate in the Probate court here in 1929 in which Ickes represented the administrator and Larsen represented an heir, who alleged that Ickes' management had reduced her share of the estate. Malmin entered the case last June when he was asked by Larsen to present the complaint of the heir to Ickes.

JUDGES CONSIDER HOLDING 2 COURT SESSIONS A DAY

Longer Hours Planned to Clean Up Dockets.

New methods of handling the court calls, which will prevent judges from cleaning up the day's work within an hour after court opens and then leaving for the day, were being devised by a committee of the Criminal court judges yesterday in an effort to comply with the request of State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney that the dockets be cleaned up.

Instead of each Criminal court judge having a single court call answerable at 10 o'clock in the morning, the new plan will provide for two calls each day, one in the morning and another at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. By this method judges will not be able to leave before noon as has been done frequently in the past.

By the new system if a judge manages to finish his morning call he still will have cases on reserve by the 2 o'clock call to give him an opportunity, if he desires, to put in the full five hours each day as provided by the court rules. The judges are supposed to work 2½ hours in the morning and a similar period in the afternoon. A survey of the courts yesterday showed at least three judges had disposed of the day's work before noon.

An illustration of the present system was disclosed, Prosecutor Courtney pointed out, by what occurred in one of the courts yesterday. The judge had three cases on his call to start the day. By 11 o'clock he disposed of all cases on short bench trials. He had nothing to do the remainder of the day except to attend the judges' meeting at noon. If the judge had a 2 o'clock call he would have had cases to keep him busy during the afternoon period.

700 Cases Pending.

Chief Justice Philip J. Finnegan read to the judges at the meeting the letter from Prosecutor Courtney citing the fact that more than 700 cases are now pending. The judges decided to break the traditional rule of closing the court on Good Friday and to put in an extra day of work.

Another move to speed up was decided on in concentrating all the public defender cases in the court of Judge Grover C. Niemeyer. Judge Francis Allegretti, who shared this job with Judge Niemeyer, will start handling a regular call.

A committee consisting of Judge Donald S. McKinlay, Judge Walter P. Steffen, and Judge Harry B. Miller was appointed to revise the court rules and to devise ways to speed up procedure.

Joseph Zaccagenni, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Thomas J. Lynch.

William Donovan and Lawrence O'Brien, who are nearing completion of prison terms for their part in the $135,000 Evergreen Park mail robbery, were sentenced yesterday to serve one year and a day for perjury in connection with the trial of other members of the gang. They pleaded guilty to the charge before Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan.

The court ordered that the sentences begin immediately, lengthening their stay in Leavenworth penitentiary by several months. Donovan's seven and one-half year term would have expired May 13 with time off for good behavior. He was paroled last November, but was reimprisoned when the pending charge was recalled. O'Brien (not the former state legislator sentenced for income tax fraud), serving a nine and one-half year sentence, would have been eligible for parole in October.

DAIRYMAN RUNS INTO A MAZE OF BRAIN TRUST WOE

AAA Threatens Ruin to His Modest Business.

BY JOSEPH ATOR.

As a dairy farmer who is also a milk distributor, Charley (he'd just as soon have his last name kept secret) thought he was familiar with all the woes that beset the Chicago milk business. But that was before he ran afoul of the Washington brain trusters.

Yesterday, after looking over the stack of reports and questionnaires which the brain trusters demand that Charley (as a milk dealer) fill out to help the agricultural adjustment administration in its proposal to save the economic hide of Charley (as a farmer), Charley decided that he has three courses open to him, all unpleasant.

Might Hire a Bookkeeper.

He can satisfy the brain trusters' passion for statistics by hiring a full time bookkeeper at a cost which would exceed 5 per cent of the gross receipts of his little business. Or he can tell the AAA to go to the devil, trusting that some court will hold that its demands upon him are illegal or unconstitutional. Or as the third alternative he can shut up shop entirely.

Charley started his milk business in the same way that most of Chicago's milk distributors, big and little, started out in past decades. Several years ago he began peddling milk from his own cows in a village near his Lake county farm. His retail business prospered and presently he was buying milk from other farmers. Now he operates several routes of his own. Also he buys, pasteurizes, and bottles milk and cream which he sells to two other delivery men.

Of the 400-odd milk distributors in the Chicago area about a hundred operate in about the same fashion that Charley does.

Trouble and More Trouble.

Charley had his troubles under the first AAA milk control plan, the marketing agreement No. 1 which blew up in a futile attempt to maintain an artificially high price to the consumer, but that is history now. His present woes grow out of the licensing plan promulgated from Washington to replace the first plan. The new plan is to fix only the price paid by the distributor to the farmer.

As a distributor Charley was informed by Frank C. Baker, milk administrator for the Chicago area, that he would have to comply with the licensing plan. Mr. Baker at the end of February sent him a blank report form to be filled out on the amount of his business.

That was quite a complicated report. The young fellow from the nearby village, who for $25 a month kept Charley's accounts in the evenings, spent four nights getting it out. But in the words of Gen. Johnson, Charley hadn't seen nothin' yet. A few days later he heard from the brain trusters in Washington. He heard from them again and again, until he is afraid to go down to his mailbox any more for fear of meeting another statistical headache.

A Maze of Figures.

One of the reports demanded of him, a monthly form, is a complete analysis of all of his milk sales. It contains 715 spaces to be filled in with figures, and some of those single figures would require an hour or so of arithmetical labor. Among other things it demands the butterfat content of every variety of milk and cream which Charley sells.

Now, dairymen explain, every dairy is equipped for butterfat tests, which are made by adding hot water and acid to milk in a graduated container and spinning it in a little whirligig contrivance called a centrifuge. This device measures the butter fat in each sample of milk tested. Farmers sell their milk to dealers on a butterfat content basis, getting premiums or accepting discounts accordingly as it is above or below a standard of 3.5 per cent.

Few small dairymen, however, test the butter content of the milk after they bottle it. The law fixes a certain minimum below which the butterfat content may not fall, but in the case of Charley and many other little milk merchants the milk sold is always well above that minimum, so tests are unnecessary.

More Work for Farm Hand.

Charley ascribes the growth of his business to the rich milk and cream which he sells. If he is to satisfy the brain trusters one of his employés must spend a half hour or hour every day testing bottled milk.

Compared with the analytical sales report, the report of purchases, with only 288 blanks to be filled in, appears comparatively simple. It may be noted, however, that it requires Charley to give an average butterfat content of all the milk he buys, which is no small job.

But these reports are just schoolboy stuff alongside the one which Charley got from Washington the other day with orders to fill out and return. It bears the title, "Distributors' Confidential Report of Profit and Loss, with Balance Sheet and Cost Statistics." The information is demanded for the year 1933, a period which had elapsed before the marketing agreement under which Charley is operating was promulgated.

Job for Expert Accountant.

The profit and loss statement runs to fifty lines and seven columns, complete with references and cross-references and a table entitled "Basis of Converting Purchases and Inventory to Fluid Milk Equivalent in Pounds," complete to four decimal places. The balance sheet is equally complex and two fearsome affidavits are attached for signature.

Charley's evening bookkeeper had given up long before this last report form arrived. Charley showed it and the previous reports to a friend who is an accountant and asked what he was to do.

"Well," said his friend, "to keep a set of books which will furnish information such as these reports require you will have to have a full time accountant, and a good one. Even in these times he would cost you around $150 a month."

"How can I pay any bookkeeper $150 a month to keep track of a business where my total sales are only $2,500 a month?" asked Charley.

"Don't ask me," replied his friend. "Ask the AAA."

Baker Enters a Disclaimer.

Mr. Baker, the local milk administrator, denied any knowledge of or responsibility for the Washington statistical demands yesterday. His own reports, he asserted, are comparatively simple—and they are, in comparison with what the brain trusters are asking.

Charley, of course, is a farmer and has a hearty respect for the federal government. To date he hasn't considered seriously the possibility of ignoring the demands made on him from Washington. But an officer of a big Chicago milk company, which pays several attorneys a yearly retainer to advise it as to its legal rights, was asked yesterday whether his company will return to Washington the profit and loss report demanded on its 1933 operations.

"We will not," he said. "The last time we were asked for such information we gave it freely and Henry Wallace took our figures, twisted them around, and went up to Madison and charged that we were making 25 per cent a year. If the AAA wants any more such information it can go get a court order for it and I don't think they'll be willing to let the courts pass on such a demand."

Bundesen Reports Decline in Amebic Dysentery Cases

March will record a further decrease in the number of cases of amebic dysentary reported in Chicago by Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health, said yesterday. Twenty-three cases have been discovered to date this month, the smallest number since the epidemic became known last October. In that month there were 28 cases, while 13 were reported in August and 14 in September. The peak was reached with 120 during November. Cases during other months: December, 71; January, 56; February, 34.

WALLACE REVOKES LICENSE OF LOMBARD MILK DISTRIBUTOR

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace yesterday announced in Washington the first revocation of a milk dealers' license to sell milk in the Chicago area by canceling the permit of Lloyd V. Shissler of Lombard to operate as a milk distributor. The order became effective immediately.

Shissler was charged by the agricultural adjustment administration with violating some of the terms of the blanket milk license issued by Wallace on Feb. 5. He was ordered, along with the Peoples' Dairy of Cicero, controled by Shissler, to show cause why his license should not be revoked on Feb. 20. A public hearing of the AAA in Chicago held March 12 yielded the information on which yesterday's revocation order was issued.

No mention was made by the AAA in its announcement of possible action or withdrawal of the charges against the People's dairy.

The license covering all milk distributors in Chicago and suburbs provides a fine of $1,000 per day for each day's operation without a license from the AAA.

FARLEY'S GOAL IS TO BALANCE POSTAL BUDGET

Expects to Attain It by End of Year.

New York, March 26.—[Special.]—Postmaster General James A. Farley, addressing the sixty-sixth annual dinner of Brown university alumni at the Hotel Roosevelt tonight said that he hopes to end the year with a balanced budget in his department.

After reviewing the accomplishments of President Roosevelt's first year in office, Mr. Farley discussed the problems of the postoffice department, which employs 48 per cent of those engaged in serving the government and "is really the largest single business enterprise in the country."

Not for twenty years, said Mr. Farley, has this department had a balanced budget. Only twice in fifty years, Mr. Farley said, had a balanced budget been achieved in the postoffice department, but this year, with the aid of postal employés, he said, he hoped to achieve that goal, notwithstanding "business and financial stringency."

Points to Tax Burden.

"For many years," he continued, "the postoffice department has been considered a function of the government that too often was not seen from the point of view of a citizen struggling under a burden of taxes. The thing will run itself, every one uses the postoffice, why worry about it, has been the usual state of mind. In the last ten years the operation of the postoffice department has imposed a tax burden upon the shoulders of the people of the United States of well over 650 million dollars.

"Last year alone it was in excess of 150 million dollars. With the loyal support and willing cooperation of our great army of faithful workers, I sincerely hope that this year we shall be able to lift that recurring tax burden from the backs of the American people and show a balance sheet for the postoffice department that is definitly out of the red."

Not only has the first year of Mr. Roosevelt's administration seen a restoration of confidence and hope, Mr. Farley said, but it has been marked by a definite upswing in business activity and prices.

Earnings Report Cited.

"If we turn to the corporate statements of earnings which have been published during the past month, we find indications that tangible results have followed. Many of these statements show that net earnings are taking the place of deficits. Others show very marked improvement. Railroad earnings have shown an increase; retail and wholesale trade has been steadily increasing. Power consumption has been mounting.

"All of these point to improved economic conditions, but most important of all as an index of improvement is the fact that millions of men have gone back to work since March of last year. Commodity and other prices are on the increase and all are more stable. We have a long way to go, but there is no longer any doubt of progress in the right direction."

ROB BLACKHAWK RESTAURANT OF $5,000 RECEIPTS

Three gunmen invaded the Blackhawk restaurant at 139 North Wabash avenue yesterday and escaped with $5,000 in receipts. One of the robbers strolled casually into the café with a ladder which he placed against the balcony and one of his pals mounted to the office where Mrs. Margaret Brown and Edna Klapman, cashiers, were counting the money. His companions meanwhile held two porters at bay with their weapons. When the first bandit descended with the loot the three walked out, placed the ladder on the side of their automobile, and drove away.

SNELL SWINGS G. O. P. GUNS ON TARIF JUGGLING

Lewis Urges Support of Program.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 26.—[Special.]—In a speech reflecting the basis of Republican opposition to the administration tarif bill, now pending in the house, Minority Leader Bertrand H. Snell [Rep., New York] today asserted that the measure not only is unconstitutional but would "demoralize the operations of the government."

In the senate, at the same time, Senator James Hamilton Lewis [Dem., Ill.] took the floor with a plea for support for President Roosevelt's efforts to regain this country's lost markets abroad. Unless this aim can be accomplished, the Illinoisan declared, this country must embark upon a policy of complete nationalism which involves a limitation on the produce of agriculture and industry.

Vote Remote Prospect.

A house vote on the Roosevelt tarif plan, under which the President would be given authority to juggle tarif rates in the negotiation of trade agreements with foreign nations, today was still a remote prospect. Twenty-two hours of debate were prescribed by the leadership to precede the roll call and about half of that time yet remains to be consumed.

"No one who respects the constitutional limitations which insure the orderly operation of this government can look upon this bill with anything but amazement and dismay," said Representative Snell.

"It is amazing that the party in power should be so lacking in the sense of responsibility as to make a proposal to demoralize the operations of government. It is shocking that this outrageous proposal is made in the name of economy equilibrium and recovery.

"But amazement deepens into dismay when it is realized that the Democratic party not only intends to perpetrate this outrage upon the constitution, but temporarily possesses the power to accomplish its purpose. During the period between enactment of this measure and the inevitable judgment that will declare it null and void, the government, industry and individual citizens will suffer incalculable injury."

Sees World Against Us.

Said Senator Lewis:

"Truth of international status as to the United States must confess that each and every nation of the world has, as though in general conspiracy, put forth industrial and commercial measures directed against the United States.

"This means the crashing of our export trade; it means the refusal of these nations to take our goods. It means we have no markets in the general world to look to with hope of profit to our people. It means that we now must offer some consideration to the countries of the world if we are to recover the loss we are to suffer from the trade barriers they have built against us, the spirit of antagonism they have against us, and the conspiracy they seem to have all entered upon, to oppose us."

DAIRY FIRM FILES INTERROGATORIES IN MILK DISPUTE

Attorneys for the Meadowmoor Dairies, Inc., and the Economy Dairy company of Chicago yesterday filed in Federal Judge John P. Barnes' court a list of some 300 interrogations directed at Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the Chicago board of health, as well as officials of the milk industry, the Milk Wagon Drivers' union, the Pure Milk association, and the Milk Dealers' Bottle exchange.

The leave to file the interrogatories was granted by Judge Barnes in the injunction suit filed recently against the 53 corporations and individuals charged with being parties to a conspiracy in restraint of trade and with having fomented and taken part in the milk strike in Chicago last January. Judge Barnes allowed ten days for filing of objections and 15 days in which to answer the interrogatories.

SABATH TO PUSH SANITARY CANAL PURCHASE TODAY

Resolution Will Ask U. S. to Take Title.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 26.—[Special.]—A resolution calling upon the secretaries of war, commerce, and the interior to start negotiations leading to the purchase by the government of the sanitary district canal at Chicago will be introduced in the house tomorrow by Rep. A. J. Sabath [Dem., Ill.], he announced today.

The action was taken in conformity with the recent action of sanitary district trustees in agreeing to sell the canal to the federal government.

No purchase price was suggested in the resolution drafted today although the document pointed out that the people of Chicago and Cook county had spent $100,000,000 in the construction of the waterway.

"Has Control—Take Title."

"Inasmuch as the federal government has assumed jurisdiction and control of the canal and as it is now a part of a national waterway, the government should obtain title to the property," the resolution reads.

Congressman Sabath pointed out that the canal, as part of the lakes to the gulf waterway, has benefited the entire middle west. It was fitting, he explained, that Chicago should pay for the canal in its original function as a carrier of waste in order that the city's drinking supply from Lake Michigan might be kept pure. But now that the stream has become a part of a national waterway, under federal control, the government should take it over at a purchase price to be determined.

Whether the resolution will pass in the house and whether, if passed, the three cabinet members named will proceed with the negotiations under the authority given them, remained debatable.

Ickes Opposes Purchase.

Secretary of the Interior Ickes has already announced himself as opposed to the proposed purchase.

He has asserted he did not believe it was the duty of the government to purchase the property. In the face of this opposition, the resolution will have hard sledding in the congress, it was said. Even if passed, the resolution only authorizes the secretaries to negotiate, and presumably they may refuse to act.

It was admitted by the administration's sponsors that, at the present time, there seemed little possibility of a purchase of the canal by the government. The sanitary district had hoped for the financial relief which such a sale would afford.

Ask Illinois Congressmen to Back Cuts in Beer Tax

Resolutions urging Illinois congressmen to assist in securing legislation that will reduce the government beer tax from $5 to $3 a barrel were adopted yesterday at a meeting of the executive board of the National Association of Retail Beverage Dealers held at 309 South La Salle street. The board also sent letters to President Roosevelt and the national liquor board requesting that action be taken to reduce the import duties on wine and liquor.

CHARGE MOVIE CODE AIDS MONOPOLY AND STOPS INDEPENDENTS

Washington, D. C., March 26.—[Special.] — Charges of discriminating against the so-called "independent" exhibitors and of fostering monopolies were made against the NRA motion picture code today before the national recovery review board which, headed by Clarence Darrow, is the organization set up to review alleged unfairness to the "little fellow" under NRA codes.

Representatives of the Allied States Association of Motion Picture Exhibitors charged that the code spelt extinction to exhibitors who operated independently of producers.

Abrams Myers, counsel for the association said the independent producers were ignored in the code. Sol Rosenblatt, NRA division administrator, in charge of amusement industries was called to the stand but refused to testify when not allowed to make a statement first.

HIT THAT COLD A KNOCKOUT BLOW!

Don't Invite Serious Complications with Makeshift Remedies!

A cold is something to be dealt with promptly and decisively. You never can tell where it will end. Many a "slight cold" has been the start of a serious illness. Get after a cold quickly and get after it in the right way. A cold, being an internal infection, requires internal treatment. A cold also calls for a COLD remedy and not a "cure-all."

The wise thing to take is Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine—for several reasons. Instead of a "cure-all" it is expressly a cold remedy. It is also an internal treatment which a cold, an internal infection, requires. And it is complete in effect. It does the four things necessary. First, it opens the bowels. Second, it combats the cold germs in the system and reduces the fever. Third, it relieves the headache and grippy feeling. Fourth, it tones the entire system and helps fortify against further attack. Anything less than that is not complete treatment.

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine contains nothing harmful and is absolutely safe to take. For more than forty years it has been the standard cold and grippe tablet of the world, the formula always keeping pace with Modern Medicine. Every druggist sells Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine, 30c and 50c. Good druggists won't offer a substitute for the sake of an extra profit.

When a cold attacks, don't waste time with makeshift methods, but go right to your druggist for Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. Always ask for it by the full name and look for the letters L B Q stamped on every tablet.

Stop Irritating Your Digestive Tract

Avoid Laxatives That Constipate. Nature's Way—a Gentle Flush

Medicine-laxatives—no matter how pleasant tasting—often cause the intestinal muscles to become sluggish, lazy. For most of them work by irritating the delicate membranes of the digestive tract.

PLUTO WATER is a saline mineral water—not a medicine-laxative. It owes its speed to the fact that it promptly opens the pylorus valve leading to the small intestine—flushes both intestines gently and completely. It is non-irritating—cannot give you the laxative habit.

The proper dilution—one-fifth glass Pluto in four-fifths glass hot water is practically tasteless. The same dose each time—no need to increase it—always performs, does not gripe, gives positive results in less than one hour. Two sizes: Splits, 25c. Large bottles (3 times as much), 50c. On sale at drug stores everywhere.

THE TRAVELERS

Progress of 70 Years

SEVENTY years ago, on April 1, 1864, the first accident insurance policy in America was issued by The Travelers Insurance Company, Hartford, Connecticut.

WHILE traveling in England in 1859, James G. Batterson, the founder of The Travelers, had conceived the idea of the Company. His home city, Hartford, was already famed as a center of fire and life insurance but in England he was offered a form of insurance of which he, with all of his insurance associations, had never heard—an accident ticket.

Instantly, he wondered why America shouldn't have a company offering similar insurance. As he rode on the English train and enjoyed the satisfaction of the insurance protection which the ticket provided—a substantial amount that had cost a few pence—he wondered why accident insurance shouldn't cover all the accidental hazards of life, as well as those of travel, and why policies shouldn't

Returning to the United States he found the business outlook decidedly unpropitious for his new project. He decided to wait.

But in 1863 he wearied of longer postponing his plans. He recognized that uncertainties always existed and determined to go ahead. The Travelers Insurance Company was chartered and issued its first insurance contract April 1, 1864.

TO its pioneer line of accident insurance The Travelers soon added life insurance, later liability. Through the creation of The Travelers Indemnity Company the various casualty insurance lines that cover loss of property were taken up: burglary, robbery, theft, steam boiler, plate glass, collision and machinery insurance; and, later, through The Travelers Fire Insurance Company, fire, windstorm and inland marine forms of insurance were added.

Besides being the pioneer in accident insurance, The Travelers Companies have been the first to insure automobiles. The first life insurance policy providing an income to the beneficiary instead of lump sum settlement was a Travelers contract.

The funds entrusted to The Travelers Companies have been invested conservatively. In 1933, $27,400,000 of U. S. Government bonds were added, making a total of $112,200,000, in addition to cash of over $18,000,000. The assets of The Travelers Companies are distributed as follows:

	Dec. 31, 1933
U. S. Government Securities	16.1%
Other Public Securities	12.3
Railway Securities	10.7
Public Utility Securities	10.5
Other Securities	5.6
First Mortgage Loans	13.5
Real Estate	5.5
Loans on Company's Policies	17.7
Cash on Hand and in Banks	2.7
Interest Accrued	1.4
Premiums Outstanding and Deferred	3.9
All Other Assets	.1
Total	100.0%

After seventy years of service to the American people, in good times and bad, The Travelers offers the benefits of wide experience, ample resources, and complete insurance service throughout the United States and Canada.

N. Y. TAXI STRIKE LOOSES A STORM UPON LA GUARDIA

Call a Grand Jury Quiz on Disturbances.

New York, March 26.—[Special.]—Less than three months after taking office as mayor, Fiorello H. La Guardia has become a storm center in municipal affairs, recalling his days as the "stormy petrel" of congress at Washington.

Today the mayor heard threats of ouster proceedings and learned that a grand jury has launched an inquiry into the failure of the city executive and the police department to enforce peace during the strike of taxicab drivers.

The mayor was definitly "put upon the spot" by the grand jury investigation, which was instigated by District Attorney William C. Dodge and General Sessions Judge John J. Freschi. The jurors were instructed that the law compels the mayor to enforce peace and order on the streets and suppress riots, and if there is proof that he has failed to do so he is guilty of a misdemeanor.

Public Safety Endangered.

Judge Freschi acted after being informed by the district attorney that property damage and personal bodily injuries had resulted from the taxi riots, affecting "the safety and security of the public." The charge has also been made that the strike and riots have seriously hurt the patronage of hotels and theaters.

The charge that the mayor not only has failed to suppress the taxi riots, but has encouraged the strikers in numerous ways—even though it is alleged that communists have wormed their way into the ranks of the leaders—have been brought forward both by the taxi owners and by a "committee of 100."

When the grand jurors returned to the grand jury room after receiving the judge's instructions it was learned that a member of Mr. Dodge's staf had called his attention to a newsreel showing a taxi overturned and a policeman appearing to turn his back and walk away from the scene.

The jurors comprise the additional New York grand jury for March, of which Lincoln Cromwell is foreman.

This is the body that called Police Commissioner O'Ryan before it last week when the violence accompanying the taxi strike was at its height.

Mayor Expresses No Concern.

Mayor La Guardia professed to be not the least bit perturbed by the action of the district attorney and Judge Freschi.

"The mayor knows the law," he said. Then he added:

"Of the men arrested for violence forty were dismissed. Who is responsible for that? Isn't the district attorney responsible for the prosecutions.

"But I am not going to criticize any department outside of my jurisdiction."

The mayor did not bring in a charge of "politics," but others in the La Guardia-fusion administration pointed out that District Attorney Dodge was elected as a Tammany candidate and was the only Tammanyite to survive the Republican-fusion landslide. The fact that the mayor and the district attorney are of different political camps was taken by some as a promise that the grand jury will be led into a real investigation, and if ample evidence is turned up, there will be proceedings instituted.

New Settlement Plan.

While the grand jury was before Judge Freschi the mayor was in a conference at city hall which resulted in drawing up new strike settlement terms. These terms have already been agreed upon by representatives of the Taxicab Drivers' union [the strikers] and will be submitted to the cab operators and to the company unions, the Drivers' brotherhood [Parmelee] and the Terminal Drivers' association.

The new proposals were revisions of the mayor's original program, which was rejected by the strikers last night. The chief feature of today's terms calls for both the unions and the operators to agree to abide by the results of a plebiscite.

The plebiscite is to be confined to employes of the Parmelee, terminal and radio systems with a separate ballot for each company, the voting to take place on property not owned by the operators.

The strikers last night had voted against the mayor's proposal for a plebiscite to be held in city-owned armories on the advice of the same leaders who in a conference Saturday with La Guardia agreed to accept the terms.

This action of the strikers, which preceded fresh outbreaks of violence in the midtown and Times square sections last night, is reported to have angered the mayor.

Evidence Given Grand Jury.

The grand jury was given a large amount of data, including a summary of acts of violence charged against the strikers by the three main companies involved. This summary charges:

"Drove all taxicabs from the streets.

"Dragged drivers off cabs and beat and stabbed them.

"Threw bricks through windows injuring passengers and drivers.

"Dragged citizens, guests, and visitors of the city of New York out of taxicabs with violent force, insulting them, bruising them, and beating them up.

"Smashed private automobiles.

"Knocked pedestrians down on sidewalks and streets.

"Heaped foul abuse and insults upon women."

The operators also accused the mayor of "openly proclaiming and boasting of his coöperation and support" of the strike. The mayor on the other hand contends that the companies are paying "starvation wages" and that all he is doing is to insist that the men have the right to organize and negotiate.

HELD IN DEATH

MRS. FRANK O'BOYLE.

Although a coroner's jury failed to fix the blame for the fatal shooting of Frank O'Boyle, a city fireman, the state's attorney's office ordered the widow, Mayme O'Boyle, taken into custody yesterday and held for arraignment in the Felony court this morning.

Mrs. O'Boyle in her story declared that her husband had come home drunk and that she had told him she was going to leave him. A quarrel ensued, she said, and later O'Boyle came into the bedroom with a revolver.

"He said he was going to finish me," she said. "We struggled. I fainted, and when I came to Frank said, 'O, Mayme, I'm shot!' Then I suddenly realized I had been shot in the arm."

TORNADO LEVELS MILE LONG AREA IN NEW ORLEANS

Scores Are Injured; Some May Die.

New Orleans, March 26.—(AP)—A densely populated area of modest homes in lower New Orleans was converted into a mass of twisted wreckage within the twinkling of an eye today when a tornadic wind dipped down and scattered houses, automobiles and furniture over an area about a mile long and a quarter of a mile wide.

Within the same hour similar but less severe disturbances struck in Lafayette parish, southwest Louisiana, and at Tallulah, northeast Louisiana. The New Orleans weather bureau said a 75 mile wind had been located high in the air, moving eastward over Mississippi.

Twelve persons were hurt here, including eight women and an infant, and hospital attendants said some of them might die.

Scores Are Injured.

The storm struck here at 8 a. m., but late today many of those who lived in the section were still wandering through the littered streets, resisting police efforts to get them under shelter from an all-day cloudburst of rain which accompanied the wind. So suddenly had their homes been demolished they were unable to realize what had happened.

The Red Cross took charge of the homeless and destitute and police patroled the area to prevent looting.

Tallulah Warehouse Wrecked.

General damage here and elsewhere in the state was expected to run into several hundred thousand dollars.

The wind made four distinct dips into lower New Orleans. The storm was described by the weather bureau as "a severe thundersquall, accompanied by tornadic action."

WINS LENIENCY FOR WIFE; GETS 10 YEARS HIMSELF

Raymond G. Quinn, 38 years old, an ex-convict, was sentenced yesterday in the federal court to ten years in Leavenworth penitentiary. His wife, Phyllis, 24 years old, received a suspended one year sentence and probation for three years. They pleaded guilty to a charge of stealing letters from home mail boxes and disposing of currency and checks which the letters contained.

"Give me ten years, your honor," Quinn said to Judge Philip L. Sullivan, "and please give my wife a break. Whatever she did was done because of my influence."

Judge Sullivan heeded the plea without comment and Assistant District Attorney Edward A. Fisher expressed himself as satisfied.

Inquiry Is Opened by Legislators.

A shortage of $19,000 worth of supplies in the storehouse at the Joliet penitentiary was revealed yesterday as a legislative committee opened its investigation into charges of irregularities in bookkeeping at the institution.

Testimony also revealed that 800 morphine tablets had been withdrawn without being accounted for by proper requisitions, and that requisitions are handled in the store by a convict clerk who is serving a term for forgery.

The testimony on the supplies shortage came from Albert J. Claussen of the Ralph W. Turnbull company of Springfield, who completed an audit of the penitentiary books some weeks ago.

His and other testimony aroused Howard Doyle of Decatur, chairman of the legislative committee, who made statements charging inefficiency and "loose politics" in the state department of public welfare.

Supplies Never Received.

The shortage in supplies, Claussen testified, covered all classes of materials purchased by the penitentiary—clothing, foodstuffs, and medical supplies. He declared the convict bookkeepers apparently had "juggled" the books to make them balance.

"Then the state has paid $19,000 for supplies which were never received?" asked Chairman Doyle.

"Apparently," was the reply.

Following Claussen's testimony the committee called John C. Weigel, fiscal supervisor of the department of public welfare, who has been making an independent investigation at the request of Governor Horner.

He testified that during the period from July 1 to Dec. 31, the time covered by the Turnbull audit, there were 1,900 morphine tables available. There were only 200 on hand on Jan. 1, he said, and there were proper requisitions for only 900, leaving 800 unaccounted for.

The next witness was O. Clark, storekeeper and custodian. He testified that when the Turnbull audit was being made he had been instructed to find requisitions for the missing morphine tablets.

Lays Error to Clerk.

"I went through the inventory books," he said, "and found entries for withdrawals which were not recorded by requisitions, so I made out duplicate requisitions."

"I see," said Doyle, "and I also notice that you made out too many duplicates. You have made duplicate requisitions for 300 more morphine tablets than you had on hand. How do you account for that?"

"I guess my clerk must have made an error," said Clark.

"Who is he?"

"He's a prisoner named Wheelock," was the reply.

The penitentiary records show his full name to be Lester A. Wheelock, sentenced to 1 to 14 years for forgery.

Following Clark's testimony, the hearing adjourned until Thursday at the statehouse in Springfield. At that time, Mr. Doyle said, Claussen, Weigel, and perhaps Warden Frank Whipp will be questioned.

THREE INDICTED IN CLEVELAND (O.) BANK SCANDAL

Guardian Trust Co. Case Acted On by U. S.

Cleveland, O., March 26.—(AP)—J. Arthur House, former president of the Guardian Trust company, was indicted today by the federal grand jury charged with making false entries and with misapplication of the bank's funds.

Harry C. Robinson, former executive vice president, and William R. Green, former vice president and controler, were indicted jointly with him.

The true bill, following a year of inquiry charged a total of $76,122 in the bank's trust department was misapplied and that false entries were made to cover that. The Guardian's Trust department formerly was the largest in the state, with $300,000,000 in assets.

The bank, now in the hands of a liquidator, was closed in the spring of 1933. In the event of conviction, the three accused officials might face penalties of five years in a federal penitentiary, a fine of $5,000, or both, on each of the 27 counts.

Deposits Cut in Half.

As described by federal investigators of the trust operations, the indictments principally involve the purchase in 1931 of 287 shares of the bank's own stock with $76,122.56 taken from the funds of its trust department.

Most of these purchases were made by and in the name of Clayton H. Force, former vice president in charge of the trust department. He was one of forty witnesses who appeared before the grand jury after waiving immunity.

Pension Fund Involved.

In order to balance the trust department books, $76,122 in mortgage participation certificates was transferred to that department from the bank employes' $2,000,000 pension fund.

The trust department books thus were kept in balance, but federal investigators declared the pension fund books never reflected the transaction until July 6, 1932, when House appeared before the pension fund trustees and reported it.

On the same date the trustees resolved to purchase 750 additional shares, including the 287. At that time Guardian stock could have been bought for $64.87, but as the transaction was made the pension fund paid $47,745 in excess of the valuation indicated by open market quotations.

PRESIDENT ASKED TO OPEN FAIR BY REMOTE CONTROL

Talking Movie to Be Made for Showing Here.

BY EARL MULLIN.

President Roosevelt yesterday was invited to open the 1934 Century of Progress Exposition by remote control, much in the same manner the 1933 Fair was officially opened by the light from Arcturus. The opening program as finally offered to the chief executive, it was understood, was worked out when it became doubtful that he would be able to attend the opening day of the Exposition. Mrs. Roosevelt also will participate in the opening ceremonies.

While still in the formative stage the program calls for a talking motion picture of President Roosevelt welcoming the visitors, and officially dedicating the huge Exposition, and the pressing of an electric button in Washington by Mrs. Roosevelt to turn on the floodlights in Burnham park.

Speech to Be Heard Here.

Under plans made public yesterday by President Dawes of the Fair in Washington, a motion picture of the President is to be made a few days prior to the opening of the Exposition on May 26. At 9 p. m. on May 26 this production will be presented in the court of the Hall of Science at the Fair, at which time the President's welcoming speech will be reproduced.

A similar picture will be presented, showing Mrs. Roosevelt throwing an electric switch to close contacts creating a current which will be carried to Chicago. Coincident with the closing of the circuit in Washington the time ball will fall over the main gates to Burnham park, the lights will turn on, and the 1934 Exposition will be officially in operation.

Program Tentatively Accepted.

The program was tentatively accepted by the President and referred to his secretary, Stephen T. Early, for further consideration. Rufus Dawes will return to Chicago this morning, leaving Maj. Lenox R. Lohr, general manager of the Fair, in Washington to help prepare federal legislation, making way for federal participation in the Fair, and for the issuance of invitations to foreign powers to exhibit.

Before he leaves today for a fishing trip in Florida the President is expected to forward to congress with his approval the request of a federal commission for a $400,000 appropriation to maintain the federal exhibit at the Fair in 1934. The commission, consisting of Secretary of State Hull, Secretary of Commerce Roper, and Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, yesterday presented its request before the budget bureau and it is expected that the request will be in proper form for the President's action before he leaves today.

While the two executives were in Washington Fair officials in Chicago turned their attention to the final clearing up of pending contracts. The largest single contract yesterday was signed by the Lagoon Fleet, the corporation which operated the lagoon boats during the last Exposition. Acting under suggestions made by Maj. Lohr, Harry Rice, commander of the fleet, has made several changes in the boats, the prices charged and the schedules.

Last year 1,250,000 persons were carried on the lagoon boats. With the prices cut this year officials expect a still larger percentage of the Fair attendance. The sight seeing tour has been cut from 50 cents to 25 cents, and a ten cent taxi service will be operated from station to station.

DECIDES FORMER ST. LOUIS MAYOR IS INCOMPETENT

White Plains, N. Y., March 26.—[Special.]—Victor J. Miller, 44, of Mamaroneck, who, until last year, was mayor of St. Louis for eight years, has been declared incompetent to manage his own estate, according to papers on file in the county clerk's office here.

The order was signed Oct. 16, last, by Supreme Court Justice William F. Bleakley at the request of Mrs. Mabel Miller, who susbsequently was appointed guardian of her husband and his property.

Mr. Miller, who received $402 war risk insurance and $57.50 a month because of mental disability resulting from overseas service, was declared incompetent by Dr. George F. Brewster of the Veterans' hospital at North Port, L. I.

Mrs. Miller was directed to submit an annual report of her trusteeship to the court and to the United States veterans' administration in New York.

Retired as Mayor in 1933.

St. Louis, Mo., March 26.—[Special.]—Victor J. Miller retired from office as mayor of St. Louis in the spring of 1933 after serving two consecutive terms of four years each.

Their first victims were Kenneth Robinson, 1031 Dempster street, Evanston, and Miss Edna Moore, 123 Callan avenue, Evanston. The robbery took place in front of her home. P. A. NASH ASKS HEAVY APRIL 10 PRIMARY VOTE

P. A. Nash, national committeeman and county chairman, was greeted with a big round of applause when he appeared yesterday at a meeting of Democratic workers which filled the Cameo room at the Hotel Morrison.

He had been in Florida for several weeks and, except for ward meetings, the local campaign had lagged during his absence. During a brief talk he pleaded that a big Democratic vote be recorded on April 10 although serious contests within the party are limited to a few ward committeeships.

The meeting was one of a series for precinct workers and another will be held today.

YOUTH DIES AFTER FALL.

LANTERN CAUSES BLAST IN HOME; FIND WOMAN DEAD

Edward Loomis, 49 years old, a railroad switchman, carried his lighted lantern into his home at Sohl avenue and Thornton street, Hammond, last night. As he stepped into the house a terrific explosion occurred, threw him down, practically wrecked the house, and started a fire. Police and firemen rescued Loomis and put out the flames. Then they found his housekeeper, Mrs. Mary Swane, 34, dead in the kitchen.

The burners on the cooking range were open. Police believed Mrs. Swane turned on the burners in a suicide attempt and that when Loomis returned home his lighted lantern ignited the accumulated gas fumes, causing the explosion. Whether the gas or the explosion killed Mrs. Swane was not determined. Loomis is in a serious condition in St. Margaret's hospital.

Ex-Senator Ernst, Kentucky, Is Reported Seriously Ill

Baltimore, Md., March 26.—(AP)—The condition of Richard P. Ernst, former United States senator from Kentucky, was described tonight at the Johns Hopkins hospital as "very serious." He was brought to the Baltimore hospital today after being taken from a passenger liner as it docked in New York. He had suffered a stroke aboard the vessel while en route from California to New York.

Shoots Self to Death; Gives Body to Science

Charles Zeller, 30 years old, of Reading, Pa., a machinst, shot and killed himself in his room at the Y. M. C. A. hotel, 826 South Wabash avenue, early today. He used a shotgun. He left several notes. One was addressed to relatives, another simply to 6323 Greenwood avenue, and a third to police asking that his body be given to a medical school.

LEAPS TO DEATH FROM 5TH FLOOR LOOP HOTEL ROOM

H. M. Pulker, 67 years old, 5250 Kenmore avenue, leaped to his death yesterday afternoon from a fifth floor room in the Grace hotel at 75 West Jackson boulevard. His body landed on the sidewalk along the boulevard, narrowly missing several pedestrians.

Pulker registered at the hotel at noon and shortly before 4 o'clock ended his life. He left no notes, but his wife, Maude, reached at their home, said he had been unemployed for several months.

Last November Pulker was injured in an automobile accident, she said, receiving a concussion of the brain which kept him in bed for two months and left his health impaired. Previously he had been a traveling shoe salesman.

TRUSTEES VOTE TO ESTABLISH 3 JUNIOR COLLEGES

Find Expansion Possible Under Economy Plan.

Establishment of three junior colleges in the city was voted unanimously late yesterday by the board of education following the recommendation of William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools. The three new institutions are to be opened in September.

One of the schools will be established in the Normal college buildings at 68th street and Stewart avenue; one on the west side at 14th place and Throop street, in the Medill High school building; and one on the northwest side, in the present Parental school building, 3600 Foster avenue. Sufficient vacant space without displacing present students is available for the junior colleges in the three sets of schools, it was stated.

No Added Appropriation.

The city junior colleges will be under the general supervision of the superintendent of schools, with a dean in direct charge of each college. Their establishment and operation will necessitate no increase in the 1934 appropriations, school board officials stated. The funds for the purpose will be made available by economies effected in the educational fund, together with the restoration of the $80,000 overhead charge against the building fund to the amount set up in the 1933 budget.

The aggregate annual cost of operating the three colleges is estimated at $209,000. This amount is available. The added staffs to be employed will comprise 145 teachers and 9 school clerks. Since the quarters to be used are already being maintained, no other employés will be needed.

All qualified high school graduates will be eligible for enrollment in the city junior colleges, and Mr. Bogan's recommendations propose a new conception of instruction which will provide educational opportunities for all willing and competent pupils. One criticism that led to the closing of Crane Junior college last summer concerned the fact that thousands of eager, ambitious girl and boy students could not gain admittance because of space limitations. Inadequate methods of instruction pursued in the school also were criticized.

Provide Self-Study Courses.

Under the superintendent's suggestions, auditoriums may be opened at the three schools, and lectures provided at every hour of the day on subjects in the junior college curricula. It is understood that the students will be personally responsible for grasping the opportunity offered, and that there will be no attempt to push students through any courses. The idea is to provide intellectual stimulation for those who are competent and willing, and require a minimum of enforced study or lecture attendance.

Near each lecture hall an adequate library with reading facilities will be available for the use of students who wish to continue study on topics or courses discussed in any of the lectures. Beyond this point further educational expansion is planned in the establishment of a limited number of laboratories which will be available to highly qualified students who show, by presenting plans for individual work, that they can carry on independent activities in the laboratories.

"The city junior colleges will not be places for weak, indolent or inefficient students, but will provide real opportunities for those willing to take the greater part of the responsibility for their own education," said Superintendent Bogan in his recommendations. "The welfare of this city depends, especially in view of economic conditions, upon the ability of youth and adults to make wise use of leisure."

Carries Out Mayor's Idea.

"This plan, which gives equal opportunity to all public school students, without discrimination, is the result of the suggestions made by Mayor Kelly," said President James B. McCahey of the school board. "The expense of operating the three colleges will be less by one-half the cost of operating Crane Junior college."

Mr. McCahey stated that Medill High school was chosen as the west side college because it is now being operated at one-third its capacity, while Crane is now a crowded high school and more expensive to run as a college than waranted by necessity.

The board yesterday also approved a plan for reorganization of the management and operation of the high school lunch room systems to place them on a more efficient and economical basis. Mrs. W. S. Hefferan, a trustee, voted against the proposal with the argument that political patronage practices would result.

The board approved the employment of Kenneth G. [Tug] Wilson as head of the physical training and athletic departments of the public schools. His basic salary will $4,000 a year, which, less economy cuts, will approximate $3,100 a year.

ESCAPES DEATH AS TRAIN WRECKS CAR AT CROSSING

Policeman Stephen Stukel, 30 years old, 1328 South 61st court, Cicero, of the Willow Springs county highway station, narrowly escaped death yesterday when his automobile was wrecked by a freight train at the Indiana Harbor Belt crossing in La Grange park. He received only a few minor cuts.

Stukel had stopped at the crossing, observed the warning signals, then started to cross the tracks. A fast freight roared out from behind a string of cars on a siding as his automobile reached the middle of the tracks. The crash which followed demolished Stukel's car, but he extricated himself from the wreckage and walked away to a doctor's office.

Two deaths in Cook county yesterday increased the motor toll since Jan. 1 to 287. The victim:

James Costello, 23 years old, 6743 South Oakley avenue. Died in the Little Company of Mary hospital of injuries received when his auto collided with another at Cicero avenue and 93d street Saturday night. George Sass, village attorney of Westchester, the driver of the other car, was not held.

Andrew J. Durtka, 40 years old, 903 Newton street, died in Columbus Memorial hospital from a skull fracture received Sunday when he was struck by an automobile as he attempted to cross Lake Shore drive at Menominee street. Peter Betsiaras, 829 Case street, Evanston, the driver of the car, was notified to attend the inquest this morning.

DR. CATHERINE WYNEKOOP IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Dr. Catherine Wynekoop was involved in an automobile collision yesterday while she was hurrying to the county jail to visit her mother, Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynekoop, who on Saturday was sentenced to 25 years in prison for the murder of her daughter-in-law, Rheta.

Neither Dr. Catherine nor the driver of the other car was injured in the accident. After exchanging cards both continued on their way.

In the jail the mother and daughter conversed in low tones for half an hour. Dr. Alice's condition was reported unchanged, he. blood pressure still being high. On Thursday she will be taken to the women's prison at Dwight.

TEACHERS URGE SPEEDY ACTION ON SCHOOL BILLS

Ask Assemblymen to Go Back in Session.

Members of the general assembly were urged yesterday in a resolution adopted by the Chicago division of the Illinois State Teachers' association to return to Springfield today and continue in session until school revenue bills have been passed. The resolution said the teachers would regard as unfriendly those who are absent or not voting.

Despite the snowfall 2,500 teachers gathered for the meeting in the Auditorium theater as a demonstration in favor of measures that would divert revenues from existing taxes to the state school distributive fund.

Reward Those Who Help.

"I don't blame the legislators for wanting to be in their home districts because of the imminence of the April 10 primary," said Robert C. Moore of the State Teachers' association, "but I believe the teachers should study their records and reward those who help the schools."

The school bills would divert to the common school fund the revenues from the state liquor tax, sales tax receipts above $2,500,000 monthly, and one-third of the gasoline tax. In addition to its share of the state school fund the Chicago schools would get directly one-half of the city's remaining share of the gas tax. A new tax is provided in a bill seeking to collect 15 cents for each 1,000 cubic feet of natural gas piped into the state.

Governor Urges Gas Tax.

Yesterday Gov. Horner at Springfield expressed again his approval of the gasoline tax bill.

"I cannot believe," said the governor, "that those interests opposed to the bill will dare to continue their opposition when they realize that the people of this state are enthusiastically supporting it.

"It is true that our school system needs revision and improvement by the establishment of a strong permanent financial structure. To that end I favor the creation by the legislature of a commission equipped to examine our entire school system and recommend to the regular session of the legislature a comprehensive plan for the future maintenance and financing of our schools."

HAITI PRESIDENT IS GIVEN SALUTE FROM 21 U. S. GUNS

New York, March 26.—[Special.]—Stenio Vincent, president of Haiti, arrived today. He got a twenty-one gun salute from the guns of Fort Jay.

The visiting official was met at quarantine by James C. Dunn, an assistant secretary of state; Norman Armour, American minister to Haiti; Albert Blanchet, Haitian minister to the United States, and Charles Vincent, brother of the visiting president and Haitian consul general here.

"Our people are already convinced," he said, "that the United States will withdraw from Haiti in a handsome manner. That is to say, they will not hesitate to give in the fullest measure all the benefits they are able to confer on a neighboring country when the occasion occurs.

"You know the recent agreement arrived at between both governments whereby next October the marines are to withdraw from Haiti."

DESCRIBES 1,500 N. Y. TEACHERS AS MENTALLY UNFIT

Says Some of Them Are Hopelessly Insane.

New York, March 26.—[Special.]—Dr. Emil Altman, chief medical examiner of the board of education, charged today that "at a conservative estimate" 1,500 of the 30,000 teachers in the public schools here are mentally afflicted or hopelessly insane."

Upon hearing of the charges, Dr. Harold G. Campbell, superintendent of schools, promptly ordered Dr. Altman to turn over the teachers' names at once to the board of education.

"As soon as we elliminate hundreds of these manic depressive and paranoiac praecox cases the teachers' retirement board puts them back to work," Dr. Altman said.

"Now I am working with Superintendent of Schools Campbell to get the state legislature to pass a law which will keep these mentally unbalanced teachers out of New York's schools."

Asks List of Teachers.

Supt. Campbell ignored the examiner's remark about their mutually seeking a change in the laws, remarking:

"All teachers are under constant supervision of the principals and district superintendents, who report regularly upon their efficiency and the character of their service.

"Every case of inefficiency or of unsatisfactory service is brought to the attention of the board of superintendents and proper action is taken.

"In view of this, we have asked Dr. Altman to furnish us at once a complete list of the teachers he has in mind."

A school official also said that one high school teacher called insane by Dr. Altman was indignantly defended by her principal, who insisted that she was the best teacher in the school.

Dr. Altman charged that political leaders and "school principals who cover up insanity cases among their teachers" were keeping these 1,500 unbalanced teachers on the pay rolls.

Calls Report Absurd.

"Absurd!" was the retort of Dr. Abraham Lefkowitz, legislative representative of the Teachers' union, scoffing at Dr. Altman's 1,500 estimate.

"Dr. Altman is unfitted for the important position he holds. Because of his brutal attitude toward the teachers we had him up on charges of 'cruelty, intimidation and third-degree methods' in 1928. He treats teachers like dogs. He practiced terrorism. But we couldn't get him removed."

Dr. Lefkowitz, head of the civics department at the high school of commerce, admitted that there were "maladjusted" teachers in the public system.

"Some," he said, "become maladjusted because of the large classes and the hardships under which they work. Most teachers don't live biologically normal lives, so of course some are not normal. But not 1,500!"

The teachers' representative charged that "certain influences" were merely trying to get rid of certain "socially minded" and idealistic teachers.

TRUCK HIJACKING RING IS SMASHED, POLICE REPORT

With no report of the "hijacking" of interstate truck shipments during the last two months, Lieut. James Kerr of the detective bureau declared yesterday that this type of crime had been practically cleaned up in Cook county and the adjacent area.

Lieut. Kerr, working with government agents, has captured two gangs who specialized in the seizure of truckloads of butter, eggs, automobile accessories, and other merchandise.

During 1933, he said, these gangs seized about 200,000 pounds of butter valued at 20 cents a pound; 1,000 cases of eggs, and 5,000 automobile tires valued at $50,000. The bandits are now under federal indictment and awaiting trial.

3 FOUND GUILTY OF PLOT TO EVADE $125,000 GAS TAX

Prison Terms and $3,000 Fines Fixed by Jury.

Three officials of the Consumers Gas and Oil company, 21st street and South California avenue, were found guilty last night by a jury in Judge Donald S. McKinlay's court of conspiracy to cheat the state out of more than $125,000 by evasion of the gasoline tax law. They were given the statutory punishment of 1 to 2 years each in the penitentiary and fined $3,000 each.

Judge McKinlay immediately raised the bonds of the three defendants, Sam Levin, Al Johnson and his brother, Max Johnson, from $5,000 to $10,000 each. He set the hearing on the motion for a new trial for Thursday.

The defendants were indicted during the original investigation of evasions of the state gasoline tax law. The charges against these three were not pressed during the régime of a former prosecutor when the defendants promised to pay the taxes due from them. However, they failed to keep up the payments and Prosecutor Thomas J. Courtney ordered the cases reinstated and tried.

Assistant State's Attorneys John O'Hora and William Lancaster produced evidence during the trial to show that the defendants attempted to bootleg gas by having it shipped to out of the way sidings and then hauling it away by truck. It was also shown that the defendants produced a fake Ethyl high test gas by pouring in some powder called "Susie" into ordinary gasoline and coloring it.

The defendants attempted to place the blame on the late Garet de Forest Kinney, former director of the state department of finance. Evidence was produced to show that Kinney, who committed suicide six months ago, kited the state accounts in order to bolster his private banking affairs.

TRIAL OF JEAN NASH'S SON LAGS AS JURORS ANSWER QUESTIONS

New York, March 26.—(AP)—Extreme care in selecting a jury slowed today the trial of Andrew Donaldson Kirwan, who is accused of murder on the high seas.

The entire first day of the trial in the court of Federal Judge Robert A. Inch was given over to the questioning of prospective jurors. Many failed to qualify in the face of the government's insistence that they be not prejudiced against the death penalty "in the event the facts warrant it."

Kirwan, a tall, thin youth with some affliction that causes his features to jerk and twitch and gives him poor control over his muscles, is charged with the mortal wounding, by stabbing, of William Sessoms last Feb. 10 aboard the S. S. President Garfield.

In court to lend Kirwan comfort was his mother, Mme. Paul Dubonnet, 39 years old, the former Jean Nash, dancer, known over the world as the best dressed woman in Europe. The youth's father is dead.

OPEN UP THIS TROJAN HORSE.

It seems to be self-evident and self-assertive that Dr. Wirt, the Gary, Ind., educator, must be asked by some competent congressional committee to lay before congress and the country the complete details back of his statement that communist advisers of the President intend that a proletarian dictatorship or its American equivalent shall be set up in the United States. It is not news that there are communist cells in the American government. That they are in a pretentious conspiracy may be. While Zack Foster has been making attempts, unsatisfactory to him and Moscow, to bore from within industry and to establish cells in factories and key positions, radical professors, lawyers, and theorists have crept into the government and have their cells there.

These communists have not taken many pains to conceal themselves or their views. They have spoken freely and have made themselves known. The easy-going American people have not been greatly impressed by what might have startled them if they had thought the thing through. They evidently have believed that the times were ripe for a lot of irresponsible tall talking and that the tall talkers were not really formidable or worth much consideration.

The point which stands out in Dr. Wirt's statements is not that there are communistic theorists and organizers in important positions in the government at Washington but that these men have confessed their purpose to maneuver the President and congress into a position from which retreat will be impossible and the advent of some Stalin inevitable. There will be an effort, and it will be made by the men involved in the matter, to pass the Wirt statements off as meaningless, after-dinner vaporings, to be considered as philosophic persiflage, easily indulged in and meaning nothing. Such an explanation will not wash.

The men involved will be impressed principally by having the discovery made that they were deceiving the President. Many of them have been frank enough in their own statements, but what they won't like will be a revelation that they were in reality conspiring against men in the government who trusted them.

There are two ways of testing the plausibility of Dr. Wirt's view of what is happening in Washington. One is by the collected statements of various administrators and advisers of the government. They have issued a prospectus of the planned society, and a review of their many utterances describing the future of American government, social organization and private rights will substantiate the aggregate of what Dr. Wirt says. The other test will be to examine legislation, passed and pending, for what is explicit and implicit in it and to see how the tendency of these laws and regulations fits the purpose stated in the utterances of the advisers and manipulators of government. If we find that these men of great influence have said they intend to do a thing, then find that bills they formulate and laws they pass are calculated to put these purposes in effect, we have a blue print of cause and consequence which will be illuminating.

It is not the purpose here to set forth in detail and seriatim the plan of society exposed in the bills, but a few high spots can be noted.

The securities act has brought private financing of industry virtually to a standstill by frightening private enterprise needing capital for development from offering its securities to the investing public. What work is being done in extensions of activities is largely controled by federal departments and paid for out of public funds. The stock exchange bill is intended to put further restrictions and intimidations upon private investment.

Looking at the NRA, it is to be observed that it bears heavily upon the small industrialist and producer and is calculated to run him out of business by increasing his costs and exposing him to the pressure of big monopolies which temporarily can satisfy Gen. Johnson and at the same time consolidate themselves by escaping from the anti-trust and anti-monopoly acts. Once little business has been destroyed by government exactions and monopolistic pressure, big business can be easily seized by the government. It might be difficult to wriggle into control of a widely diversified industry, but if industry has once been concentrated in a few corporations they can be seized as easily as the railroads were seized.

These are only two of the instances in which the thrust towards the extermination of individual enterprise can be found in laws passed or proposed. We can see the government making labor dependent upon it for its hours, rate of pay, and negotiations with the employers. We see that the farmers have been subsidized and coerced. We find that prices are fixed and production is controled. The retailer has been told that he can't give away a loaf of bread with two quarts of milk and that is the law, with the Supreme court O. K. It affects every commodity and transaction in the land, or it will whenever the federal government chooses to enact the necessary laws. We see the government entering the Tennessee valley to take control of the lives of the people there living, with the pretense that it will raise their standards, make luxuries their necessities, and give them what they need for a full life. We know that over a third of the national income is now taken by the tax collectors of the various governments and used in public political undertakings. We see that the government is already directing the minutia of life for American citizens and we are told upon the highest authority that there will never be a return to the conditions existing prior to March 4, 1933.

Dr. Wirt knows the names of the men influential in government who confessed to him that the objective was Moscow. There can be no question of the necessity of having those names made public. The country must be told who constitute the communistic cells in the Washington government. The American people must be given the complete picture of what is going on.

When President Roosevelt needs the backing of conservative citizens, fearful for their country, he must have their intelligent opinion. When he decides to check the advance of communism he must not feel that he is alone and unsupported.

A Trojan horse has been introduced through an open gate at Washington and before it is too late its contents must be discovered.

AT THE ELEVENTH HOUR.

The estimates for unemployment relief in Great Britain for 1934 are down forty million dollars. The British trade upturn is held accountable for this reduction of dole expenditures. It is one of the signs of a British recovery that is not merely economic and deserves the serious attention of the American people. We have watched the progressive descent of British national wealth and world power as the burden of socialistic taxation crushed private energy and initiative and brought the nation nearer and nearer toward bankruptcy and ruin. Before the New Deal revealed its ultimate objectives as a project for the revolutionary transformation of American institutions there was perhaps some complacency in our reaction to the developments in Britain. But before events in our own household removed any basis for complacency a change came in the British situation. On the brink of catastrophe the British people checked their course and a government pledged to recovery was swept into office.

The results of this arrest of the socialistic current which had carried British affairs so many years in a steadily descending scale of impoverishment and debilitation are now appearing. Time and persistence are necessary for their full exploitation, for the invalidism which had brought Britain so low cannot be removed over night. World conditions retard recovery everywhere, but the British, none too soon, seem to have thrown off or to be throwing off their incubus and are on their way up.

It is an experience which ought not to be ignored by the American people. With our own recovery blocked by policies of the same inspiration as the policies which were draining away the vitality of a nation which for a century had been the most powerful in the finance and commerce of the world, it would seem to be worth our timely study. Britain turned back in time.

INDIANA CITIZENSHIP MOVES.

The best news out of Indiana for some time reports the formation of a committee on crime suppression. Initiated by an Indianapolis organization of that name, a state-wide campaign is under way to promote the suppression of crime, divorce police work and criminal law enforcement from politics, and improve the prison system. An appeal to clubs, women's organizations, military organizations, and individuals of influence in their respective committees has been sent throughout the state.

A program is outlined for the amendment of the law in the interest of more speedy and certain enforcement of the law against violent crime and for the elimination of political influences retarding and defeating justice. The proposed movement will begin with a study of criminal code definitions of crimes and violence, penalties and procedure to eliminate existing weaknesses, including the matter of bail, interposition by defendants of technicalities for the purpose of delay, changes of venue, selection of juries, rules of evidence, charges to juries, expediting appeals, pardon and parole. Prison management will be examined and a study will be made of methods of appointment and promotion of police officers and detectives, and of the selection of prosecutors and judges of criminal courts.

The program is comprehensive and, as the committee recognizes, will take time to carry out. The danger is obvious to any one who has followed the fortunes of other civic programs. Launched as they usually are under the pressure of some flagrant breakdown, they sail bravely forth before a wind of public indignation. But the wind dies down and when the program is ready for realization the public force required to effectuate it by legislation and enforcement has dwindled or turned to other interests.

This is the danger. It can be defeated. The commonwealth of Indiana stands high in the Union and it has had a terrible lesson. We have faith that the spirit and intelligence of its people will not fail it, but the leadership of its citizenry, individual and organized, must accept its responsibility and make its will firm to carry on until this difficult task is finished.

The Other Side

[Omaha World-Herald.]

For the second time in recent weeks the Supreme court of the United States has held that the federal constitution is something more than a rigid dead hand. To change the figure, it is not an iron casket, constricting the republic, compelling the living generation to adjust itself to conditions that obtained a century and a half ago and that now are as extinct as our rulership by the British crown.

New conditions make new law. They may also make over constitutions. And that appears to be what they are doing now. They are dealing shattering blows to sturdy individualism, to what were long cherished and venerated as private rights. In society, as in mathematics, the whole is now recognized as greater than any of its parts. The state, which means all of us, towers ever higher above any one of us or any group of us.

The tendency, to many, is exhilarating. To many others it is fearsome. To many, congenitally, change, especially radical change, is always fearsome. But more than any constitution it is the law of life. Without it there is only death.

Those of us who are sturdy individualists may as well be warned in time and make plans and arrangements accordingly. We are none of us going to be as important as we used to think we were. We must seek consolation in the thought that we are to be parts of a better whole.

DIGESTION AT DIFFERENT LEVELS.

ABOUT the hardest blow given the soda habit in recent years is one that came from the laboratory of Dr. Lloyd Arnold. His research was done on another problem, but in the course of the work he found some facts that go strongly against this habit.

Younger persons have no business taking soda when they feel a little indigestion, or eating vegetables that have been cooked with soda, or biscuits that contain too much of it. The arguments against using soda habitually are doubly as forcible in the case of elderly people.

The alimentary canal is something over thirty feet long. The stomach secretion is very definitly acid and must be to do its work. The upper stretches of this canal, including the stomach and many feet beyond it, are the regions in which the food is digested, in which it is otherwise prepared for absorption, and in which the most important absorption is done. The lower part is the region in which some absorption takes place, but in which there is virtually no digestion. In the upper stretches the contents are at first quite acid, and, after that, they shade from acidity to near-neutrality, to neutral, and then to alkaline. In the lower stretches they are increasingly alkaline.

In the stomach itself there are virtually no active bacteria. Those that are swallowed with the food quickly become inactive, and most of them die. Many become dormant, to grow again into a state of activity lower down. As the contents travel down the tract bacteria increase and new forms appear. In the very farthest reaches there are countless millions of bacteria and some are of dangerous types. So long as these bacteria stay where they belong they do comparatively little harm. But should they get into the upper region of the alimentary tract and find conditions there to their liking they do great harm. They are then in the territory where absorption is efficient. They and their products absorb, and the liver is fearfully taxed to protect the general system against them.

Whatever operates to make conditions in the middle stretches of the tract tolerable for the bacteria that normally live below causes them to migrate upward, and there to tax the liver, or to cause even greater harm. Taking soda does just that. A full dose of soda neutralizes the acid of the stomach and of the other parts of the stretch. It causes the rich bacterial life of the lower stretches to grow up a foot above its usual top level—ten feet; or even up to the gall bladder or to the stomach itself.

The stomachs of elderly persons are poor acid makers, since they have less than their share of acid. In spite of the best they can do the level of alkalinity and the bacteria that multiply in alkaline material rise from one to twenty feet higher than normal. For an elderly person to take alkali, such as soda, is potentially more harmful than in the case of a young adult.

Some old people think they do well when they drink sour milk or other sour foods or drinks, or even when they take dilute mineral acids medicinally. Here is a reason. A good part of the bowel trouble in babies is due to alkalinity in the alimentary tract. They get a cold or a fever. The stomach stops secreting acid. The level of alkalinity and the bacteria that thrive below it rise higher and higher. Acute bowel trouble results.

Many people give babies orange juice and even stronger acids. Buttermilk will sometimes agree with the child when ordinary milk causes trouble. Anything that reverses peristalsis tends to cause the disturbance. Among these causes are vomiting, nausea, gall bladder attacks, and even spells of dyspepsia with great belching.

SPLIT FINGERNAILS.

Anxious writes: My finger nails keep splitting at the ends. When I think they are getting a nice length they crack on both sides and require filing. I have never had this happen before. Can you help me?

REPLY.

You are older than you were and it is winter. The latter cause will end presently and you will then get well for the time. But you will not get better of the first and, therefore, you will relapse when winter comes again.

CONSTIPATION.

L. P. writes: What foods should be avoided to prevent accumulation of gas in the intestines, and accompanying constipation?

REPLY.

Constipation is the major factor. The gas producing foods are of secondary importance. Constipation can usually be overcome by regulating habits and by dieting. Starchy and sweet foods contribute to fermentation.

CAUSTICS FOR CANKERS.

Mrs. L. A. R. writes: What is the probable cause of my many painful cankers which appear in groups of two or three at frequent intervals? If it is due to stomach trouble what particular foods may I eat more of to eradicate the cause? What remedy would you suggest? Do you advise using nitrate of silver pencils such as are used to remove warts?

REPLY.

Cankers are rather quickly cured by touching with some caustic. Nitrate of silver is one of these caustics. Prevention is accomplished by overcoming constipation and changing the diet and food habits. Since I do not know your diet or your food habits I do not know what changes you need to make.

CURE FOR WARTS.

ACTIVITIES SUSPENDED.

Chicago, March 21. — [Friend of the People.]—During the week of Jan. 22 I wrote to you about having the branches of the tree in front of my home trimmed. I would like to know if the city will cut the tree free of charge. When will this be done? To date I haven't heard anything about it. E. A. D.

I beg to advise that the activities of the city forestry division are now confined to advising, upon request, owners and occupants of lots regarding shade trees planted or to be planted in the parkways of the city, and the giving of permits for the removal, planting, or trimming of trees by the owners or occupants of the lots thereof.

Due to the necessity of keeping the city budget within the corporate revenues, no appropriation for actual street tree work has been made for the remainder of the year, and this bureau has been compelled to discontinue this work. WALTER WRIGHT, Superintendent of Parks, Recreation, and Aviation.

Roseland, Ill., March 22.—[Friend of the People.]—My father has been an American citizen for the last 34 years. That is before the law was changed, so at birth I was also an American citizen, although I was born in Italy. I am now married to a man who is not an American citizen as yet. Am I still a citizen or not? If I am not, then by my husband getting his citizenship papers, am I a citizen, or must I get my own citizenship papers to be a citizen again? M. D. S.

If you became a citizen of the United States by virtue of birth to a father who was then a citizen, you did not lose such citizenship if you were married to your present alien husband after Sept. 22, 1922. If you were married before that date, you lost your American citizenship and will not regain it by the naturalization of your husband but will be required to take formal steps to repatriate yourself.

CITIZEN'S RIGHTS.

Chicago, March 22.—[Legal Friend of the People.] — If a person commits a felony and is sentenced to the federal penitentiary for a period of over two years, [1] does he automatically lose his citizenship papers? [2] How long does he have to wait before he can vote?

B. J. B.

1. No, but if you intend to ask as to his right to vote, this is controled by Illinois law. Section 70 of the Illinois election law provides that no person who has been convicted of any crime the punishment of which is confinement in the penitentiary shall be permitted to vote. It might be held that "the penitentiary" means an Illinois penitentiary and hence a state as distinguished from a federal offense. Therefore we cannot give an absolute answer on the facts before us.

2. There is no specified time limit.

From Across the Sea

BY CLIFFORD GESSLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HONOLULU.—Bound for Mangareva in the far South seas, where Robert Lee Eskridge of Chicago opened the field a few years ago, one of the largest expeditions ever sent out by the Bernice P. Bishop Museum of Polynesian Ethnology will leave Honolulu soon.

A group of scientists from the museum will cruise six to eight months conducting studies in ethnology and natural history in little known parts of southeastern Polynesia.

The Miyojin Maru, a high powered sampan under the command of Capt. W. G. Anderson, will serve as master ship for the scientists, who will work mainly at Mangareva, Oeno, Rapa, Tubuai, Rurutu, Raivae, and Rimitara, and Pitcairn ilands.

They will be joined by the schooner Tiare Tahiti from Papeete, which will serve as a transfer ship for the ethnologists at work in Mangareva and among the 360 ilands of the Tuamotu archipelago.

The expedition will include three ethnologists, two malacologists, two botanists and two entomologists, with assistants and interpreters. Dr. C. Montague Cook Jr. of Honolulu will lead the scientific staff. Among the others are Kenneth C. Emory and Donald Anderson of the museum staf and Prof. Harold St. John and Raymond Fosberg of the University of Hawaii.

The chief purpose of the expedition is to record the data regarding native races, flora and land fauna, which are disappearing at a rapid rate. Systematic work in geology, marine zoölogy, and general oceanography will receive relatively little attention at this time.

Mangareva attracted some attention a few years ago when Mr. Eskridge's book of the name appeared. The Chicago artist spent some time on Mangareva and adjacent ilands, painting and writing; many of his paintings of that locality were exhibited in Chicago. He also discovered the tombs of the Mangarevan kings and acquired a collection of ancient artifacts which he presented to the Bishop museum.

THE VICTIMS.

River Forest, Ill., March 20.—The favorite slogan of the brain trust and Democratic party from the time of their ascendancy has been "Soak the rich." It's a misnomer, for the rich are flourishing, keeping up with the most expensive modes and social gatherings, and the wealthy corporations are being protected by the NRA, to the detriment of the smaller ones; even implying that if the latter cannot conform to requirements and live "they can get out."

Call this soaking the rich? No! It's just bleeding and soaking the middle class, the people of moderate means who saved for a rainy day and old age, hoped to avoid dependency and pauperism. The present administration that promised so much has ruthlessly interfered with all business to the detriment of widows, teachers, clerks, nurses, and those whose working days are over, whose small savings were put into corporations which gave a fair dividend. But with the NRA code we find, first, the utilities were "jumped on" with the result that dividends were discontinued or reduced. Then industries, corporations generally, came under the hammer with the same result. Now the A. T. & T. and Radio are attacked in a most insidious manner; possibly they will be under government ownership. This means disaster again to the small investor—lower dividends and possibly loss of investment—to say nothing of the censorship contemplated by the inexperienced in business, who seem to run the government on their theories.

To add to this, every dollar of dividends must be taxed 5 cents. "Not much," they say, but it takes just that much food and other necessities from us. The small investor should be protected from this. A VICTIM.

SLOWING THE MAILS.

Cicero, Ill., March 23.—The carrier mail deliveries here have been cut from two per day to one each day, due to the administration's recent economy measures. This means that air mail, as well as all other first class mail, which arrives at the postoffice after the carrier leaves about 7:45 a. m. lies undelivered until the next day. This certainly is not in harmony with the transportation of air mail when hours mean so much in getting it from one city to another.

In view of the fact that these curtailments in the postal service also mean the laying off of hundreds of substitute employés who have been in the civil service for four and five years, this action contradicts the administration's attitude toward private industry. If the postoffice department had been overmanned, then why must the public suffer a curtailment in service now?

FRANK HOUSTON.

DEEP AIR LANDING PLATFORMS.

Ruxton, Md., March 21.—Our best minds at Washington seem to think that the way to get advice as to means of improving the air transport is to consult the acrobats who have been successful in hopping the Atlantic, without being drowned—two of them females. This is not based on good reasoning, as the peculiar type of mind which makes a good pilot is rarely of the kind that does constructive thinking. He is a good pilot because he has a single track mind, and can concentrate on one thing, and has the body and nerve. His mind is exactly the kind which uses other people's ideas. Charles Steinmetz and Mathew F. Maury were men of poor physique, but they had the mind to open up new worlds for all mankind. Maury showed all the maritime nations the best way to sail ships, and yet he did not have the strength to sail a whaling ship around the Horn, and Steinmetz could not have built a power house.

The next basic improvement in air transport is to elevate the landing fields on a steel platform, and go up in an elevator to meet the plane. This simple idea will reduce the danger by half, and also halve the cost of operation. Like a railroad, the air line must be level, and like a ship, the plane needs deep air under it, so as to be safe from the rocks [ground level]. EDMOND FONTAINE.

LINDBERGH FOR PRESIDENT.

Chicago, March 23.—As most of us know, the old so-called Democratic and Republican parties are practically dead. We are now ready for something that will be more idealistic and beneficial to the people as a whole.

Who would be better qualified to serve as the leader of one of these parties than our own Charles Augustus Lindbergh, whose popular title, "The Lone Eagle," is so symbolic of our national emblem? Young, yes, but of a caliber that is the prototype of true Americanism. Truly a man of destiny. Our slogan: "We Want Lindy." U. S. A.

THE LIGHT BLUES.

Oak Park, Ill., March 18.—Why do all Chicago newspapers, including the W-G-N, make the same error when alluding to Oxford and Cambridge universities? They insist on dubbing Oxford as the "Light Blues" when it is just the reverse.

Today's report of the varsity boat race in THE TRIBUNE says: "When Oxford moved into the lead at the gun, the Light Blue' adherents cheered madly. . . . But these cheers dwindled as Cambridge moved into the lead."

Rather a paradoxical situation—I would say. Anyway, for future reference, Cambridge athletes are the "Light Blues." Oxford's are the "Dark Blues."

"NOT CONSTIPATED FOR SEVEN WEEKS"

Writes Mrs. Johnson After Using Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Sufferers from constipation will be interested in this unsolicited letter:

"Your ALL-BRAN surely relieves constipation. I am so glad over the good it has done me that I feel I must write and tell you of it.

"For lunch I take a banana, a large one. Six tablespoons of ALL-BRAN in a sauce dish, and dip banana at each bite until all is consumed. I haven't been constipated now for seven weeks."—Mrs. Louise Johnson, 1433 Forest Street, Denver, Colorado.

Constipation often causes headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sleeplessness. This condition is usually due to lack of "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to further promote regular habits. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN has both, as well as iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. Within the body it forms a soft mass. Gently, it clears out the wastes.

Try ALL-BRAN in place of patent medicines—often harmful. Two tablespoonfuls daily will overcome most types of constipation. Chronic cases, with each meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Use as a cereal, or in cooking. Recipes on the red-and-green package. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

U. S. AND SWEDEN PUSH DRIVE TO INCREASE TRADE

Nations Depend on Each Other for Goods.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, March 26.—The importance attached by the American government to the development of trade between Sweden and the United States is shown by the fact that a special commercial attaché has been added to the staf of the American legation in Stockholm. The attaché is T. O. Klath and his office is in one of the few skyscrapers of Stockholm. It is known as the Kings Towers.

An outstanding feature in the commercial exchange between Sweden and America after the war, Mr. Klath said, has been that the exchange of merchandise between the two countries has been on a practically even basis. That means that Sweden has sold in the United States various goods valued as much as the American sales in Sweden. This has been the rule with the exception of one or two years when there was a slight margin in favor of the United States.

Discrepancy in Figures.

The general statistics reveal a discrepancy between the American and Swedish figures. According to American statistics, Swedish exports to the United States during the last three years have been greater than the American exports to Sweden, but according to Swedish statistics the situation is quite the opposite.

Mr. Klath in an interview described the Swedish-American commercial exchange during the last decade.

The tremendous demand for merchandise of every kind created by the world war also had a stimulating effect upon the trade between America and Sweden in the years following the war. About 40 American companies established between 1920-'23 their own selling companies in Sweden, usually organized as Swedish corporations.

Few American concerns manufacture in Sweden, but there are some exceptions. One is General Motors. Henry Ford also has an assembling plant in the free port of Stockholm. Most of the American goods marketed in Sweden are, however, handled by Swedish importers or agents.

Important to U. S. Trade.

"Sweden, despite its population of 6,000,000, is of great importance to American production," Mr. Klath said. "What a valuable market little Sweden is for American goods is indicated by American trade statistics for 1932. They show Sweden during that year ranked eighth among European countries as a buyer of American goods.

"For a long period the United States has occupied the third place as supplier of various goods to Sweden. In 1933 America advanced to second place. In 1932 the United States was Sweden's third best customer. In 1932 only four European countries sold more to America than did Sweden. This shows each country has a real need for the products of the other.

"Sweden buys automobiles, raw cotton, tobacco, copper, foodstuffs of various kinds, motion picture films, mineral oils, auto tires, rosin, and sulphur, as well as a large number of manufactured specialties such as industrial machinery, office appliances and equipment.

"Sweden exports to the United States chemical wood pulp and news print, hides, matches and high-grade steel.

Hit By Depression.

"The crises affected the trade between the two countries. The fall in trade started when Sweden left the gold standard in 1932. American statistics for 1932 show the abnormally low value of American exports to Sweden of $17,457,471, while America in that year bought Swedish goods valued at $24,479,716. Sweden had a favorable balance of $7,000,000. In 1929 Sweden exported $52,986,000 worth of goods to the United States and America sold $58,704,000 worth of goods to Sweden.

"Sweden was one of the few European countries which, during 1932, were able to get along without any artificial control of foreign exchange. Few increases have been made in import tariffs, and these chiefly for fiscal reasons. Import restrictions have been applied in a few instances connected with giving aid to domestic agriculture.

"Sweden has one of the largest per capita foreign trade figures in the world and realizes she cannot close her market to foreign exporters if she is to continue to sell her staple export commodities abroad. After the return to a common currency basis and improvement in general economic conditions the trade should increase again.

Urges Tarif Reductions.

"Even now trade problems are being discussed in Washington. The aim is to establish a commercial agreement between Sweden and the United States.

"For my part I should be glad if some Swedish tarifs on American goods were reduced. I believe some of these tarifs—especially on automobiles, tires and fruit—are higher than necessary. On the other hand there is no tarif at all in America on Sweden's greatest exports—chemical woodpulp and news print.

"One factor to be considered has been the remarkable crops in Sweden of both fruit and wheat. Sweden has been able to fill the most of its demand for fresh fruit.

"This is unusual and when the government by special measures—as for instance the obligation to the mills to use a certain percentage of Swedish wheat mixed with American and Argentine grain—is helping domestic agriculture, the natural conditions in this field are radically changed.

"My belief is that Sweden before long must increase its agricultural import from the United States as her crops must fall from the extraordinarily high marks of recent years. The special measures taken to support the Swedish wheat and fruit market will then be modified, and American wheat and fruit will be imported into Sweden to about the same extent as before the depression."

Japan Invites U. S. to Sign Pact Aimed to Expand Trade

[Copyright: 1934: By the Associated Press.]

TOKIO, March 26.—The negotiation of a trade agreement, guaranteeing the continued free entry of Japanese silk into the United States and American cotton into Japan, was urged today by Saburo Kurusu, chief of the commercial bureau of the foreign office.

At the same time, the official suggested that the two nations study the possibilities of a multiple agreement with Latin American countries to aid the balancing of commercial accounts and help expand foreign business by a three-way arrangement.

The United States takes about 90 per cent of Japan's raw silk exports and the latter country has become virtually the chief purchaser of American raw cotton.

Seeks to Maintain Ratio.

The government here, it was stated, wants to maintain the ratio of this mutually advantageous trade and, under the tarif bargaining powers each government hopes to have soon, move toward the negotiation of a permanent pact providing that the two articles remain duty free.

Kurusu said that in total business, Japan now buys more from the United States than it sells there and that Latin America is beginning to buy more from this eastern empire than Japan can absorb from that part of the southern hemisphere.

Some of the most remarkable gains in modern economic history have been made by Japanese traders in the Latin American markets in the last few years, and her textile exports to that part of the world have thrown a genuine fear into the industrial area of Great Britain.

The foreign office official said that the Japanese this year expect to have record sales among the South American republics, but the government is somewhat perplexed about reciprocal trade. Little that Latin America sells can be used in Japan."

Three-Way Project Visioned.

Kurusu would have Japan and the United States go into the matter and try to work out some three-way project whereby the United States could help absorb some of the excess in the Japanese-Latin American account.

If Japan then can sell more textiles in Latin America, the United States can sell more cotton in Japan, he declared. An agreement of this sort, he asserted, would help business three ways.

The government is well pleased with Japanese-American trade, it was plainly indicated. At the present time, 72 per cent of all Japanese exports to the United States are represented by raw silk. Sixty-one per cent of United States' exports to Japan consist of raw cotton.

Little farm girls in Japan's upland villages reel the raw silk for the New Jersey and other mills, while the fields of the American south supply the efficient and busy textile manufacturing plants in the fast-growing industrial area here.

To Send Mission to U. S.

A new educational and trade mission probably will be sent soon to the United States, it was revealed, to further the campaign for sales on silk goods. The Japanese hope to make some dent in the rayon industry and help American manufacturers increase their sales of silk goods and silk articles.

The foreign office urged that Americans remain aloof from the present European moves to restrict Japan's exports, saying that cotton purchases by Japan would drop if the Japanese textile business is hit.

"There can be no return to the prewar period when world economics centered around Europe," Kurusu declared. "The United States is the only first class commercial nation with which we are not in some sort of economic conflict."

DISCOVER $2,400 STOCK ACCOUNT OF SLAIN GOETZ

Cicero police and the public administrator's office found $2,400 yesterday in their search for assets of Fred Goetz, college bred gangster, who was shot to death in Cicero one week ago today. When he was slain he was carrying a $1,000 bill.

Police investigating Goetz's murder were convinced that he had a substantial fortune somewhere. Through letters found in his pockets and his rooms, addressed to him under his aliases of J. George Zeigler and George B. Seibert, they found several clews.

One of them led the police yesterday to the J. F. Clark Brokerage company, 231 South La Salle street. Questioning J. W. Jourdan, the manager, the investigators learned that Goetz, under the name of Seibert, had recently bought 250 shares of distillery stock at $38 a share and that after selling some of these shares he still had a cash balance of $2,400. Police said they would trace several other brokerage clews today.

HEAVY TRAFIC GAINS REPORTED BY AIR EXPRESS

Agencies Start Competing for First Class Mail.

Two air express agencies reported yesterday that, in the 30 days since the air mail contracts of private transport companies were canceled, their business has shown substantial increases over earlier months of this year and advances ranging from 175 to 200 per cent over the same period for 1933.

The two agencies are the General Air Express company and the Railway Express agency, which has an air division. The General Air Express is an affiliate of American Airways, Transcontinental and Western Air, Eastern Air Transport, Pennsylvania Air Lines, and United States Airways. The Railway Express Agency has its express flown by United Air Lines, Western Air Express, National Parks Airways, Kohler Aviation corporation, and the Hanford Air Lines.

Fly Most of Routes.

Although cancelation of the air mail contracts lost them revenues which amounted almost to $7,000,000 during 1933, all these companies have continued to fly the majority of the routes upon which they transported 850,133 pounds of express last year. The American Airways and affiliates serve 115 cities, while the United Air Lines fly into 80 cities.

Before the cancelation of the mail contracts the express companies were unable to seek mail business aggressively, since they hesitated to compete with the postoffice department. Now, however, they are competing vigorously for all business except first class mail, and with developments of the last month they have even begun to seek this business.

They are doing so because the skeleton air mail schedules flown by the army have left large areas of the central, southwestern, and southern portions of the United States without any type of air mail service. As a result, many of the air lines, through the express companies, are again carrying air mail.

Express officials explained that the postoffice department, after some delay, has ruled that first class air mail may be carried as express if the air mail as well as the express charges are paid by the sender. One further stipulation is that the mail, having been carried to the city of its destination, must then be turned over to the postoffice department for final delivery.

As a result, banks, business concerns, and individuals who have insisted upon speedy communication have been using the express companies to send mail by air. In many industrial cities of the south and southwest, particularly, chambers of commerce have aided in this effort, arranging to act as clearing houses for mail sent by express.

An Example in Dallas.

Daily, for example, packages of letters destined for Chicago from Dallas, Tex., have been collected by the Dallas Chamber of Commerce, sent by air express, and finally remailed as individual letters by the express company here.

Charges for this type of mail service run about 16 cents an ounce for letters, of which 8 cents is the price of the air mail stamp and 6 to 8 cents is the express charge.

FRANCE DROPS QUOTA ON TIRES, BUT RAISES TARIF ON RICE IMPORTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 26.—Two important trade developments in opposite directions are noted by todays Le Journal Officiel. One removes the quota on pneumatic tires and tubes. This action was received with rejoicing by American interests, as tires occupied a respectable position in the list of principal American exports to France last year. Tires were placed under a quota for the first time Dec. 31 last.

Tempering this good news was another announcement that the tarif on rice is to be tripled for general tarif and doubled for the minimum. It is expected that this will virtually shut American rice out of the French market. While rice is not considered as an important American export, the amounts being shipped were increasing steadily during the depression. In 1931 about 86,000 metric quintals [9,479.78 short tons] were sent to France.

The rice tarif was evidently raised by the French for the purpose of protecting rice growers in French Indo-China, who can no longer sell their crops to China and Japan and are in a desperate plight. This action may be a forerunner of a large scale policy of empire protection.

One afternoon...

MRS. COOK (left): "Another stocking run? What a shame."

MRS. POWERS (center): "Let's do something about it! I've been reading the ads about how Lux cuts down runs. Suppose we make a test—"

A week later...

MRS. POWERS: "Yes, dear, I've been washing one stocking the Lux way and rubbing the other with cake soap. The one I rubbed with cake soap has a run in it already. The Lux one is still just like new! Lux is even better than the ads say. We've found a big economy secret!"

Next month

MRS. POWERS: "Haven't we had wonderful results? We all cut down runs—isn't Lux a big help to the budget?"

MRS. RISDON: "I knew Lux was good, but I didn't know how good till I made this test! I cut down runs 53%! An amazing economy!"

"We cut them down 50%"

says MRS. JOHN POWERS of Huntington, New York

Stocking runs—how they "run" into money, upset careful budgets! Read how Mrs. Powers and her friends solved this bothersome problem!

"A group of us decided to make a simple test with our stockings," says Mrs. Powers. "We used the same kind of stockings, washed one with Lux—rubbed the other with cake soap. Then we kept careful records.

"By using Lux, we cut down runs amazingly. We had only half as many runs in the Lux stockings as in those rubbed with cake soap!"

Mrs. J. W. Cook, Mrs. C. C. De Klyn and Mrs. Charles Risdon, who joined Mrs. Powers in making this test, are just as enthusiastic. Try their plan—you'll be thrilled, too!

LUX cuts down runs because Lux is made to preserve elasticity, so the silk threads tend to give instead of breaking under strain. Avoid ordinary soaps with harmful alkali and cake-soap rubbing. They weaken elasticity. Lux has no harmful alkali—safe in water, safe in Lux!

WHY DARN MEN'S SOCKS?

Many housewives are now using Lux for their husbands' socks. These gentle suds keep socks new far longer—save money and hours of darning! Lux wool socks, too, in order to prevent shrinking and fading.

LUX saves Stocking Elasticity

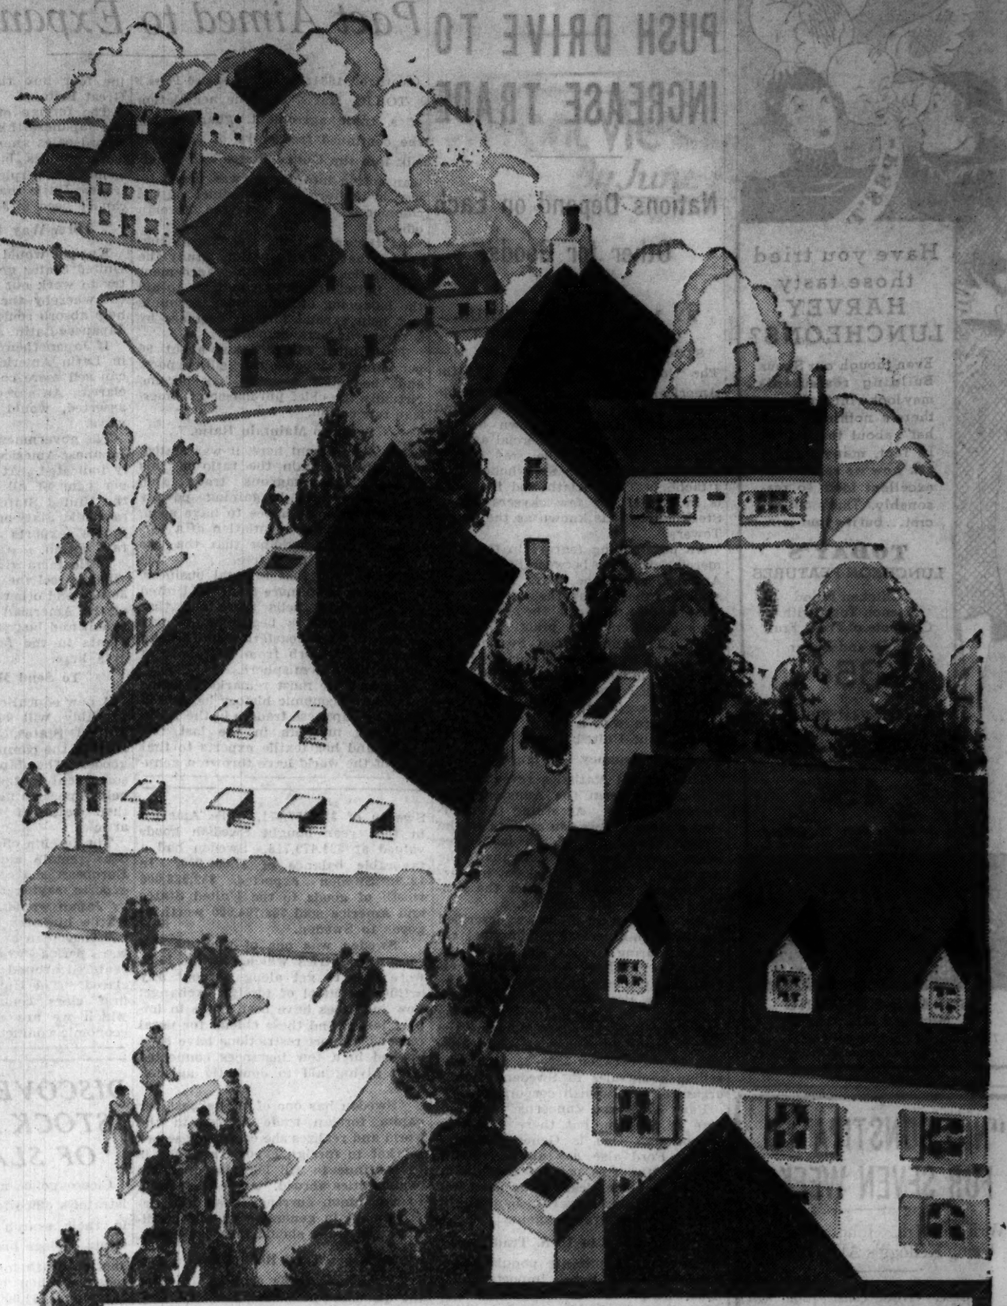
These people must love a home . . . they've built so many of them



A City reflects its people!

Philadelphians love the comfort and the privacy of an individual home, so they built the greatest city of homes in America....a city that is composed almost entirely of single-family dwellings.

By U.S. Census count 91.6% of all dwellings in Philadelphia are single-family homes. By Census count, Philadelphia has 70,420 more single-family homes than all of New York City; 154,772 more than Chicago.

In all of Detroit, Cleveland and Boston combined there are not so many single-family homes as in Philadelphia.

Because these people have made an art of home living, because they are constantly improving their homes with modern conveniences, they form the greatest market for home products in America, today.

Take electric refrigerators: "Philadelphia has exceeded the quotas assigned it by the National Refrigeration Bureau for three successive years, while sales generally throughout the United States were on a decline." (See box at right).

What is more logical in a city where nine out of every ten dwellings are individual homes?

Nine out of every ten dwellings have problems of individual heating and fuel, too. Nine out of ten have their own laundries to equip, full-sized kitchens to fit out, more rooms to decorate and furnish, more windows to curtain and screen, more rugs to buy and keep clean, more painting and repairing to do.

National advertisers recognize the importance of Philadelphia's home market. In 1932 and 1933, they placed more advertising in The Philadelphia Bulletin than in any other six-day newspaper in America.

They use The Bulletin because in this one newspaper they reach nearly every home; because its 504,822 daily circulation is two and one-half times that of any other Philadelphia evening newspaper, more than any Sunday newspaper, more than all morning newspapers combined.

The sale of electric refrigerators in Philadelphia and adjacent territory increased 43 per cent. in number of units sold in 1933 over the preceding year, according to a survey just completed by The Electrical Association of Philadelphia.

Philadelphia purchased 47,100 domestic electric refrigerators during the year 1933 with a retail value of $8,288,644. This compares with the sale of 32,757 domestic units in 1932, a record year, the value of which was $7,085,375.

George R. Conover, managing director of the Electrical Association, states: "Philadelphia is far advanced over other cities of the country in its acceptance of this modern accessory. Philadelphia has exceeded the quotas assigned it by the National Refrigeration Bureau for three successive years, while sales generally in the United States were on a decline."

Note: During 1933, The Philadelphia Bulletin carried more electric refrigerator advertising, six days a week, than any other Philadelphia newspaper in seven days.

Compare the private home Markets in leading cities

PHILADELPHIA	364,457
NEW YORK CITY	294,037
LOS ANGELES	282,382
DETROIT	209,981
CHICAGO	209,685

How National Advertisers Regard Philadelphia's Great Home Market

For twenty-four consecutive months (1932 and 1933) national advertisers placed more linage in The Philadelphia Bulletin than in any other six-day newspaper in America. (The Bulletin prints no Sunday edition). 1468 national advertisers and 316 advertising agencies contributed to this impressive recognition of Philadelphia's Home Market.

Audit Bureau of Circulations keeps a close check upon the methods used by newspapers to increase their circulations. The following is taken from their last audit of The Bulletin's methods. "None" reads their report on every form of artificial promotion. The Bulletin's circulation always represents the normal demand of Philadelphians.

Beatrice Kirk Finds Time to Enjoy Parties

Many Events Are Planned for Bride-to-Be.

BY JUDITH CASS.

UNLIKE some fashionable brides-to-be who are so busy the last few weeks before their weddings that they cannot enjoy the parties that are given for them, Miss Beatrice Kirk said yesterday that she had her trousseau ready and that she wasn't rushed to death at all.

"That's the beauty of a long engagement," she added, but we are certain that is not the only reason she is able to be pleasant and have some leisure these days, for some of the most hectic brides we've ever seen have known for months exactly when they were going to be married.

Miss Kirk's marriage to Capt. C. Ross Cuthbert is to take place on Saturday, April 14, at the Lake Forest residence of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Kirk, with only the relatives and a few intimate friends present.

The Samuel M. Rinakers have invited about a dozen friends to luncheon at their Lake Forest residence on Easter for Miss Kirk, and the following Sunday Miss Kirk's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Williams, will entertain at a large luncheon at their home in Lake Forest. They have asked about sixty guests.

On Thursday, April 5, the Alliance Française is giving a kitchen shower, but Miss Kirk doesn't know yet just where the kitchen in which the presents will be used will be located, for she and her husband won't take an apartment in Chicago until after they return in July from their wedding trip to England.

Miss Geraldine Swift will be a dinner hostess at her home, 1551 Astor street, on Thursday, the 12th, and the next night, the night before the wedding, the Lloyd A. Laflins will entertain at dinner for Miss Kirk and Capt. Cuthbert at their home in Lake Forest.

Miss Peggy Hambleton is planning to give a luncheon, but the date isn't definite, for she wants to wait and have it after Capt. Cuthbert's mother, Mrs. Albert Edward Ross Cuthbert, arrives from New York, and she probably will come just two or three days before the wedding.

Margaret Sinclair Sets Wedding Day.

Saturday, May 12, has been chosen by Miss Margaret Sinclair as the date for her marriage to Andrew B. Harper Jr. The ceremony is to be read at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon by the Rev. Dudley Stark of St. Chrysostom's at the residence of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Jennings Sinclair of 2350 Lincoln Park West. Only relatives and a few intimate friends have been invited to the wedding, which will be followed by a small reception.

Mrs. Donald La Chance will be the matron of honor and Miss Margot Atkin the maid of honor. The bridesmaids will be Mrs. Seymour S. Preston Jr. of Media, Pa., a sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Susan Adams of Dubuque, Ia. Mr. La Chance will serve as Mr. Harper's best man and ushering will be Mr. Preston and David Beatty of Pittsburgh.

Mr. Harper will take his bride to Detroit to live, which is a source of regret to her many friends here, who, however, are glad that she isn't to be so far that week-end visits won't be feasible. She has been the very efficient secretary of the Junior league for several years and just recently relinquished her job to Miss Elizabeth Ricker.

This morning we are announcing the birth of George Fulmer Getz III. He made his debut on Saturday at the Washington Park hospital, the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Fulmer Getz Jr., and from all reports he's a happy, husky young man . . . a worthy heir of his popular and prominent grandfather.

Just a few hours after he was born Saturday the senior Mr. Getz returned from a two weeks' trip in the east and just a few hours after his arrival the baby's maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Bert L. Atwater, returned to their apartment at the Drake from a southern vacation.

On his mother's side the young man is related by marriage to the Wrigley family, for Mrs. Getz was, before her marriage, Olive Atwater, a sister of Mrs. Philip K. Wrigley. The Getzes were married Jan. 18, 1923, at the Wrigley home on Lake View avenue.

Many Enjoy Holiday Journeys.

The fact that spring is here and Easter is just around the corner seems to make our travel notes more voluminous than ever. Sailing today for Bermuda are the John Stuarts, Mrs. Barrett Scudder and Mrs. George A. Poor Jr., who are going to be away until the latter part of April. They are taking a bungalow on the Princess grounds in Hamilton, and there they will enjoy the sunshine and cycling. The newly wedded Mr. and Mrs. William S. Miles Jr. [Ann Winifred McKeown] are also sailing today for Bermuda.

The Franklin G. Clements have gone to Biloxi for over Easter, and the Edwin L. Brashears have just returned from that popular resort. The Bruce Thornes are at home after a two weeks' vacation which they spent motoring to Camden, N. C.

The Donald F. McPhersons are returning to their Winnetka home a week from tomorrow. They have been spending a month on Useppa Island . . . a month that has been stretched into something more like five or six weeks. Miss Florence D. Bartlett has lengthened her vacation until the middle of next month. She is in New Mexico now.

The Howard Buhses [Virginia Dixon] have returned from Florida where they visited Mrs. Buhse's sister and brother-in-law, the A. Parker Bryants, at Lake Worth, and have taken an apartment on Elm street. Mrs. Buhse

China Friends See Movie on Ancient Art

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

Ancient Chinese art lost to the modern masters last night when seventy American Friends of China gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Brewster, 2704 Lake View avenue, for a movie lecture by Dr. Lawrence Binyon, keeper of the oriental prints and drawings in the British museum and visiting professor this year in the department of literature at Harvard university.

Although the guests gave their undivided attention to Dr. Binyon's scholarly study of the influence of Buddhism on Chinese painting and sculpture, most of them found more exhilarating Pruna's bathing girl in delicate shades of peach and blue and silver and the studies of Renoir, Matisse, and Picasso for which the Brewster home is famous.

The lecture was heard in the two storied, marble floored gallery that terminates the long stair leading from the lower reception hall distinguished by a bubbling fountain banked with cyclamen and ivy. There is nothing in the house, designed by David Adler three decades ago for Abram Poole but occupied the last eleven years by the Brewster family, to suggest China . . . in fact, there's nothing in it to suggest the orient with the exception of the sophisticated Japanese nursery rhymes that paper the ladies' dressing room.

Mrs. Brewster, however, provided that necessary Chinese flavor last evening in the exotic corsage of white orchids she pinned to the left shoulder of her pearl gray gown. In them there was the very breath of the orient. Assisted by Col. George T. Langhorne, who as president of the Friends of China introduced Dr. Binyon, Mr. and Mrs. Brewster received at the gallery entrance.

"The influence of Buddhism in Chinese art was most definitly felt during the Tong period, that period of China's greatest material power," Dr. Binyon explained, interpolating his sentences with dozens of professorial "uhs" and "ahs." "Expansion was only won with extreme misery for all of the people. Then they looked to Buddhism as a religion that promised rest from the misery of life and expressed it in their paintings, carvings, and sculpture. It was just the same with Christianity in the west."

Mrs. William H. Bush, who has traveled extensively in China the last year and whose daughter, Miss Emeline Bush, witnessed the recent coronation of the boy emperor, Pu-Yi, listened closely to the lecture. Just back of her sat her other daughter, Miss Carol Bush, with Earl Kribben. Next to them were Miss Katrina Mauff with her brother.

Col. and Mrs. Langhorne entertained at dinner before the program for Dr. and Mrs. Binyon. Among their guests were Mr. and Mrs. Tiffany Blake and the Brewsters. Another dinner hostess was Mrs. Joseph Medill Patterson.

Mrs. Charles Wesley Dempster, distinguished in a leaf patterned brocade in delicate shades of blue and green, chatted with Dr. Binyon and Dr. Berthold Laufer during the supper that followed the lecture. This was served in the dining room opening off the gallery, where there are found a splendid portrait of Mr. Brewster, a superb Van Gogh, a Braque, and a Derain.

Robert Hall McCormick was another guest. And still others were Mr. and Mrs. Quincy Wright, Mrs. Wilhelm Ludwig Baum, Mrs. Marvin Poole, and Mrs. Silas H. Strawn.

Hays Declares Films Laughed Depression from Public Mind

New York, March 26.—(AP)—Motion pictures "literally laughed the big bad wolf of depression out of the public mind" last year, Will Hays said today in his annual report to the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America.

"No medium has contributed more greatly than the films to the maintenance of the national morale during a period featured by revolution, riot, and political turmoil in other countries," asserted the "czar" of the screen.

"It has been the mission of the screen, without ignoring the serious social problems of the day, to reflect aspiration, achievement, optimism, and kindly humor in its entertainment.

"Historians of the future will not ignore the interesting and significant fact that the movies literally laughed the big bad wolf of depression out of the public."

The movies, Mr. Hayes states, are growing more artistic and indications are that classics of literature and history will play an increasingly important part in the future.

"It is a significant phase of the screen's upward progress," he said, "that rival producers should contend, as they have done this year, for priority claims to the production of one of the classic works of Charles Dickens."

Easter Gloves as Fascinating as the Bonnets

BY RHEA SEEGER.

During the last rush for Easter bonnets, you can well afford a few shopping hours inspecting the new collections of gloves. These new creations are just as interesting as the headgear, with lots of different ideas as to cuffs and restrained decoration. You can plan on a busy summer with fabrics, for you will find smart new weaves that will charm you at first sight. One pair of ribbed washables looks like very fine cotton pique, but it's as soft and crushable as heavy silk and twice as effective with dark clothes.

Fluttery cuffs of crisp organdy gloves that have been cut like flower petals are large enough to reach almost to the elbow. The same deep cuff idea is also used on transparent white organdy gloves for dress occasions. Checkered careers are ahead of bright summer gloves made of red, blue, and colored checks on white "sheers." They will be perfect with afternoon cotton and linen dresses in plain colors.

Ensemble tricks that will transform a dark suit or dress are all over town. For instance, in dotted organdy you'll find a long collar and jabot that is ruffled and tied around the neck and waistline with grosgrain ribbon. With this collar are matching gloves with a very ruffled cuff and the third member of the trio is a brown straw hat with a dotted organdy crown that matches the collar and gloves. You can even have a set made for you, with just the material you want to use for contrast with suit or dress.

New black kidskin gloves are as versatile as anything you can discover. Cuffs are deep and flared, with some clever new numbers featuring bands of the kidskin fagoted together to fashion a wide cuff. Black accented with white and navy blue with white show some ingenious new motifs, while the deep blue fabric gloves are the most interesting of the new arrivals. Some chamois colored fabrics will be just what you need for your new tweeds for street wear, while the new clay color is proving one of the best accessory shades for navy, biege, and dark green costumes.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

We're enthusiastic about a shampoo and rinse we think you should know about. They aren't new, and their name is certainly not obscure, since they're the products of a company famous the world over for the perfection and delicacy of beauty aids, particularly soaps. But somehow or other, judging by the pleas to this department, women on a hunt for a good shampoo and rinse have never heard of them.

The soap, in powdered form, is fragrant of lavender and its quality is excellent. With it are sold three rinses, safe, well made, herbal ones that are actually good for the hair. The camomile rinse is for blonde hair, the henna for dark hair, and for women who wish no heightening of color there is a third, a plain rinse which does nothing more than to give to the hair a beautiful gloss and softness.

Both soap and rinse are easy to use. A bit of the powdered soap shaken from its envelope into hot water gives a fluffy, lathery solution immediately. After a couple of soapings and plain water rinsings the rinse, in bead form, is dissolved in warm water and used as the shampoo's finishing touch.

We used it carefully, experimentally, on two pals—one a blonde who bemoans the darkening of her once bright yellow locks, one a brunette with dark brown hair. The camomile rinse did a great deal for the dark blonde head. It didn't bleach it, or make it golden, but it did burnish it up to a certain extent. The hair was left glossy, and with a few noticeably golden tints in it.

The brunette shampoo, followed by a henna rinse, was equally successful. Use of the henna gave no obvious effect of redness, but the brown hair had a lovely luster, with its latent, rich, mahogany tints interestingly brought out.

The shampoo and rinse leave the hair soft, faintly perfumed, and exquisitely clean. Use 'em when you shampoo your own hair, or tuck a packet under your arm next time you go to the beauty shop. You'll find them in shops all over town.

Selecting Or. Beauty Aids Is Serious Affair

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

I wouldn't be afraid to predict that, a few years hence, a woman honestly will take as much trouble buying her complexion aids as she does, at the present moment, to the purchase of a hat or frock.

There will be little of the willy-nilly buying of face powders, lipsticks, and rouges that goes on now. You and I will not ask for a face powder, say, just because Jane or Margaret or some one else we know tells us that it is grand. We won't purchase for an odor, either, unless it is the happy combination of an odor we like, together with a shade of cosmetic that does something flattering for our complexions.

The signs of the trade point this way. A number of outfits already are giving women the opportunity of "trying on cosmetic faces" before buying. You may try out a number of lipstick shades, a number of powder shades, and so on, and take your time about it.

After all, makeup is intended to flatter. It is the only reason on earth why women buy it or use it. So, we should try to extract the last farthing of pleasure from every cosmetic purchase we make. We ought to be permitted the same "kick" from a cosmetic purchase that we get from a new hat or a new frock purchase.

We know how the right hat, its line and color, may act as a rejuvenator both physically and mentally. Makeup is stepping right along as a rival rejuvenator. And the advances that are being made in the color end of the makeup business are impressive. I know of one big house that is practically throwing out a number of shades and substituting new ones that they have found, through experimentation with hundreds of faces, to be kinder and more flattering. They are working on a principle of measuring skins for color depth both of skin and complimentary powder. This just gives a faint idea of where we are heading in a cosmetic way, and the movement is practically in its infancy.

That we are the originators and have specialized for years in the famous

Good Morning!

When that Mr. Fredric March came pestering 'round — but we won't go into that just now.

Lillie was a chorine. An amateur chorine — and such a poor amateur that one dark night she finds herself out in the dark night with only her walking papers and sixty-two dollars in cash to keep her company as she wanders about the streets of a strange town. . . .

The lights of a traveling carnival show attract her and she pauses to listen to the winning words of a handsome barker. You guessed it—Fredric March.

Her purse is promptly stolen. . . . She goes to the management and threatens to tell the authorities of the incident if they don't give her a job with the show.

She gets the job—but, don't forget, she's a "good dame." Which accounts for the boss' getting a smack in the face, for her ejection from a train, and for the coincidence which plants her and Mace Townsley, barker, in adjoining hotel rooms.

Here, against frightful odds, her heart's desire being one of them, Lillie battles the powers of evil, getting around the bad little side of the innately good little boy in Mace Townsley by slick and devious methods that only the intuitive woman could employ—consistently.

This is just a fair little number. The story doesn't offer much opportunity to either of those excellent players, Sylvia Sidney and Fredric March. I suspect the director of being the cause of Fredric's rich and peculiar brogue—which he sometimes forgets to employ.

"How does a barker talk?" asked Fredric. [Maybe.]

Ha.

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

IMAGINE—if you will—a rambling house, its interior as Victorian as if it were in the England of the widowed queen's day, perched on a Jamaica mountain slope. A waterfall hurls itself down the mountain not sixty feet from the door, a rushing river is twenty feet from the porch, a magnificent view of the sea opens between groves of palm and banana. It is halfway between Kingston and Montego Bay. The parlor is furnished with heavy Victorian mahogany and rosewood; there are footstools and antimacassars, wax flowers under glass, and a fat dog asleep by the piano. A bowl of roses stands before a photograph in a heavy silver frame of Sir John Pringle, who built the house. Wandering through the rooms, one comes upon innumerable book shelves filled with mildewed English novels and sets of the classics; and the bedrooms, with their fresh counterpanes and snowy nettings, have the look of bedrooms in a private home.

Jamaica Holiday.

THE garden is enchanting. It wanders down the mountainside and the flashing cataract is bordered with the pink plumes of begonia. Scarlet hibiscus, poinsettia, pale blue thunbergia, and wistaria bloom against the tropic green of palm and banana trees, fig and nutmeg. At one point the waterfall is checked to form a fresh water swimming pool, for the use of those who find the beach, a mile or two down the mountainside, too far away.

IT was at this house the duke of Athlone and his party stopped for tea the afternoon we left for Montego Bay, and here, too, when we stopped on our way back to Kingston to catch the Miami bound air clipper, we found Stuart Chase and his wife. It was the day his latest book—"The Economy of Abundance"—which he believes the best of the eight he has written, appeared in print, and sitting in the tiny bar at Shaw Park, Ocho Rios, Jamaica, we solemnly drank to its success.

DOWN the coast a few miles is St. Ann's, like a fishing village that clambers down to the sea's edge, and near by is Dunn's river, where a bathing novelty awaits the traveler interested in Jamaica aquatics. The river pours down the mountain and at the sea's edge you may sit under the cool, fresh falls, then go into the salt sea, which seems really hot in comparison. No bathing, however, compares with that at Montego Bay, where the water, said to have radio-active powers, is as soft as it is blue, and the white sand bottom reassures the timid bather.

Famous Kennels of East Sending Dogs to Exhibit

Reports from the east indicate that Chicago's aristocrats of the canine world are going to have strong competition this next week-end in the 33d all breed show of the Chicago Kennel club at the First Regiment armory, 16th street and Michigan avenue.

More than a dozen of the best kennels in the east are combing and powdering their champions preparatory to shipping them west for the show. Five entries are coming from the famous kennels of Mrs. Geraldine Rockefeller Dodge at Madison, N. J. Three of them—Nancolleth Byrl of Giralda, a pointer; Creek Ridge Jolly Boy, a beagle; and Bodo von Siekerfelde, a German shepherd—are champions. Mrs. Dodge devotes practically all of her time to breeding and improving the breeds in which she is interested.

Marie L. Leary, a well known dog fancier and polo enthusiast, is sending two German shepherd dogs from New York. . . Dr. and Mrs. Samuel Milbank of New York have entered a wire haired fox terrier, Lone Eagle of Earlsmoor, the winner of many "bests," and Mrs. J. Grant Little is sending a dachshund, Invicta Gretchen, from her kennels at Lynbrook, Long Island.

All the way across the Atlantic Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Conner are shipping their wire haired Beau Geste for competition in the Chicago show. Still other out of town entries have been made by Wilmot R. Evans, a Boston banker; Miss Katherine H. Edwards of Doneral, Ky., and Mr. and Mrs. George W. Babcock of Glenview, Ky.

A Vicious Circle

By ALICE CAMPBELL

SYNOPSIS.

Dorinda, known as Dodo Quarles, is found stabbed to death following a dinner party in her Paris apartment. Dodo, who was untrammeled by scruples or breeding, had served a drug to her guests. Helen Roderick, who was a friend of Dodo's deceased mother, was staying with Dodo. She didn't attend the dinner, but awakened early in the morning and discovered the crime and Dodo's guests lying about in deep sleep. She is able to arouse her friend, Tommy Rostetter, a journalist. Tommy's dinner partner was Dinah Blake, an American artist, whose engagement to Christopher Loughton, in the American embassy, was, according to rumor, broken on account of Dodo. Dinah is not among the sleeping guests. Tommy arouses the others and sends for the police. A doctor set the time of Dodo's death around midnight. Helen sends Tommy to break the news to Dodo's stepfather, Basil Jethro, celebrated Oxford scholar, who was her guardian and trustee and who had long since given up trying to curb his charge. They return to the apartment. Dinah can't be found. Christopher Loughton's sister-in-law, Pearl, wants to see Helen privately.

INSTALMENT XIV.

INCRIMINATING REMARKS.

When the bell rang Tommy tiptoed upstairs and selected the bath as a suitable retiring spot. Before many minutes had passed a measured tread approached along the passage outside, and through the half open door he saw Jethro wander into the dead girl's room across the way. Now it would be extremely awkward to be discovered here, thinking which Tommy rose, intending to slip out, but just then his eye caught a reflection in a mirror and he lingered to watch what the philosopher was doing.

The stooping figure had paused before the disordered dressing table, from which it presently moved on to the writing desk beside the window. Tommy dodged guiltily to avoid being seen, as close at hand a key grated in a lock. Jethro had quitted Dorinda's bed chamber and gone into the small room next door to the bath. For a short time he could be heard moving about and opening drawers, then he came out, relocked the door and moved back into the direction from which he had come.

Purely to kill time, Tommy now ventured across the passage to survey, as Jethro had done, Dorinda's own room. The same careless litter lay about. Bottles, jars, eye black, rouge, all remained untouched, and on the desk—yes, this must have been what held the stepfather's attention—lay an engagement block with the owner's appointments for today scrawled in a big, bold hand.

Tommy bent over suddenly to inspect four tiny, clean marks in the light film of dust on the walnut surface of the table. Something had been removed, though what it was he could not say. He stared at the evenly spaced imprints, scratched his head thoughtfully, and finally returned to stand in the passage.

Something had been removed, though what it was he could not say.

Glancing down he noticed a minute trail of some white, crystalline substance proceeding from under the door of the storage room to a round, compressed pellet near his foot. Picking up a bit, he sniffed and got a strong odor of camphor which told him what the snowy stuff was—merely the fragment of a mothball which Jethro must have trodden upon and tracked out.

Irritably Tommy turned towards the stairs, and to his intense relief caught sounds indicative of the caller's departure. A frightened American voice was uttering these words:

"I hate to say it, but I do believe that mother-in-law of mine is pleased—yes, pleased—this has happened. As though it proved her right. Isn't it too hideous? Swear you won't mention this to the police. I wouldn't have come, only——"

The speech ended in a sob. A second later the door had closed and Tommy was at Helen's side demanding an explanation.

The bewildering story may be outlined briefly. Shortly after twelve the night before Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Loughton were returning home when near their street door in the Rue Madame they encountered Dinah Blake, come to pay a call. Seeing that the quarter folk drop in on their friends at odd hours, this in itself was not peculiar. Pearl Loughton, who had seen little of the girl since the latter's break with Christopher and who rather feared Dinah was avoiding her, was relieved, delighted. She was in high spirits.

Where had Dinah been, all dressed up in her best evening frock? O, just a fearfully dull party, was the flippant reply. Awful people. She had got fed up and come away. Whose party it was she did not say.

In the little salon upstairs they drank ginger beer and chattered gayly. Not a word was said of Christopher, about whom Dinah from the beginning had preserved a rigid silence. Pearl and her husband found themselves exchanging mystified glances. Both wondered if their guest had fallen in love with another man.

"She absolutely bubbled over," Pearl had confided to Helen. "We said to each other afterwards, something must have happened. It's hard to explain. You see, she had a sort of self-satisfied, secret air. As Hubert put it, it was that I-have-eaten-the-canary expression."

This, in retrospect, cast a grewsome light on what then had been merely a bit odd, but far worse was the remark she made just before she left.

"If you expect to get anywhere in life," Dinah had said, "you've got to cut, slash, shove aside whatever gets in your way. Kill or be killed—that's my motto. I wish I'd learned it sooner."

Pearl had laughingly accused her of reading Nietsche, Hubert of too many cocktails. Dinah had gone off chanting the famous ditty from "Pippa Passes," only at the line about the snail she had broken off to ask, "By the way, did you ever squash a snail?" and burst into peals of merriment. Hubert saw her home, called "Cordon," and left her about to enter the door.

"She was smiling," Helen whispered, and though the door actually opened, we know now she never set foot inside it. Where did she go?"

Tommy shook his head. Into his brain there crept again the impression which from early morning had tormented him—the idea received last night that Dinah's clouded mind had been irresistibly drawn towards some definite goal. . . .

"Tommy, did she really eat that stuff? You must know."

"Every morsel. That's certain. As to what all this tale means, I'm as much in the dark as you."

After a heavy silence Tommy said, "Look here, what's this about the senior Mrs. Loughton being pleased? For that matter, who told her?"

"A woman in the same building, whom I rang up. She hurried up with the news and Mrs. Loughton promptly telephoned her daughter-in-law. And that reminds me—Pearl declares she is sure Christopher knows something which he won't give away."

"Never mind where. Just keep quiet about this."

Why this violent prejudice against Christopher Loughton? Tommy, pacing the reception room of the American embassy, was forced to admit that the sentiment went back to an incident relatively trifling.

Six months ago he had come here on business, to be received by Loughton, then newly installed in his post of third secretary. Finding the chair designated for visitors' use embarrassingly remote for confidential communication, he had tried to hitch it nearer the official desk. Nearer? O, no! It was firmly screwed to the floor.

He could feel again his shock of mortification, see the distant smile with which the attaché in take-it-or-leave-it tones had explained that he had been obliged to have the seat anchored to prevent tiresome people from crowding up and leaning their elbows among his papers. A good enough reason, no doubt, but to Tommy it seemed a disgrace to the whole American tradition and a personal affront as well.

"Mr. Loughton will see you, sir."

Once more the haughty, unrecognizing stare which told him he was classed with the elbowing Dicks and Harrys, but Tommy, out for blood, strode straight to the orderly desk and leaned over with his chin at an aggressive angle.

"Loughton," he said abruptly, "I've just one question to put to you. Where is Dinah Blake?"

Your Favorite Fruits May Be Used in Bread

BY MARY MEADE.

Fruit breads have always intrigued me. One begins with such uninspiring items—flour, sugar, salt, levening, fat. None of them exciting even to the most imaginative. You add a cup of your favorite fruit, and still the ingredients sit there in the batter, shaking hands, it's true, but apparently without the slightest intention of getting together on any one harmonious flavor.

Comes the baking, and out of the oven emerges a crusty masterpiece the like of which, in blending of bouquet and flavor, in pure deliciousness of being, no other food known to your editor can hope to equal.

Such a one is Pear Bread. And the method is quite within the power of the least ambitious and experienced of us.

PEAR BREAD.

1 cup dried pears
1 cup dried prunes
1 cup seeded raisins
¾ cup citron
¾ cup candied lemon peel
½ cup nuts
¾ cup sugar
1½ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon salt
1 egg, well beaten
2 tablespoons melted shortening
¼ cup cooking sherry
Dough for yeast bread [see below]

Wash the pears and prunes and soak over night. Then simmer until tender in the same juice, cooking about 30 minutes. Pit and core. Run the nuts and fruits through the coarse knife of a food chopper and add the remaining ingredients, except of course, the bread dough. Now cover and let this mixture stand overnight in order to blend the flavors. Next morning will be the time to make up the bread dough. The following recipe has been varied slightly from it's original proportions in order to make allowances for the fruit which will be added.

YEAST DOUGH FOR PEAR BREAD.

1 2-3 cups milk
4 teaspoons sugar
3 teaspoons salt
5 cups sifted flour
¼ cup shortening, softened

Scald the milk and cool it to about 80 degrees F., if the room and flour are quite warm. If they are cool, use the milk slightly warmer. Have ready the yeast crumbled in a bowl, and stir in the liquid, then the sugar and salt. When these are thoroughly dissolved, add all the flour at once and work it in well with your hands. Work in the softened shortening thoroughly and knead gently until smooth, at the same time working in, gradually, the above fruit mixture. Blend until evenly distributed, then round it up and set it to rise in a greased bowl. Cover and keep it out of a draft and in a warm place [80 to 85 degrees F.]. Let it rise for 2 hours, punch down gently, and turn the dough over. Cover again and let rise 45 minutes this time. Then mold into two loaves, brush with butter, and let rise in the greased pans for 65 minutes. Bake 1 hour, first in a hot oven [425 degrees F.] for 15 minutes, then at a slightly reduced heat [375 degrees F.] for the remainder of the time.

'Treasure Iland' Movie to Have Love Interest

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Hollywood, Cal., March 26.—[Special.]—The movies couldn't make "Treasure Iland" without some love interest, so Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio has signed Cora Sue Collins to be the romantic attraction for Jackie Cooper. Cora Sue is 7 and Jackie is 13. Jackie's mother, in the film, is to be played by Dorothy Peterson, who also was his mother in "When a Feller Needs a Friend."

Jack Holt's next story is a weird yarn about voodooism, taken from the short story, "Haiti Moon," and titled for screen purposes "Black Moon." It will be filmed at Columbia.

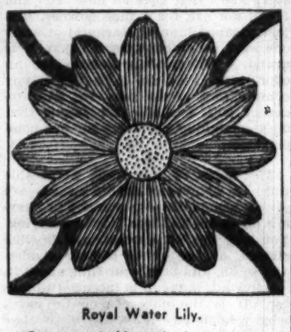
When Frankie Capra became father of a seven pound boy last week he paid a bet of $50 to Harry Cohn, the movie producer who employs him. Capra bet Cohn his baby would be a girl.

Selda Sears, writer, who used to be an actress, became an actress again to play the comedy landlady in Joan Crawford's picture, "Sadie McKee," at MGM.

Soft Colors Are Ideal for Lovely Water Lily Quilt



Royal Water Lily.

Patterns of this quilt design are 5 cents each, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, One South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

BY NANCY CABOT.

It is difficult to account for the title of this old block, since its history has been lost. A quilt made from the "Royal Water Lily" block is one of the loveliest in existence. The color combination is of soft purple, yellow, and delicate green. A color scheme of this kind mellows with age, which undoubtedly accounts for its perennial charm.

The Impatient Dad Needs to Be Disciplined

One Mother Asks Booklet on Father Management.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

I realize that we don't receive letters about all the devoted fathers who are kind and clever with their young children. That isn't headline stuff. Besides it isn't their wives but chiefly those who are in trouble who write to me. So it's the other kind of fathers—the unkind or uninterested ones—who appear in the letters I receive. Here is one of several:

"Dear Mrs. Bevans: What I shall need most of all is a booklet dealing with the care of fathers rather than with children. My husband is more of a problem than any child could be, I believe—and I already have trouble over the baby. The child is not yet a year old and of course is learning to eat with a spoon. His father has no patience with him and seems to expect a baby to do things perfectly at once. And he believes in putting a baby alone in a room to cry indefinitly whenever he starts to cry. The baby is good and healthy and never cries much except for hunger or fatigue. He even slaps and spanks the baby. So I have a difficult time to try and train the baby as I believe right. As I say it is a booklet dealing with the care and training of fathers that I need."

I have other letters somewhat similar, describing impatient and harsh treatment of young children. In one letter I am asked to write on the matter for this column.

It is difficult to know how to help in these cases.

A father's impatience or lack of understanding might be cured but harshness is less susceptible of cure or analysis either. The impulse to punish added to the impatience may spring from one of many causes—a hot and uncontrolled temper, a resentment against the trouble and inconvenience a child inevitably causes, unconscious jealousy of the baby because he takes so much of the wife's time and interest, or some obscure psychological kink which makes a man want to inflict pain.

We can't deal with all that here. But perhaps a change can be brought about in these men if they can be induced to try to understand what the baby is up against. Since many of these scenes seem to occur at the table let us use eating as an example.

A baby has a multitude of things to learn about the use of his muscles. Think of his helplessness when he is born. Then think what he accomplishes in his first year or year and a half of life. Each skill he acquires is a most delicate and difficult affair.

says that the Bryants will undoubtedly come up to Chicago for a visit some time this spring or summer.

Many Chicagoans at Virginia Hot Springs.

Miss Lillian and Miss Leontine Inderrieden are in Santa Barbara for a few weeks. Miss Betty Van Colditz has joined her father, Dr. G. Thomsen von Colditz, at the Virginia Hot Springs, where, among other Chicagoans, Miss Joanna Fortune and her brother and sister-in-law, the John L. Fortunes, and their daughter, Barbara, and Miss Eleanor Kirkland, and Mrs. George A. Ranney and her son and daughter, George Jr., and Cornelia, also are spending the spring holidays.

Mrs. T. George Lee of the Ambassador will be at home in a day or two from Charlottesville, Va., where she went on the sad mission of burying her mother, Mrs. Alonzo Jones, who died several days ago.

The Henry A. Gardner family is going south for the Easter vacation. They are going by motor and train—Mr. and Mrs. Gardner, Miss Marie Louise Gardner, Evelyn, Gifford and Henry Jr.—to Gulfport, Miss., for ten days. Gifford is coming from Andover to drive down and his older brother will join the family there from Yale. Miss Gardner has not been away all winter for she remained here to do Junior league work while her mother spent a month in California with her parents, the Gifford Livingstons of New York.

Jack Cameron to Attend Wedding.

One of society's popular young bachelors, Jack Cameron, will be going east next month for some of the attendant festivities and the wedding on April 14 of his roommate at Williams, John J. Gibson Jr., and Miss Cornelia Lott Vandeveer. Mr. Gibson, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Gibson of Bayshore, L. I., prepped at the Salisbury academy where several Chicago boys were students and Robert S. Pirie was one of his good friends there. Mr. Gibson has visited the Piries in Lake Forest.

Herman Gade sailed on Saturday on the Isle de France for Paris. Mrs. Gade and their daughter, Alice, are still at the Ambassador East.

Mr. and Mrs. Moise Dreyfus are at the Huntington in Pasadena, Cal. They will be away at least another fortnight.

Among those who sailed last Thursday on the Mauretania on a cruise to the Bahama ilands and South America are the Cyrus H. Adamses and their daughter, Mary; the Charles Y. Freemans, the William H. Lyons and their daughter, Mary; the Robert D. Forgans and their children, Dr. and Mrs. Barret A. Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Sullivan and their son, A. C. Sullivan Jr.; Mrs. Charles MacIntosh, Mrs. Gath Freeman and her daughter, Miss Martha Freeman; Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Driver and their children, and Miss Kathleen Keating.

Students Come Home for Easter Vacation.

Among the young girls at home from eastern schools for Easter are Miss Peggy Kieckhefer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Kieckhefer, who recently moved here from Milwaukee and are occupying the Walter Wolf apartment at 209 Lake Shore drive. Peggy is a student at Walker school at Simsbury, Conn. Four of the many young men at home in the city or suburbs for the Easter holidays from prep schools or colleges are Dwight P. Green Jr. of Winnetka and Roger Barrett of Kenilworth, both of whom are freshmen at Princeton, and Wirt D. Walker Jr. of Chicago and Seymour Ballard of Geneva, who attend Westminster school at Simsbury, Conn.

Miss Georgia Pettibone, daughter of the Holman D. Pettibones, and Miss Caroline Hoffmann, daughter of Mrs. Max Hoffmann, are at home from the Mary C. Wheeler school at Providence, R. I., for the spring vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick D. Montgomery and their daughter, Miss Carol Montgomery, who is also a student at Miss Wheeler's school, have gone to Bermuda for the spring vacation.

Mrs. George Rasmussen has written notes from French Lick, where she is vacationing, to many of her friends here asking them to attend the concert Gudmundur Kristjansson, Icelandic tenor, is to give the evening of April 4 in Kimball hall.

Spends Vacation on Plantation.

Miss Jane Holmes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel S. Holmes of Highland Park, is spending her Easter holidays from the Erskine school in Boston on her parents' plantation at Randolph, Va. She has with her a classmate, Miss Jean Parker of Cleveland.

Two Erskine girls from this vicinity who did come home, however, are Miss Virginia Preston and Miss Elizabeth Ferriss. Miss Preston is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard P. Preston of State parkway and Miss Ferriss is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. Ferriss of St. Charles.

The Joseph Bartons of Winnetka moved last week from Walden road to Provident avenue, but they won't do a lot of settling in their new quarters for they are there only temporarily. On July 1 they will move into a house at 369 Ridge avenue which they have bought and are remodeling.

Happy Smiles and an Easter Bunny

Eli Bates Benefit

To hold a real live Easter bunny is enough to warant the happy smile on young Frances Allegro's face in the above picture, but there undoubtedly were other causes for Miss Suzanne Morris' joyous smile. One reason probably was that she was to leave the next day for a vacation in Palm Beach and another was her delight at the way the tickets for the Eli Bates benefit are going for she is one of the young women who have been helping the board members dispose of them. The benefit is to be the opening night [Saturday, April 14] of the Monte Carlo Ballet Russe's return engagement at the Auditorium. Frances has a real interest, to, in the success of the benefit for she spends many happy hours playing and learning useful things at the Eli Bates settlement house on West Elm street. The white rabbit is the board's Easter gift to the children at the settlement.

Children Will Enjoy Duck Hunt.

Besides Santa Claus there's only one other thing many a little north side boy and girl lives for every year, and that's the annual Easter duck hunt at the Drake hotel. It's to be next Saturday afternoon in the fountain room and the Avenue of Palms and already there are a dozen little ducks on hand to be hunted. Last year Dr. and Mrs. Peter Krupp's children were among the winners of the race. They'll be in the running again this time.

The Junior league has decided on number 43 East Wacker drive for the location of its second hand clothes sales Thursday morning.

Married Flirt's Conduct Brings Serious Regret

She Wants to Know How She May Alter Conduct.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

The flirt has a conscience, after all. She hates herself for getting such a kick out of attentions from other men, and she would like to know a cure.

She's married only a year, and is thus self-accusing:

"I am in my element when I engage in repartee with the opposite sex, or maybe it is merely wisecracking and banter. I deliberately and with malice aforethought try to interest every man with whom I come in contact.

"Before I was married I never stopped to think seriously of what I was doing, but now it seems entirely wrong. All women are not like that. I think I am a pretty shallow creature who likes admiration, and I should like to know if there is a cure. Of course, I love my husband, and I feel I shouldn't be meddling with other men's affections, or even looking their way. I honestly would like to get over this exhilaration in plain flirting."

I wonder if the situation isn't parallel to the old maid's confession of repetition of the sin of being kissed "because she liked to talk about it." Flirts do like to air their conquests, verbally. But, for that matter, don't all the Eves? And don't they all like to be admired?

The folly is in thinking that every victim is a fatal victim. He is not, even though he gives back as good as he gets in flattery. Especially a young matron, a bride of a year, say, is privileged in being fussed over by men. They feel she is safely tagged and labeled and they can carry on a harmless flirtation and nobody is hurt.

Creed of Paris Gives Us Subtly Shaded Tweeds

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The famous old house of Henry Creed in the Rue Royale has a stunning collection of tailored and sports clothes this spring, launching suits made of the most beautiful tweed yet invented—a shaded material with smoky softened stripes that fade from deep smoke gray to the palest of silver gray. The suits of this house favor the three-quarters length jacket that is either loose all the way around or belted in front and loose in the back as the model in our sketch.

This suit is made of the shaded tweed and its three-quarters length jacket has huge patch pockets, set on slantwise, and deep graceful revers. The back of the coat flares like a swagger coat. The skirt is a simple, straight, wrap-around skirt and the blouse is made of green, beige, brown, and gray triangle-patterned wool and silk challis. Blouses simply cannot be too gaudy in color to be smart this spring and these Creed blouses are among the most stunning in Paris due to their unusual materials.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

MORE ABOUT THE ONE NO TRUMP RESPONSE.

My article of yesterday dealt principally with a weak hand which I passed when my partner had opened with one heart, because I could foresee only unfavorable bidding developments. With the same honor cards, but a different distribution, I explained that I would have kept the bidding open with a one no trump response because three out of four rebids that I might expect from my partner would name a contract at least as easy to fulfill as one heart, and possibly a good deal easier. The honors in the hand were J-10, king, jack. For purposes of a weak response, this is about the equivalent of one trick. The king is, of course, one-half trick, and inasmuch as it is in the suit bid by the partner it is almost sure to take a trick. Two jacks and a ten are about the equivalent of a queen; a king and a queen in different suits are about a trick in the responding hand, and when one of them is in the partner's suit, it becomes an almost sure trick and entry card. The king of hearts impelled me to keep the bidding open when the rebid was likely to be helpful; when this prospect was not in view, I passed, although I expected the king to take a trick.

Minimum Requirements.

Use this as a working measure for a weak hand—keep the bidding open with about a trick if subsequent bidding will not place you in a quandary. Pass with only about a trick if you will not be at ease when replying to another bid by your partner, either a forcing one or one asking for preference. Remember that the soundness of the original bid will impel your partner to rebid even over a sign-off response by you; if he has bid one major suit, incline to keep the bidding open for him if you have good support for the other major suit—such as four to the jack—and a singleton or doubleton in one of the minor suits. If, however, you cannot stand a secondary bid of the other major by the opener, tend to pass on about a trick. It is true that some of the most prominent exponents of my system keep the bidding open with terribly weak hands. This is partly a defensive tournament strategy. I am disinclined to do it myself, and I do not advise my readers to do so, especially in rubber play. It is always possible that your partner may have opened with a bid of one on a hand that is in itself within a trick of game, and that your trick may be all he needs. This, however, is so rare that you can afford to miss an occasional game in this manner rather than make a habit of misleading minimum responses. If your hand is of the unfavorable type, in spite of its one trick, game can only be there through an extreme distributional fit. Under these circumstances, the opponents are likely to have very aggressive holdings, and it often happens that fourth hand, encouraged by your pass, will stick in a bid which will give your partner the chance to bid again.

A Reminder.

I have already explained that, although the one no trump response is a "sign-off" warning, it can also be made with as much as two tricks. In this event it is still unsuitable for a game contract, because its distribution is too even; its inability to respond in a suit shows a lack of playing facilities, and you can be sure that unless partner has reason to rebid over your one no trump, while believing it to be a "sign-off," game will seldom be possible, even though your hand has quite a few face cards. As already explained, if he does rebid, and the rebid is favorable for your holdings, you must now take the responsibility of making a jump rebid yourself or immediately contracting for game.

HOW DULL, LIFELESS HAIR GAINS NEW LIFE AND LUSTRE

—without the use of dyes, bleaches, henna or oils

Now an utterly new and original make-up for the hair that restores youthful beauty

It is called Geral—and the improvement it makes in the appearance of the hair is almost unbelievable. Hair that was dull, soon gleams with beautiful highlights and lustre. Hair that appeared lifeless takes on a vigorous, healthy look. Hair that was "straw like" in texture becomes soft and fluffy. Do you wonder then that women by the thousands are daily flocking to this original make-up for the hair?

Utterly New and Different

Geral is utterly different from anything you have ever used on your hair. It is not a dye, bleach or henna—nor does it contain oil. Applied in a moment, it actually beautifies the hair as rouge, powder and lipstick beautify the face. Geral makes Blonde hair more blonde. Gives Red hair a redder glow. Enriches the color and sheen of Brown and Brunette hair. And causes White or Gray hair to lose that ugly yellowish cast. Geral imparts NOT an artificial look but the natural life, sheen and softness of youthful girlhood. Obtain Geral at all good toilet counters or drug stores.

GERMANY BARES SECRET BRITISH NAVAL BASE DATA

Gives Details of Defenses at Singapore.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 26.—Further revelations indicating that the official organ of Germany's armed forces knows much more about British naval affairs than is known among laymen here, were made today by the naval correspondent of the Daily Telegraph.

The German publication, according to the correspondent, disclosed that three 18 inch guns, the heaviest in existence, are mounted in batteries at Changi, guarding the new Singapore base. Each one is 59 feet long, weighs 150 tons, and fires a projectile of more than 3,300 pounds, at was said.

Gives Details of New Base.

The following further details of the new British Gibraltar in the far east—the accuracy of which cannot be determined—were given by the German organ.

Although incomplete, the war harbor is already capable of withstanding every attack. New guns are continually being placed in position and 16 British artillery officers have just arrived at Singapore to supervise the mounting of many more guns of 13.5 inch caliber.

The new wireless station is now working, maintaining constant direct communication with the admiralty at London. The fuel oil depot contains sufficient fuel to supply the needs of a large fleet for six months.

The air forces consist at present of two torpedo and bombing squadrons and one squadron of flying boats. Three more squadrons will be added.

Japan Denies Spy Activities.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, March 26.—The Japanese foreign office today vigorously denied the truth of a London Express story alleging that Japanese spies are trying to obtain Singapore naval base secrets and that Japan is planning to build a naval base in Siam. A government spokesman declared the story was made of whole cloth and charged that some one is seeking to injure Anglo-Japanese relations.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm

By Bob Becker

New Gobbler 'Sheik'

THERE will be no more arguments between the gobblers of the turkey flock here on the farm. The youngest and handsomest gobbler in the bunch has been acclaimed as the "sheik of the barnyard." He knocked the stuffing out of the old gobbler in a final bout between the two and now all is quiet again. The rivals had a bitter battle some time ago when the young gobbler first began to question the leadership of the old ruler. Yesterday one final scrap settled who is boss. The young red gobbler gave the older one a severe drubbing, so another "monarch" has been deposed. Incidentally, this victory of the young gobbler seems to have made him so vain that he spends most of his time strutting. He spreads his beautiful tail, opens his wings, throws back his head, and then minces around in front of the shy, demure hen turkeys as if trying to make them see what a Beau Brummell he is.

Lady, the Belgium mare on the experimental farm, is expected to foal within a few days, so Guenther is busy fixing up a warm, comfortable stall for her prospective offspring. He has had quite a bit of work to do on the stall. In the first place it had to be cleaned thoroughly. Then a layer of sand was scattered over the floor. On top of that has been laid a lot of clean straw, so the little fellow will have a soft bed. Guenther found that the stall is pretty drafty, so he covered most of it with heavy paper to make it tighter. Now when the colt arrives he will have a cozy, warm place on those raw, windy early spring days. Clarence says he would prefer to have his mares foal in midsummer, when the weather is warm and the grass is lush and green in the pastures. However, by having the colts arrive this early it will be possible for the mares to be harnessed during the midsummer months when the work is pretty heavy.

About fifteen pheasants here on the farm seem to have discovered that they are safe close to the farmhouse, because they are coming right into the chicken yard to pick up food. Clarence looked out in the chicken yard yesterday and was surprised to see more pheasants in sight than chickens.

Rawlings had the surprise of his life day before yesterday when he opened the door of the smokehouse to see how the hickory wood fire was getting along. When he looked toward the smoldering chunks of wood in the middle of the dirt floor he saw two mice crouched close to the fire. They scampered to safety before the amazed Rawlings could reach for anything to throw at the animals. Today, right on the spot where the mice went into a huddle, Rawlings has a small dish of poisoned grain in the hope that the little rodents will return. With dozens of hams and slabs of bacon hanging up for curing it will never do to have any mice around the place.

However, the mice represent a small problem compared to the rats in the barns. Not only are they numerous, but bold and mighty smart. Paul Potter, agricultural editor of THE TRIBUNE, and I are laying plans for an offensive against the rats.

MRS. BLACKLIDGE REFUSED LIBERTY ON HABEAS WRIT

Mrs. Myrtle Tanner Blacklidge, former collector of internal revenue, was returned to her cell in the county jail yesterday after an appearance in the Superior court of Judge Joseph B. David, who overruled her petition for a writ of habeas corpus. Mrs. Blacklidge was put in jail last week for failure to pay $7,500 to Mrs. Susanne Nottingham, the amount awarded by a jury for the "malicious theft" by Mrs. Blacklidge of the affections of Mrs. Nottingham's husband, Norman, a policeman.

Judge David advised Mrs. Blacklidge's attorney to go into the County court and ask her release under the insolvent debtor's act.

"That court will overrule you, but take it to the Supreme court and they will have to settle whether a person can be sent to jail for debt," Judge David said.

The attorneys took the advice and will appear before Assistant County Judge J. G. Van Keuren today with a petition for Mrs. Blacklidge's release. Judge Van Keuren indicated he would give Mrs. Blacklidge leave to file her petition as a pauper without paying filing costs.

BLONDE AMONG BURGLARS.

Burglars accompanied by a blonde young woman ransacked the home of Harry K. Ray, 10640 Hamilton avenue, Beverly Hills, last Thursday, obtaining rugs, jewelry, and other articles with a total value of $1,700, it was learned from police yesterday.

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

FRANCE IS READY TO RELEASE U. S. COLLEGIATE SPIES

Lets Couple Embrace and Talk in English.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 26.—For the first time since their arrest four days before Christmas on charges of espionage, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gordon Switz of East Orange, N. J., and New York were allowed to talk to each other in their native tongue today.

The two collegiate spies were brought to the office of Judge Andre Benon, who is conducting the investigation into the activities of an alleged international spy ring, this afternoon. The couple was left alone with the exception of two inspectors who discreetly refrained from doing any inspecting.

It was a very unspylike scene. Mrs. Switz, the former Marjorie Tilley, a Vassar girl, sat in a chair near a cold fireplace with her husband sitting on the arm of the chair. They embraced and whispered to each other. She ran her fingers through his hair.

In all previous meetings Switz and his wife were permitted only to inquire briefly in French after each other's health.

Now that they have confessed, even suspicious French detectives find something incongruous in the picture of the Switzes as a red menace.

Every indication points to the early liberty of the young Americans. Their lawyer, M. Klotz, announced he would ask for their release on bail, probably tomorrow. Their position was greatly improved by the voluntary confession of the chemist, M. Aubry, who was arrested after their denunciation.

Yesterday the school teacher, Mlle. Mermet, confessed, confirming details furnished by the Switzes and today the Rumanian, Vatroslas Reich, did likewise.

It was on account of Reich's examination that the Switzes were summoned by Benon again today. If Col. Dumoulin, retired army officer who is allegedly one of the leading agents of the spy ring, now confesses, the French will consider that the two Americans have earned their freedom by the aid given the law.

MAREK JOINS GOLDEN GLOVES SQUAD IN EAST

All Set for Bouts Tomorrow.

BY FRENCH LANE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 26.—Everybody in Chicago's Golden Gloves party is moving around with more of a feeling of safety and confidence tonight. Max Marek, the mighty heavyweight from Notre Dame, joined the squad today.

Accompanied by Bud Marcy, a featherweight member of the squad who is also a student at Notre Dame, Marek arrived early enough to participate in road work in Central park. Later on he boxed three rounds.

Class work had delayed the departure of Marek and Marcy for New York. They arrived in fine condition, however, and Marek's work against three sparring partners this afternoon caused railbirds at Stillman's gymnasium to start buzzing all over again about Chicago's heavyweights. Otis Thomas, the other one, has excited them numerous times since he arrived Friday morning.

Marek in Shape.

Marek and Marcy have been boxing daily at Notre Dame, and Marek in particular appeared to be at the peak of his form. He even wanted to do a fourth round of boxing, but Coach Johnny Behr would not permit. Marek will be allowed to do a little boxing tomorrow. The other Chicago boxers will do only light exercises.

Marek's opponent probably will be a Negro boy from Harlem who answers to the name of Abraham Lincoln Green. Abraham, so the Chicago scouts say, has been making things so interesting for Bob Pastor, the New York heavyweight champion, in the sparring matches that New York coaches hardly know whether Bob or Abraham is the better man.

Marek is disappointed because he cannot fight Pastor. He beat the New Yorker last year when they met as light heavyweights. Marek no sooner arrived in New York than he heard talk about Pastor being the greatest amateur heavyweight ever developed in America. He would like to show the New Yorkers they don't know what they are talking about.

Graves Is Out.

Keith Graves, who Chicagoans were confident would whip New York's welterweight champion, probably will not be able to fight. The pulled tendon in his shoulder, which developed at the Illinois Athletic club training camp in Chicago, has not responded to treatment. This morning Dr. William Rothman, the team's physician, called two New York doctors for a consultation. They all agreed it will be little short of a mircale if Graves is able to fight.

If Graves is unable to go into action, Bob La Monte from the west side in Chicago, who was the Catholic Youth Organization welterweight champion, and Fred Tyus, Peoria Negro, will be Chicago's 147 pound representatives.

The 16 members of both teams must be selected not later than 2 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon, which is the weighing in hour. The weighing in will take place in the New York Daily News building.

Everybody's Ready.

Coach Behr and the Chicago trainers do not appear worried over the weights of the Chicago boys. Fred Caserio, the middleweight, is a couple of pounds over, but says he can take that off by doing a half hour brisk road work tomorrow.

That the Chicago boys have reached the fighting edge and can hardly wait until they get at their New York rivals was indicated at luncheon today. Somebody upset a cup of tea and it took the best efforts of coaches, trainers and attendants to prevent a free-for-all. The movies, sightseeing tours, jaunts along Fifth avenue and Broadway have all been banned until after the intercity scraps.

There seldom has been a show at Madison Square Garden for which there has been such a demand for tickets. Even the palmy days of Tex Rickard can hardly be compared to it. There are many Chicagoans here to see the scraps. Some of them have tickets. Others are not so fortunate and they may have to do their rooting out at the Eighth avenue entrance to the garden.

U. S. KEEPS HANDS OFF FAR EASTERN OLYMPIC GAMES

Washington, D. C., March 26.—(AP)—Whether pole vaulters and marathon runners from the new empire of Manchukuo compete against Chinese, Japanese, and Filipinos is of no concern to the state department.

Dispatches from Manila today said the question of Manchukuoan athletes participating in the far eastern Olympics might be raised unofficially because of non-recognition of the new nation by the United States and China.

Officials said the question had not been brought to the attention of the department and they saw no reason why it should be raised.

The far eastern Olympics, it was explained, is simply an athletic event, and the question of Filipino athletes competing against subjects of a nation not recognized by the United States is considered to have no diplomatic importance.

AUGUSTA NATIONAL.

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 26.—[Special.]—From the standpoint of golf as a sport, it was probably better that Bobby Jones did not win the Augusta Masters' tournament after four years layoff. Had he triumphed, all present day competition, amateur and professional, would have been belittled, publicly considered inferior almost to the point of mediocrity. Such opinion would not have been conducive to interest in the 1934 national amateur and open tourneys.

BOBBY JONES.

Jones in this event was a heroic, withal pathetic figure. Heroic because he risked prestige and reputation to make successful a tourney contested by a club of which he is president and in which friends and himself have substantial financial interest. Pathetic because he essayed the impossible rôle of host and contestant.

In practice rounds the week preceding, Bobby burned up the course with scores of 65, 67, and 69 which he did not approach during the tourney proper. During the days when he was helping plan details, greeting visitors, shaking the hands of distinguished social and financial figures whom he knew, many of whom proffered advice, he turned in his two highest scores. Then with tournament success assured and his own standing such that he no longer was expected to win, Bobby showed two par rounds near the standard which once made him almost invincible.

Did Jones' prestige suffer? Not with The Wake. True, he finished thirteenth, just outside the prize list, his lowest position in many, many years. Yet his game lacked nothing in soundness. His wooden shots and irons were better than ever, but his short game of chips and putts lacked his former finesse or "touch." That difference easily accounted for strokes separating him from Horton Smith, winner.

Jones' score of 294 was only six strokes over par for four full rounds. That's hardly collapse anyway you look at it. With twelve in front, there were notables behind and with him. Such are golf vagaries. At the same notch were Denny Shute, British open champion, and Walter Hagen, the old master. That's distinguished company. Behind were George Dunlap and Ross Somerville, amateur champions of 1933 and 1932, respectively.

Augusta National Golf club is a little story in itself. It was conceived in the boom days of 1929 to place Augusta alongside Pinehurst, Asheville and other points as lure for winter and spring visitors. Large sums were pledged for its construction. Came the depression which deepened instead of returning to normalcy with prosperity just around the corner. Subscriptions pledged were not forthcoming. It looked as if the project might fade.

Pride, perhaps obstinate pride, for his state, for the club of which he had been made president, caused Jones to take up the burden. Friends already had money invested. They put in more. He added his own, earned from syndicated newspaper articles and motion picture golf lessons. The affair was completed without the elaborate clubhouse originally planned but with one of the most attractive courses in the country.

Sponsors assert their investment does not exceed $200,000, although one would estimate higher. That includes 360 acres of land, of which 190 acres are occupied by the links and 170 acres reserved for residence sites around its edges. Memberships are available for $350, with annual dues of $60.

That was the situation when the Masters was suggested. Without Jones as contestant it was just another tourney along the winter circuit. With Jones returning to competition, it was a national event to attract visitors and obtain columns of newspaper publicity. So Jones competed.

What of the future? Bobby says he again will emerge from retirement to compete next spring. So favorable our impression, so great our confidence that Jones has not slipped out of all contention against the best. The Wake would like to be among those present to see what happens if he so elects.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., March 26.—The Cubs paraded some of their choicest batting talents today and while so doing caused no end of misery for their good cousins, the Los Angeles Angels. The major leaguers touched off 16 assorted hits and defeated the Angels, 11 to 5, before several thousand high school students. The latter were on hand to help swell the schools' athletic club fund for which the game was played.

Mr. Chuck Klein was one of the ringleaders in the boisterous attack, but had stiff competition. Klein clubbed the ball for two singles and a double. This was exactly the same program followed by Walter Goebel, rookie catcher. Ki Cuyler expressed himself with a triple and single. Augie Galan, the youthful infielder, dispatched a pair of singles good for runs. And even the much abused Babe Herman worked himself into the spirit of the occasion. The Babe discouraged bidders for his right field job by ramming a single and double into the open spaces.

Nine Hits Off Root.

The Cub pitching wasn't exactly efficient. Charley Root was on the job for the third time this spring and again furnished positive proof that he isn't ready for serious labor. The Angels straightened out so many of his offerings that nine hits, good for four runs, were recorded in his five inning workout. Lynn Nelson followed Root, and for a man who has been ill for a couple of weeks he did surprisingly well. The only run he gave up was a homer.

The Cubs revealed a few hitting tricks in the first inning which enabled them to hop off with a three run lead. Billy Herman walked after one was out and went galloping home on Cuyler's triple into right center. Klein scored Cuyler on a double to the wall in center. Klein went to third on Babe Herman's fly to Statz and scored when Grimm singled to center.

Angels Score in Second.

Root escaped from a tight spot in the Angels' half of the first, but didn't enjoy the same luck in the second. Lillard smacked a single to center after Oglesby had lofted to Cuyler. Dittmar grounded to Galan for a force-out at second. Gilly Campbell, ex-Cub, then walked and J. Campbell singled, scoring Dittmar.

The top half of the Cub attack spoke in loud tones again in the third and two more runs came home. Billy Herman started the rumpus with a double over Demaree's head. Cuyler singled to left and Billy scored. Klein slapped a high bounding single into center, Cuyler taking third. Cuyler counted

Hoppe Defeats Matsuyama, 400-167, to Open 18-2 Tourney

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Willie Hoppe, the original boy wonder of billiards, may be 47 years old, but he is still Willie, the Boy Wonder, to the customers who attended the opening of the world's 18.2 balkline championship tournament last night at the 137 South Wabash Avenue Recreation room.

The magic in the supple fingers of the New Yorker was never more apparent than last night, when he demonstrated all of his old time genius with a 400 to 167 victory over Kinrey Matsuyama, the tiny Japanese, who holds the American three cushion championship. The contest endured for eleven innings, although it appeared that Willie was going to send the audience home in the eighth, which he entered with an advantage of 367 to 86.

Hoppe ran 7 in the eighth, but exploded on a left handed attempt off the foot rail. Matsuyama responded to this with his best run of the game, a 57 in the ninth inning. Hoppe had initiated the game with the high run of the night, a 114 in the fifth inning, which became a 94 when he was penalized for failing to hit either object ball.

The business of 18.2 balkline being the aristocrat of billiards, only a select five were invited to participate in the current event, which will continue through April 6, with afternoon games at 3 p. m. and the night battles at 8 p. m. This afternoon Ora C. Morningstar of San Diego, Cal., 60 year old veteran, who held the title in 1909, shortly before the game vanished for a dozen years, will barter strokes with Eric Hageniacher, the tall German who won the championship in 1926 and successfully defended it the following year. Tonight's game will bring Matsuyama back for his second game of the tournament, this time against Welker Cochran, the transplanted Iowan, who now registers from San Francisco.

Hoppe's mastery of position play became evident during his handy string of 95 in the first inning, after Matsuyama had won the bank, only to show no profit thereupon. Willie's run ended at 95 when he blew an attempt off the red object ball in the right head corner. Matsuyama returned with a 9 in the second inning, terminating when he missed a bank shot of the red ball off the right head rail.

Hoppe then nursed the balls with such delicate precision that the click of one against the other was barely perceptible to the ears of the rear seat clientele. He brought a 54 in the second inning, settled for two points in the third and fourth, and then dashed off a 114 in the fifth with such certainty that it looked as if the 34 year old Matsuyama, who stands only 5 feet 2 inches, would have to unwind his cue and call it an evening. He drew a reprieve, however, when Hoppe failed on a try at the red ball off the foot rail.

Matsuyama's Best Is 57.

Kinrey ran up a 39 in the seventh, only to have Hoppe control the spheres with several masse shots through a 77, which ended when he missed a comparatively simple shot, but still left Matsuyama with almost nothing.

Kinrey's best performance came in the ninth inning, when he ran his 57. It was the first time the little Japanese was able to corral the three balls in a scoring position, and he made the most of it until he missed a full table effort. Willie collected only two in his portion of the ninth, and was on the way out in the tenth, confining the balls to the right head corner until his twentieth shot, where the cue ball, in reverse, bounced off the white object ball and trickled over just short of the red. Matsuyama ran 24 in the eleventh, taking a chair for himself when he dubbed a masse shot off the red ball. Hoppe thereupon run through the necessary five points to win.

The Blackhawks, having conquered the apparently insurmountable jinx that no Chicago team can defeat the Montreal Canadiens in a Stanley cup hocky playoff, left here last night in a jubilant mood to continue their struggle for the well battered mug which brings with it the world's championship. They will arrive in Montreal this afternoon to open their semi-final series with the Maroons, who advanced Sunday night by trimming the Rangers in New York while the Hawks were doing away with the Canadiens.

The two teams will come together at the Forum tomorrow night, and will return to the Stadium Sunday, the competition being conducted on a total goals basis for two games. The winner of the series will meet the victor in the current first place series between Toronto and Detroit, leaders of the Canadian and United States divisions of the league at the conclusion of the regular season. It would appear that Detroit is the nominee, having won both games from the Leafs, although it lost last night at Detroit. The remainder of the series will be played at Detroit.

Leswick Stays Home.

The Hawks, making their first step beyond the opening round since the 1930-'31 playoffs, had plenty of reason for joy Sunday night, for in eliminating the Canadiens, they defeated the team which had pushed them out of the championship in the last game of the final series three years ago.

With them last night was their boss, Maj. Frederic McLaughlin. In fact, every one of the Hawk employes, with the exception of Jack Leswick, who stayed home with an injured leg, was along, even unto Joe Starke, the substitute Chicago goalie. Only two casualties were reported as a result of the game Sunday night, but both will be ready for duty tomorrow night against the Maroons. Tommy Cook's knee was fretting him a bit and Taffy Abel came out of the Canadiens' game with a bruised ankle.

Speaking of casualties, the game produced what was probably one of the most costly mishaps of the year during the first period, when Howie Morenz, fastest of the Frenchmen, was forced off with a broken right hand and several facial lacerations after a collision with Mush March of the Hawks. Howie was assisted over the boards, so groggy was he, but Manager Lalonde finally sent him downstairs. He was recuperating in an improvised hospital at the Congress hotel yesterday.

Morenz Was Thrilled.

The speedy Swiss, who has spent eleven years in major league hocky, all of them with the Canadiens, said Sunday night's game was the greatest in which he had ever competed, although he did not play more than ten minutes and despite the fact that Montreal lost.

Morenz intimated yesterday morning he would retire, but last night he announced he would play as long as the Canadiens wanted him.

"You can say," Morenz said, "that I am good for five—make it four, just to be sure—years more. I am not old, only 31, and I will be back there as long as the Canadiens want me."

Morenz said he had remained in Chicago in connection with a suit for damages against the Nestor-Johnson company, manufacturers of ice skates. Morenz said the company had used his picture and an unauthorized indorsement of its product. He would not say how much financial restitution he is seeking. The case, he said, may be heard Wednesday, but probably would be deferred one month.

The Hawks will make their second excursion of the year to Montreal with even more wariness than they exhibited when they opened against the Canadiens. They have had dealings with the husky Maroons before, and are taking into consideration the fact that the red shirted team must have played handsome hocky to beat the Rangers on the latter's own ice.

The Chicagoans' activities against the Maroons here have been highly satisfactory, resulting in three victories out of three games. But the situation at Montreal is of a different hue. The Maroons larrupped them twice during the regular season, 6 to 5 and 6 to 2.

DORATY'S TWO GOALS FORCE 4TH CONTEST

14,000 Watch Leafs Score 1st Victory.

Detroit, Mich., March 26.—(AP)—The Toronto Maple Leafs tonight handed the Detroit Red Wings a 3 to 1 beating to remain in the running for the National Hocky league championship and a chance for the coveted Stanley cup.

After dropping two straight games on their home ice, the Leafs came back tonight with a desperate driving attack that had Wilf Cude in the wing nets driving repeatedly to save. Cude had 32 stops, half of them in the final period.

Doraty Scores Twice.

Ken Doraty, smallest of the Leafs, scored two goals to clinch the victory. In the final period Hec Kilrea, whose back checking was a feature of the Leaf defense, raced down alone and pulled Cude out to score the final goal of the game.

The Leafs jumped into a lead late in the first period on Doraty's first goal, scored with Wiseman in the penalty box. Herb Lewis tied the score in the second period, beating Hainsworth with Horner off the ice for tripping. The victors then went into a lead on Doraty's second goal, the goal again coming with Detroit a man short after Pettinger had been caught holding Primeau.

The Wings looked best in the second period, driving 10 clean shots at Hainsworth, but only Lewis' was able to beat him. During the first and third periods the Leafs looked superior as they tightened in the pinches and held off a desperate last minute attack.

More than 14,000 saw the game, in which eight penalties were handed out, five against the Leafs. The lineup:

Change Boxers' Styles to Score Knockouts.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, Poland, March 26.—The invitation of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE to the Polish Amateur Boxing union to send its champions to the international Golden Gloves bouts in Chicago is one of the outstanding sporting sensations Poland has experienced in years.

Introduced here by the American Y. M. C. A., which has pioneered many sports in Europe, boxing has become popular in Poland only during the last five years. Now it is rapidly becoming one of the outstanding sports in the country. F. Baranowski, president of the Polski Zwiarck Bokserski [Polish Amateur Boxing union], believes that the invitation of THE TRIBUNE will do more to help this sport to become recognized than years of careful efforts on the part of the boxing clubs.

Change Boxing Style.

"Five years ago boxing was practically an unknown sport in Poland," Baranowski said. "Today we have about 200 clubs divided into 10 districts with a total of 5,900 members. Since 1927 boxing has gained quickly in popularity and each year we hold four or five international tournaments. Our fighters have made excellent showings. Last year the Poznan club fought in Berlin and we won six of the eight contests. We hope to make as good a showing in Chicago. Our featherweights, lightweights and light heavyweights are especially good.

"For the past two years we have been practicing the American style of fighting. Before that time our clubs, like most in Europe, were chiefly interested in scoring points. We placed more value on the technic of boxing than on the ability to fight. American boxers have always gone out to win, if possible, by a knockout.

Army Helps Sport.

"A few weeks ago in Warsaw our fighters fought against those of Hungary, gaining a tie, four bouts to four. Arthur de Kankowski, who is vice president of both the International and the Hungarian Boxing associations, expressed his amazement at our change in style. He asked me what has happened to our fighters and when I told him we were now developing the American style, he decided to introduce it into Hungary.

"In Poland the army has been a consistent supporter of boxing and helps to make it popular. The state institute for physical culture each year trains thirty trainers and our association pays forty per cent of the expenses."

KIPKE CALLS OFF FOOTBALL DRILL TO WATCH HOCKY

Ann Arbor, Mich., March 26.—[Special.]—Michigan football ordinarily doesn't take a back seat for any other sport, but Coach Harry Kipke had a ticket for the Red Wings-Maple Leafs hocky contest at Detroit tonight. Accordingly, football practice was called off until tomorrow. Kipke had planned to get the squad outdoors today, but snowfall ruined his program. As a result indoor work will be continued all week, and the spring program will be extended to May 12 instead of closing May 5.

Break Ground for New $800,000 Coast Track

Jim McMillen Throws Hans Kampfer in 1:09.41

New York, March 26.—[Special.]—Jim McMillen, former University of Illinois football star, defeated Hans Kampfer, Germany, in the feature bout of the wrestling show at the 71st Regiment armory tonight. The finish came after an hour of slow work on the part of the two wrestlers. McMillen scored a fall in 1:09.41 with an arm lock and body hold.

Phil McGraw Starts Ring Comeback; Beats Al King

Dutch Clark Quits as Colorado Mines' Coach

Denver, Colo., March 26.—[Special.]—Earl [Dutch] Clark resigned as director of athletics at Colorado School of Mines today. Clark said he would rejoin the Portsmouth, O., professional football team, whose franchise was transferred to Detroit several days ago.

Booklet on Ponds to Aid Waterfowl

BY BOB BECKER.

Landowners, farmers, and sportsmen who are interested in creating small water areas for the benefit of water fowl, as well as storing of surplus water, will find a new publication just issued of considerable help. It is issued by More Game Birds in America, 500 Fifth avenue, New York.

The purpose behind this booklet is to aid those interested in creation and maintenance of small ponds or lakes. Migrating ducks and geese then will have more feeding and rest areas on their annual migrations. The booklet is available without charge by writing the More Game Birds organization.

Booklet Is Illustrated.

The handbook contains several drawings on how to construct dams for small ponds, such as one might want on a farm, by damming up a creek. Many marshes and sloughs have been drained in the Mississippi valley, thus creating a shortage of feeding areas for water fowl and shore birds. It is amazing how a small artificially made pond will attract jacksnipe, ducks, and similar birds during the migration season. Moreover it is surprising how easy it is to dam a creek and establish a body of water without much cost or trouble. We know of one such pond made a few years ago [in the Nippersink Creek valley northwest of Chicago] by damming a small creek. It was built as an experiment to see if it would attract ducks.

Pond 2 Gunshots Wide.

This body of water, not more than two gunshots in width, drew six different species of ducks during the fall migration last year. It furnished the owner with very fine shooting on one or two occasions. The balance of the fall season this small body of water was a feeding and rest ground. Around the edge of the pond one could see jacksnipe early in the autumn. Even muskrats moved in and established homes in this artificial body of water.

Inasmuch as sportsmen's groups all over the country are being asked to build as many ponds and small lakes as possible for the benefit of wild fowl, and many such projects are being considered, this new handbook will be a great aid to landowner and sportsman.

Booklet on Bird Foods.

As a companion book to the one on water areas, More Game Birds in America also has issued another booklet entitled "Water Fowl Food Plants." This is being distributed free to those interested in improving ponds and lakes by planting foods which water fowl like. It contains a complete chart of aquatic plants. Requests for copies of these booklets should be sent direct to the New York organization.

Plan Catholic Prep Track Meet at Notre Dame

Notre Dame, Ind., March 26.—[Special.]—Preliminary plans for a national Catholic interscholastic track and field meet to be held here Friday, June 1, were announced today by Director of Athletics Elmer F. Layden and John P. Nicholson, track coach.

The meet will be similar in many ways to the Stagg interscholastic meet held at Chicago every year. It will be open to all Catholic high schools in the country and is expected to draw heavily from the eastern sector of the country, where track ranks higher in high schools than it does in other sections.

Participants will be quartered in the residence halls of the university and will be the guests of the university at meals served in the Notre Dame dining halls.

Since commencement exercises will be held June 2 and 3, all residence halls, except the senior halls and those used by returning alumni will be vacant.

Bartholomae, Canoeist, to Race Briton for Trophy

Newport Beach, Cal., March 26.—(AP)—William Bartholomae Jr., canoeist and yachtsman, announced today he planned to sail from New York to England June 15 in an effort to win the seventy-five year old New York Canoe club international trophy for the American Canoe association. Bartholomae, American champion in 1930, will race a picked defender from the British isles on the solent in a series of three contests between July 3 and 14.

Smith to Meet Sonnenberg on Mat Tonight

The bout will be two falls out of three, with a 90 minute time limit.

With his new hold, the Yale lock, Smith is confident that he will make a good showing against Sonnenberg. Sonnenberg, on the other hand, insists that Smith will fall a victim to his flying tackle. The last time they met here Sonnenberg hurled Smith from the ring and the Chicago boy was so severely injured he was unable to continue the contest.

George Mack vs. Ole Oleson, 30 minute time limit.
Gus Clem vs. Ted Danks, 20 minute time limit.
Harry Karadinos vs. Stan Lurik, 20 minute time limit.

INDOOR TENNIS PLAYERS TO OPEN TOURNEY SUNDAY

Johnny McDiarmid, Fort Worth, Tex., No. 16 in the national singles ranking, is one of the latest to enter the twelfth annual Western Indoor Tennis tournament to be held at the 108th Engineers armory, 34th street and Wentworth avenue, beginning Sunday and ending April 8.

With Bill Parkhill, defending title holder, Thane Halsted, George O'Connell, and John Shoestrom among those entered, the battle for the singles title promises plenty of action.

Dawson's 68 Beats Jones in Exhibition

Pinehurst, N. C., March 26.—(AP)—Johnny Dawson set the pace today as the field for the north and south open tournament tuned up for tomorrow's first 18-hole round.

Playing an exhibition match with Bobby Jones, Horton Smith and Ed Dudley, the Chicago amateur not only turned in the low ball for the quartet, a 68, but holed his tee shot for an ace on the seventh as a gallery of 500 looked on.

Each member of the foursome except Dudley, who had a 74, was under par 71 for the round. Although he still had trouble with his putting—his nemesis in the Augusta tournament which ended yesterday—Jones shot a 70. On the first hole he missed a one foot putt.

Smith Shoots 69.

Smith, also of Chicago, who won at Augusta, served notice he expects to be up on top again here with a 69.

The foursome played with a newly developed needled ball which its sponsors say combines for the first time maximum distance with a hard cover. In previous ball manufacturing experience, the hard-cover ball has lost distance due to the loss of pressure inside the ball from the heat necessary to vulcanize the hard cover. In the needled ball the lost pressure is restored by a hypodermic addition to the ball's liquid center.

The players said they found the ball had a longer carry on the full shots and Jones added he thought it also was livelier on the green.

Field of 100.

Nearly 100 players were on hand for the north and south and expectations were that late arrivals would run the list of entries well above that figure. The field includes virtually all the leading performers of the winter circuit. Joe Kirkwood, who won last year with a record breaking 276, will not defend his title, however. He and Gene Sarazen, the P. G. A. champion, are on a barnstorming trip to South America.

Amateur stars in addition to Dawson include George T. Dunlap Jr., of New York, who learned his game on the Pinehurst course and is rated as a serious threat to the pros here.

Johnny Goodman Shoots 68 in Drill for 1934 Meets

Omaha, Neb., March 26.—[Special.]—Johnny Goodman of Omaha, holder of the United States open golf championship and member of America's Walker cup team, is going to have another good year, in the opinion of Stanley Davies, Omaha Field club professional. Goodman has been practicing steadily, and yesterday he scored a 68, four under par.

PANAMA SWEEP UNABLE TO PAY PRIZE WINNERS

BY GERALD MARTIN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PANAMA CITY, March 26.—The Panama Jocky club was seeking ways and means tonight of paying winners in the second international sweepstakes run Sunday after discovering that $27,000 collected through the sale of tickets was missing.

Parke Mullinux of Chicago admitted selling the tickets, but declared commissions and operating expenses more than exceeded collections. Mullinux said he had disposed of 13,500 tickets at $2 each.

The Jocky club directors met tonight with Mullinux and John Stott, said to be a Canadian promoter, who controls the sweepstakes company, and attempted to persuade Mullinux to put the $27,000 in the pool.

Club Waives Its Share.

Operating expense of the sweepstakes included a $10,000 purse for the race, which was paid out of other ticket collections. Stott said the company had disposed of $41,000 worth of chances, most of which were sold in the United States. The Panama government received $4,000 in taxes. This amount and the purse left for the sweepstakes pool the $27,000 which Mullinux has not turned in. The Jocky club agreed to waive its 10 per cent of the pool.

Winners included Joseph J. Rooster, 2472 West 23d street, Chicago, and T. A. Shannon, 4729 North Laramie avenue, Chicago, both of whom had tickets for the sixth prize. The grand prize went to Henry Otten, Forest Hills, Long Iland.

SHANNON NOT NOTIFIED.

Parke Mullinux is not listed in Chicago directories nor was it possible last night to learn his identity or that of his reputed partner, said to be a man by the name of Sprague.

T. A. Shannon, 4729 North Laramie avenue, was inaccessible last night, but Mrs. Shannon said she knew nothing of his having a sweepstake ticket or where he might have obtained it. As far as she knew he had not been notified of the draw. He is unemployed.

Sandbach Sets World's Record for Hurdles

Lafayette, Ind., March 26.—[Special.] — Kenneth Sandbach, Purdue hurdler, set a new world's record for the 60 yard indoor high hurdles, in defeating Willis Ward of Michigan, in the Butler relays Saturday night, it was learned today in a report from Daniel J. Ferris of New York, secretary of the A. A. U. Sandbach was timed in 7.4 seconds.

The accepted world's mark for the event, according to Ferris, is 7.5 seconds, set by George P. Guthrie in 1927. John Collier was credited with 7.5 seconds in winning the event at the Millrose games in New York City on Feb. 3.

REDS SCORE 3 IN TENTH TO DEFEAT PHILLIES, 12 TO 9

Philadelphia Pitchers Are Ineffective.

Winter Haven, Fla., March 26.—(AP)—The Cincinnati Reds today defeated the Phillies, scoring three runs in the tenth inning for a 12 to 9 victory.

The Reds made 19 hits and the Phillies 16 hits. Neither Collins, Holley nor Grabowski was able to hold the Reds in check. Score:

BRAVES, 9; RED SOX, 1.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 26.—(AP)—Fred Frankhouse held the Red Sox to five scattered hits today to give the Braves a 9 to 1 victory in the first game the Boston major league teams ever have played against each other in the south. The American leaguers were set down in order four times during the game. Manager Bill McKechnie sent in Ed Brandt in the ninth, but Frankhouse could have finished without relief.

Score:

SENATORS ARE WEARY.

Biloxi, Miss., March 26.—(AP)—It will be a long time before Clark Griffith sends his Senators against another sand-lot team. The American league champions were stiff and sore today from their exertions in a 17 to 0 affair with the Biloxi Browns. They had to duck and dodge to keep from being beaned. Al Schacht, coach, finally pitched for Biloxi to insure safety. Elmer Klumpp hit Schacht for a home run.

LOPEZ LOOKS IN SHAPE.

Al worked out for two hours this morning and took part in another long drill this afternoon. He showed his old time skill and snap and appeared in excellent condition.

JACKSON CROWDS OUT RYAN.

So far the champions have been unimpressive, but Bill Terry has been pleased by the sensational come back of Travis Jackson. The veteran shortstop, fully recovered from knee injuries which have handicapped him in recent years, has crowded Blondy Ryan out of the regular infield.

YANKEES WANT PITCHER.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 26.—(AP)—The New York Yankees sharpened their batting eyes in a two hour drill today while Joe McCarthy pondered the possibility of a trade.

Joe is looking for another experienced pitcher. He probably would be willing to part with Shortstop Lyn Lary and Outfielder Myril Hoag if he could find some one willing to talk terms.

CURRY WRESTLES SISKI TOMORROW ON FRONTON CARD

Matchmaker Hynekk Howell has completed the card for his wrestling show at the Rainbo Fronton tomorrow night. Bull Curry, light heavyweight from Hartford, Conn., arrived yesterday as did Swen Siski, his opponent. They meet in the 90 minute windup. Alex Kasaboski and Ted McNeill of Des Moines clash in the 30 minute semi-windup. Toots Estes is matched with Dick Costello of Boston. Jack McAdams, light heavy champion of Georgia meets George Jonason and Ralph Ransome tackles Rudy Kay.

DUKELSKY AND PHAGAN BATTLE TO 8 ROUND DRAW

Johnny Phagan and Solly Dukelsky battled to an eight round draw in the feature bout at the Marigold Gardens last night before a capacity crowd of 1,500 spectators. In the semi-windup Adolph Wiator scored a technical knockout over Willie Davies in the fourth of a scheduled five round fight.

In other bouts Hank Beuker won the decision from Bob Crowley in four rounds, George Shrosbee outpointed Frankie Keevil in four, and Frankie Mirabel defeated Freddie Gravelle in another four round preliminary.

Runs Keep Coming In.

The Angels scored again in the third, on a single by Gudat, an infield out, and a single by Oglesby. The Cubs countered by scoring once in their half of the fourth against Meola. Goebel started with a single and Root sacrificed, Goebel scored on Galan's single. Then the Angels picked up one in their fourth on doubles by Mattick and Gilly Campbell. This left the Cubs in front, 6 to 3.

Before Root retired at the end of the fifth the Angels came up with another tally. Gudat singled to right and ran for the plate on a double by Oglesby. Gudat scored because Jurges made a wild relay.

The Cubs scored again in the sixth on a double by Goebel and a single by Hartnett, who batted for Root. An error on Klein's grounder, followed by Babe Herman's single, accounted for one more in the seventh. The Angels also registered in this inning on Oglesby's homer off Nelson.

Babe Gets a Double.

The Cubs completed their heavy work with a run in the eighth and two in the ninth. In the former instance singles by Nelson and Galan did the trick. In the ninth Babe Herman doubled, Camilli walked, and both came home on Goebel's single.

Tomorrow the Cubs will have the pleasure of meeting the Sox again in the opener of a two day series. Two victories this spring over their time honored Chicago enemies have the Cubs believing they finally have buried the Indian sign which the American leaguers have been swinging in front of their noses for a number of years. Manager Grimm is going to start Guy Bush tomorrow and let him go the nine inning route if possible. Bush needs a victory over the Sox to even his record against them at four decisions and the same number of setbacks.

Other Veterans Slow.

Routing Bush for a nine inning journey may be proper in his case, but there is reason to believe he is about the only one of the veterans fitted for the effort. All the other old fellows like Root, Malone, Warneke, and Tinning have had trouble even in limited appearances of four and five innings. However, all of them are in perfect physical condition, so it is just a matter of toughening up their arms. They'll have plenty of chances for this, what with four games against the Pirates immediately after the pair with the Sox.

It is highly probable that during the series with the Pirates here Grimm will give Roy [Lefty] Joiner a shot at a nine inning job. Joiner, whose semi-bald head arouses doubt about his 27 years, has done neat work in each of his appearances this spring. In 14 innings against various enemies he has yielded only two runs. If Joiner delivers the goods Grimm won't have to be bothered about the possibilities of one or two of his veteran right handers flopping.

Galan Still Trying.

Until either Hack or English recovers from respective ailments of weak arm and sore foot, Grimm will be forced to continue trying to make Galan, the San Francisco purchase, into a third baseman. The young man has shown himself a wizard at picking up ground balls, but can't accustom himself to the difference in throwing from second to first and from third to first. He is trying to develop an overhand toss.

Jones to Pitch Against Cubs; Sox Release Rookies

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pasadena, Cal., March 26. — The White Sox rested today, not because they have earned a vacation, but for the practical reason that their bloomers, etc., were at Wrigley field, Los Angeles. The series with the Cubs will be resumed there tomorrow, so the Sox left their raiment after absorbing a beating yesterday at the hands of the Pirates.

The day brought about the demise of Pitcher Otho Nitcholas, insofar as the current White Sox are concerned. Otho was sent to Sacramento on option as a part of the transaction which brought Outfielder French Bordagaray to the Sox. The Senators still have a pitcher coming via outright release. Milt Gaston may be the man, or it may turn out to be John Pomorski, Phil Gallivan, or Paul Gregory.

Manager Fonseca said today he would start Sam Jones against the Cubs tomorrow, working him four or five innings before sending in either Gregory or Gallivan. Fonseca expects to have Hayes back in the lineup at second base. Joe Chamberlin showed signs of losing his easy grace in the strange position and Boss Lew concluded he'd better cool the lad off for several days.

The outfield has developed into something of a problem because of the inability of Bordagaray and Uhalt. It scarcely seems believable that class AA outfielders should have trouble judging fly balls, but both of the aforesaid gents have repeatedly run in on balls that promptly went over their heads.

Fonseca and Vice President Harry Grabiner, jointly in charge of operations here since Owner Comiskey returned to Chicago, have not given up on the thought that a major league ball club can be assembled before the opening of the season on April 17. It is said that everything possible toward this end will be done.

There has been some dickering for a lefthanded pitcher. If one is obtained he will be a rarity, indeed, for there is not a man on the present squad, pitcher, infielder or outfielder, who throws with his left arm.

MAX BAER BEGINS TRAINING GRIND AT LAKE TAHOE

Globins, Lake Tahoe, Cal., March 26.—(AP)—Obviously out of condition and somewhat reluctant to turn his back on the gay city life, Max Baer today opened a ten weeks' training campaign which he hopes will bring him the heavyweight championship when he battles Primo Carnera on June 14.

The big Californian hasn't engaged in a serious conditioning program since he knocked out Max Schmeling last June. He knows he is out of shape and considerably overweight. Admitting this fact, he argues in the same breath: "I've got more than two months to go. I'll be in the best of condition by the time June 14 comes around."

For two weeks he is going to rough it in this mountain country, scaling the foothills, chopping logs and rowing on the lake. It is preliminary to more intensive preparations as time nears for the fight. He will do no boxing here.

TAKE ADVANTAGE OF LOW FARES over EASTER

A "happy Easter" thought!—spend the week-end with the folks back home or with old friends you've been promising to visit for a long time.

The cost isn't much—thanks to the new, low fares now in effect. In coaches the round trip fare is only 1½c a mile each way—first class, 2c a mile each way—and you can stay as long as 10 days if you like. And the berth or parlor car seat charge is cut a full third!

But perhaps the best part of the New Order of Low Rail Fares is that you can go any day, to anywhere, on any train

Two of the outstanding teams ever qualified for the final round of the Knights of Columbus Basketball league will play for the twenty-first championship Sunday when St. Cyr of the west division clashes with Englewood of the south at the 132d Regiment armory, Madison and Rockwell streets.

St. Cyr is the defending champion, having won the title last season for the first time. Englewood has never won a championship. It will be attempting to win the first title for the south division of the league since 1922, when Auburn Park triumphed.

Peoria, Ill., March 26.—[Special.]—Rome Motor Sales of Chicago went into third place in the five man event of the American Bowling Congress tourney late tonight with a total of 2,943.

Redman Rolls 278.

Louie Redman, veteran A. B. C. bowler, had 278 in helping to place the Rome lineup among the topnotchers. Pete Butler, who won the doubles title at Chicago in 1929, paired with Wally Klecz, backed up Redman with a 257 count. Art Butler hit 205, Johnny Small, 212, and Herb Gumz, 171.

Nirison created another upset among the Big Ten leaders by taking sixth place in the singles division with 679, and fifth place in the all-events class with a nine game aggregate of 1,863.

Trischmann Bowls 288.

Trischmann, who started bowling 36 years ago, gave the crowd a thrill when he made ten consecutive strikes in his second game. He scored the high game in the singles division and second best of the tourney to date with 288.

The Chicagoan preceded his high game with 176 and wound up with 201 for a 665 total. It was the highest score he has made in tournament competition.

Nirison Leads Bowlers.

DETROIT HOCKY TEAM CLEARED IN A. A. U. CASE

New York, March 26.—[Special.]—Charges that several Canadian members of the White Star A. C. hocky team of Detroit, national champions, did not comply with the citizenship eligibility ruling of the A. A. U. were denied by Frederick Rubien, chairman of the hocky committee, today.

"According to the requirements of the A. A. U. the Detroit team has complied in every respect," Rubien said. At the national meeting in January it was ruled that all competitors possessing first citizenship papers, who can obtain their final papers prior to Jan. 1, 1936, are eligible."

The White Star squad, which defeated the Metropolitan All-Stars of New York, 5 to 1, last night for the United States title, will meet Canada's Allan cup champions in a two game series next month at Montreal.

WHEN YOU LIGHT

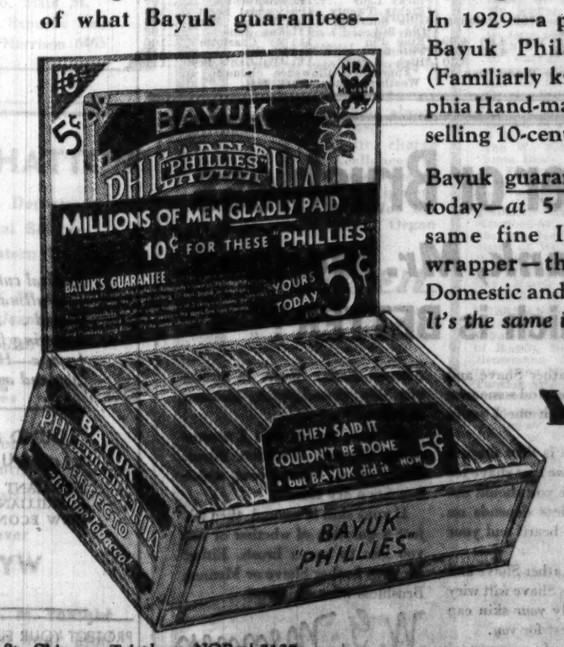
Consider these facts alone. Does it please your taste? Does it give you more real enjoyment than any cigar you've ever smoked?

Millions of experienced smokers put Bayuk "Phillies" to this test. They compared it with cigars costing double and triple its price. The result made cigar history in the East during 1933—and is making cigar history in Chicago today.

The amazing success of this fine cigar is convincing proof of what Bayuk guarantees—a 10c cigar value for 5c. Look for the box of Bayuk "Phillies" on your dealer's counter—and read Bayuk's Guarantee in the blue band on the lid.



Bayuk's Guarantee

In 1929—a peak sales year—the Bayuk Philadelphia Perfecto (Familiarly known as "Philadelphia Hand-made") was the largest-selling 10-cent brand in America.

Bayuk guarantees that this cigar today—at 5 cents—contains the same fine Imported Sumatra wrapper—the same fine ripe Domestic and Havana long-filler. It's the same identical cigar.

AGREE ON MUTUEL BETTING LAW FOR NEW YORK RACING

Compromise Gives Jocky Club Control.

New York, March 26.—[Special.]—Compromise legislation looking to a final solution of New York's tangled racing situation was agreed upon today following a meeting of Jocky club attorneys and representatives of Senator John J. Dunnigan.

So confident were members of the Jocky club of the outcome that they canceled their train reservations to Albany and the organization will not be represented at the public hearing on racing bills to be held there tomorrow afternoon.

Jocky Club Keeps Control.

There was only a brief statement after the meeting from William Woodward, chairman of the Jocky club, but it became known on high authority that the following were the major points of agreement:

1. The creation of a new state racing commission of three nonsalaried members.

2. Jocky club control of the sport unimpaired, but with the new commission having a voice in affairs.

4. Passage of the Twomey pari-mutuel and totalizator betting bill for use if and when the constitution is amended to permit it.

Meet to Fix Dates.

The statement from Mr. Woodward follows:

"Many members of the Jocky club, of which I am one, have expressed our opposition to the so-called Dunnigan racing bill. The Jocky club has considered the bill. It is understood that Senator Dunnigan proposed to amend his bill in certain particulars. If so amended and if the senate committee should adopt the amendments the Jocky club will interpose no objection to the bill as amended."

There are many steps yet to be taken before legal cash betting becomes a reality, but Joseph E. Widener, vice chairman of the Jocky club, was so confident of favorable action that he called a meeting of the various racing associations for tomorrow to consider racing dates for the coming season. It is believed that racing will begin here during the last week in April.

ENTRIES CLOSE TODAY FOR A. A. U. WRESTLING MEET

Entries close today for the annual Central A. A. U. wrestling tournament, which will be held Friday and Saturday at the McKinley park men's gymnasium, 39th street and Western avenue, under the auspices of the McKinley Wrestling club.

A large entry list has been assured with colleges, parks, Y. M. C. A.'s and other athletic clubs sending one man to a full squad to compete in seven weight classes. The classes range from 118 pounds to heavyweight.

The 1933 championship team from Lincoln park will attempt to retain its title. It will include Heinie Mueller, Erwick, Hurst, and Tarola. South parks just completed an interpark tournament, in which 218 men were entered. The winners of this meet will represent south parks. Some of the south parks stars are Harr, Nelson, Firtima, Wintowe, Lenhardt, Barbrich, and Sickich.

Hyde Park Y. M. C. A., with Herdes and Brown, former Big Ten champions, is a contender, as is the squad from the Swedish-American Athletic club.

NEW YORK CITY CONDEMNS SITE OF FAMOUS CLUB

New York, March 26.—[Special.]—The Columbia Yacht club, which had come to be regarded by its members as quasi-public because of its traditional function of welcoming all visiting fleets and vessels of note, has been notified by the park department that it must give up its clubhouse and dock at the foot of 86th street.

Park Commissioner Robert Moses said today the acre of water front property occupied by the club for more than sixty years was "one of the most valuable plots of its kind in the city" and was needed by his department in connection with the general improvement of Riverside park and the made land below it.

"We have notified the club it will have to get out," he said. "They feel very badly about it. We do, too. They have been there a long time—since long before there were any other buildings in that neighborhood."

JOY TRIUMPHS OVER LEWIS IN MIDWAY WINDUP

Two knockouts marked the preliminary fights; Georgie Trapp scoring in the first round against Lester Schulz and Jack Kranz in the second round against Gene Harris. Joe Serietic outpointed Tom Habel in a four round bout. John Holda defeated Ralph Ransom in 11 minutes of a scheduled 15 minute wrestling match. Ransom went out of the ring and failed to return within 20 seconds, the referee counting him out.

HICKEY NAMES A NEW UMPIRE FOR ASSOCIATION

One new name appears on the 1934 American association staf of umpires announced yesterday by President Thomas Jefferson Hickey. Pat Donahue, for the last six years with the Western league, is the newcomer.

Chester Swanson, carried last year as an extra, will work as a regular this season. The rest of the staf is Larry Goetz, George Johnson, C. E. Johnston, W. F. Clayton, E. J. McLaughlin, and Thomas P. Dunn.

Florida Turf Body Probes Mutuel Plot

Miami, Fla., March 26.—(AP)—Behind closed doors the state racing commission today heard detailed testimony of alleged irregularities in the pari-mutuel department at Tropical Park, where the last week of thoroughbred horse racing in Florida this winter is being held.

Nearly two score of witnesses were summoned before the hearing, at which commission members said they would "go to the bottom" of an alleged conspiracy they declared was designed to defraud the betting public out of thousands of dollars.

No Statement Made.

Walter H. Donovan, secretary of the race governing body, said details would not be made public pending the outcome of the hearing.

James Walsh, a Canadian, recently was removed as superintendent of the mutuels department at the track and Mortimer Mahoney of Baltimore named his successor. Mahoney already has charge of those departments at Hialeah Park here and at such other tracks as Pimlico, Bowie, Hagerstown, Timonium, and Marlboro in Maryland, Epsom Downs at Houston, and a new plant at Dallas.

Would Bar Guilty Parties.

Donovan said the permanent barring from all Florida tracks would be the maximum penalty the commission could impose on any person found guilty of participating in the alleged conspiracy.

An outline of the charges recently was presented at a meeting of the board of the Gables Racing association, operators of Tropical Park. Walsh's removal as superintendent of the mutuels followed.

"Lather or Brushless
Which is BETTER?"

I MAKE BOTH Lather Shave and Brushless Shave. And some men want to know which one I really recommend.

The plain truth is this: there is no such thing as one best shave for all faces. Whether you should use Lather or Brushless depends on your own type of beard and your own type of skin.

Both Mennen Lather Shave and Mennen Brushless Shave wilt wiry whiskers. But only your skin can decide which is best for you.

If your skin is normal, then it's just a question of whether or not you like to use a brush. Either Mennen Lather Shave or Mennen Brushless wilts whiskers!

W. G. Mennen

MYSTERY DANCER IN STAVISKY GEM HUNT IDENTIFIED

Won't Admit Pawning of Scandal Jewels in London

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 26.—The mysterious girl dancer in the Stavisky jewel hunt in London was revealed today as Ceceli Nono, blonde cabaret artist. She has been dancing recently in several well known London night clubs, and at one time appeared in Stavisky's theater in Paris.

Miss Nono, however, in a grilling at Scotland Yard, denied she had pawned any jewels for the late Serge Stavisky in London in connection with his $60,000,000 French bond swindle.

Admits Love for Secretary.

Miss Nono did admit that she knew Stavisky. Further she declared she loved Stavisky's secretary, Gilbert Romagnino, and has promised to wait for him until he is released from prison in Paris. He visited her in London in February, she said, and "came only to see me. He was with me all the time and never out of my sight long enough to pawn the jewels."

During the day the Stavisky jewels discovered Saturday in the T. M. Sutton pawnshop were taken to Scotland Yard to be examined by Maurice Seror, French gem expert who flew to London from Paris yesterday.

Seek More Gems.

The French police are now trying to discover who pawned the jewels in London, where that person is now, and whether any more Stavisky gems are hidden away in London pawnshops.

It is reported that further Stavisky jewels, valued at $500,000, have been traced to various shops here.

TRAYLOR'S WILL PROBATED; BANK MADE EXECUTOR

The will of the late Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National bank, was admitted to probate yesterday by George B. Weiss, assistant to the Probate judge. The First National bank was named executor and trustee.

No official figures as to the size of the estate were given, but it was unofficially estimated that Mr. Traylor left about $400,000, exclusive of insurance. The insurance is said to total nearly three-quarters of million dollars.

Except for a few small bequests, the estate is left in trust for the widow, Mrs. Dorothy Y. Traylor. She is to receive the income during her lifetime unless she remarries. In this event the trust income shall be divided equally between the two children, Melvin Jr., 18 years old, and Nancy, 19 years old.

Three other wills were admitted to probate and filed with Mitchell C. Robins, clerk of the Probate court yesterday. The wills are those of:

INDIANA EDITOR SUED BY TEDDY ROOSEVELT DIES

Indianapolis, Ind., March 26.—[Special.]—Louis Howland, 77, for many years editor of the Indianapolis News, died at his home here today of pneumonia. He was the author of the editorial on which was based the libel action brought by Theodore Roosevelt, then President, against the News. Various intimations that money had been handled loosely in buying up French claims before the United States took over the Panama canal work had aroused widespread public interest.

The action was dropped when United States Judge Albert A. Anderson ruled that the men responsible for publication of the editorial in Indiana could not be forced to appear in Washington to answer the charge.

He was the author of five books.

Lain & SON SINCE 1891 A SIGN of SERVICE

Pioneers in protecting the public against high funeral costs, Lain & Son have always set the standard of service.

Today, Lain holds more services in a month than the average undertaker has in a year. No other Chapel in Chicago holds as many services as Lain's.

Because of this leadership, Lain includes these exclusive features with all services, even those as low as $110:

Conditioned Air
Protects the health of all who attend Lain Chapel services — provides an abundance of air washed and purified, and circulated at correct temperature.

Imperial Quartet
Lain was the first Chapel to include with all services — the Imperial Male Quartet, Organist and Organ.

Price Protection
Lain was the first to answer the price question by publishing the cost of 1000 funerals; showing that more than one-third of Lain services actually cost less than $200. Also, to price mark all merchandise.

Quality Merchandise
Lain's prices are lower because of volume. All merchandise is bought on a cash basis from reliable manufacturers only; we never offer "bargains" or "seconds" in merchandise.

Lain's personnel has few changes over the years, and with the most modern of facilities — render a service that cannot be equaled.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 26.—Bond prices stiffened today on the stock exchange except in the case of foreign loans, which were generally weaker. Trading, however, continued light, amounting to $11,026,000. The higher rated domestic corporation bonds participated in the advance, along with the more speculative issues, with resultant gains of small fractions to more than 3 points.

Domestic railroad bonds averaged slightly higher than did utility and industrial issues. A sizeable list of issues, notably in the case of the rails, touched new highs for the year. In the utilities, Interborough obligations rose 1 to 1½ points. The senate judiciary committee is scheduled to resume public hearings on the company's receivership on Saturday.

Federal Bonds Fairly Active.

United States government bonds were moderately active, closing generally higher, up 5-32ds to down 2-32ds point. Pending the announcement of the treasury's financial plans for the next month, buyers and sellers alike are disposed to do no more than routine trading.

In the foreign group, German bonds showed the most pronounced weakness, losing ground fractionally to 5 points on the disquieting news reports from Germany regarding the nation's finances. Most of the German issues touched new lows for the year. French government 7½s and 7s were down ⅝ and a point, respectively, and Dutch East Indies loans were unchanged to off 3½ points.

British Bonds Higher.

United Kingdom 4s, due 1990, were fractionally higher in heavy dealings, as were Swiss government 5s in light trading. Scandinavian loans showed fractional variations. Bonds of the Argentine group continued the strongest of the South American list.

On the Curb exchange, German loans were down 1 to 4 points. Domestic bonds moved generally higher, finishing up 4¼ to off 2½ points on the day.

Conferences in Washington regarding the possible purchase of New York City bonds by federal agencies resulted in the day's issues closing unchanged to fractionally higher in the over the counter market.

E. I. du Pont de Nemours.

Investors' Guide: Do you have a recent report on stock of Du Pont? If so, I shall appreciate a copy.—Miss B. J. E.

Answer: E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., Inc., was originally established in 1802 as a manufacturer of explosives. It has since diversified to a great extent. Its various fields, listed in order of importance, now are organic chemicals, fabrics and finishes, heavy chemicals, cellophane, rayon, commercial explosives, electrochemicals and blasting accessories, plastics, ammonia products, and sporting and military explosives.

In addition it has 10,000,000 shares of General Motors stock, slightly less than one share for each share of du Pont common.

The four year record of earnings follow:

1933	$12,500,000	$38,895,000	$2.93
1932	12,500,000	26,234,000	1.81
1931	29,943,000	53,190,000	4.30
1930	32,937,000	55,962,000	4.52

Volume of business in the final quarter of 1933 was about 33 per cent greater than in the corresponding 1932 period. For full 1933 year volume was about 25 per cent greater than in 1932. The increase in tonnage accounted for practically all the gain from operations.

Current position at the close of 1933 was impressive. Cash assets alone of $76,000,000 compared with total current liabilities of $16,601,000. The company could retire its bonded debt, current liabilities, and debenture stock out of current assets and still have about 20 cents per common share left over without touching its investment in General Motors.

Subsidiary company bonds outstanding total $1,135,000. There are outstanding 1,092,949 shares of 6 per cent $100 par debenture stock and 11,050,613 shares of $20 par common. The common pays 50 cents a quarter. An extra of 75 cents a share was paid on Dec. 15, 1933.

The automobile industry more than any other single line is the chief outlet for the company's products, and earnings thus far this year should reflect the high level of automobile production.

The company's research department has been successful in bringing out new products and in cutting production costs.

PREDICT STEEL PAY BOOST OF 10% ON APRIL 1

Action of Two Firms Hints General Rise.

Pittsburgh, Pa., March 26.—(AP)—While no official statement was available tonight, it was learned from reliable sources that a general 10 per cent pay increase in wages of steel workers, without any reduction in the present 40 hour work week, will be granted by the industry on April 1.

The executive committee of the United States Steel corporation meets tomorrow in New York and steel circles predict it will approve the boost.

An important independent steel concern already has informed members of the American Iron and Steel institute of its intentions of granting the raise regardless of action by others.

Announcement in Cleveland that the Corrigan-McKinney Steel company has notified its employés' association of the increase is seen as further confirmation of the step.

Near 1929 Wage Level.

Officials said the increase will restore wages to approximately the 1929 level in many companies. There was a general 10 per cent increase last summer. Salaried employés probably will not participate in the raise.

Such an increase will mean a boost of almost $100,000,000 annually to workers if the present steady increase in steel production continues, one official estimated.

Steel leaders, particularly E. T. Weir, chairman of the National Steel corporation, have bitterly opposed the federal administration's plan to reduce weekly work hours, as was effected in the automobile industry. They maintain this would be much too costly in their mills without increasing employment materially.

Cleveland Company Acts.

Cleveland, O., March 26.—(AP)—A 10 per cent wage increase will be instituted at the Corrigan-McKinney Steel company April 1, R. C. Harrison, president of the firm's employés' association, announced tonight.

Donald B. Gillies, president of the company, confirmed news of the increase, but said he had hoped its publication would await "some more general announcement." Industrial circles interpreted this as an intimation that the boost might apply to all steel plants in this section of the country.

Approximately 4,500 men are employed at the Corrigan-McKinney mills, which are operating at 82 per cent of capacity.

If an increase of 10 per cent should be instituted at all the country's steel plants it would affect more than 420,000 men who depend upon steel for their livelihood.

Beyond saying that he had intended to await the "more general" announcement of the boost, President Gillies would not comment.

The steel industry was buoyed up today by the successful conclusion of negotiations between automobile workers and manufacturers at Washington, and a prompt expansion of releases was looked for from Detroit and Cleveland motor and accessory plants. Even throughout the turmoil of the recent threatened strike, however, it was said that neither General Motors nor Ford suspended shipments.

Cleveland Plants Busier.

Gradually easing into higher productive capacities in the last few weeks in the Cleveland area, the steel plants which have been blowing in fresh hearths include the Otis Steel company and the National Tube company at Lorain, O. Otis is working eight hearths and the National eleven at present.

Operations in the Mahoning valley were lifted to the 50 per cent level with the firing of an additional open hearth, and industrial circles predicted a boost to 60 per cent within the next ten days.

Nation's Output 45.7% Capacity.

New York, March 26.—(AP)—The American Iron and Steel institute today estimated current steel ingot production in the United States at 45.7 per cent of capacity compared with 46.8 per cent a week ago.

Holders of existing bills and coins would be required to turn them over to the government in exchange for new money.

Chicago Area's Closed Banks Get 8 Million

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Loans on the assets of closed banks in the seventh federal reserve district approximating 8 million dollars have been approved by the Chicago district committee of the deposit liquidation board which was set up last fall as a part of President Roosevelt's program for liquidating banks. The Chicago committee and those in the other reserve districts are to turn over their work on April 15 to the regular organization of the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

James R. Leavell president of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, who is chairman of the Chicago district committee, indicated yesterday that when the RFC organization here takes over the work the local committee will have approved loans approximating 11 million dollars.

Bankers Form Committees.

The various local committees are composed of well known bankers who survey the assets on which receivers of closed banks seek loans from the RFC for the purpose of paying dividends to the depositors. The recommendation of the committee as to the amount of the loan which should be made against the assets is forwarded to Washington for final approval.

To date receivers of about 75 closed banks in the seventh federal reserve district have had loans approved by the Chicago committee and more loans are expected to be approved by the committee between now and the time the regular RFC organization takes over the task of weighing assets.

So far loans have been approved to three banks in Chicago for a total of $521,000, but a considerable number of other Chicago banks are expected to make application for loans today.

Illinois Has Good Showing.

Banks in Illinois are getting a large part of the loans being made because Edward J. Barrett, state auditor, has had a staff of 100 working with receivers of the closed institutions, it was stated. A large number of applications from Wisconsin banks are expected today, and the Iowa situation has been about cleared up. The committee ran into difficulties in trying to help the Michigan banks because of a law which provides that banks must segregate assets according to savings and commercial accounts. This complicated the making of loans.

It was pointed out by the committee here yesterday that of the loans sought by the various receivers, an average of 90 per cent of the total amount asked was approved by the Chicago group. The loans approved by Washington permitted an average payment between 30 and 35 per cent to depositors. A few of the dividends paid were in excess of 50 per cent, but these were mostly in the cases of smaller banks.

Loans Require Month.

The time required for the payment of a loan to a receiver from the day he made application until he turned over his assets to the RFC as collateral averaged about a month. In no instance did the various local committees seek to make the loans; it was up to the bank receivers to apply for them.

It was stated here yesterday that if the loans made through the Chicago committee may be taken as a criterion, the federal government stands to get out of this activity without having to take a loss. The sharp improvement in the bond market in the last few weeks has helped many banks, it was said.

RFC RATE SLASH MEANS A LARGE SAVING TO BANKS

Officials of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company and the First National bank expressed satisfaction yesterday with the announcement of the Reconstruction Finance corporation that, effective April 1, it is reducing the dividend and interest rate on preferred stock and capital notes to 4 per cent for a period of five years. At the expiration of the five year period the rate will be increased to 5 per cent. One banker said the action was like a gift from Santa Claus.

In the case of the Continental, in which the RFC has purchased $50,000,000 of preferred stock, the saving will be $500,000 a year, or $2,500,000 for the period. The RFC has $25,000,00 of preferred stock in the First National so the saving to that bank will be $250,000 a year, or $1,250,000 for the period.

The action of the RFC in reducing its rates was attributed in La Salle street to the determination of the government to maintain easy money. By so doing, it was pointed out, the government hopes to cause surplus funds to be pumped out for the use of business and industry.

Some bankers, however, question the ability of the government to succeed in this respect, insisting that they are now, as they have been in the past, ready to make loans to any one when they feel they are assured of repayment.

Peoria Life Insurance Receiver Ruling Held Up

Springfield, Ill., March 26.—(AP)—A stay of mandate was issued by Justice Lott R. Herrick of the Illinois Supreme court today, holding at status quo the controversy over appointment of receivers for the Peoria Life Insurance company until the court rules on a rehearing asked by Circuit Judge John M. Niehaus of Peoria. The court last week ruled that the state director of insurance, and not Judge Niehaus, had power to name insurance receivers.

AM. TELEPHONE REPORTS LARGE GAIN IN SERVICE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 26.—During the first two months of its operation the number of banks holding membership in the temporary insurance fund whereby individual deposit accounts are insured in full up to $2,500 increased by 1,015 to 13,632, Leo T. Crowley, chairman of the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation, announced today. The fund came into being on Jan. 1, 1934.

The number of insured accounts in banks which are members of the insurance fund increased by 2,068,229 during the first two months, to 54,814,249 at the end of February. The insured deposits rose during the same period $449,559,099, to $15,512,744,157.

At the end of February the number of state non-federal reserve member banks in the insurance fund was 7,442, a gain of 688 in the two months. National banks totaled 5,275, an increase of 214, and state bank members of the federal reserve system numbered 915, or 113 more than at the first of the year.

The states showing the largest increases in the number of insured banks during the two months were: Wisconsin, 156; Texas, 133; Pennsylvania, 66; Ohio, 62; New York, 55; Kansas, 53; Missouri, 49; Nebraska, 45; Iowa, 44; Illinois, 38; Indiana, 34, and Michigan, 30.

The corporation said the ten leading states in respect to deposit insurance have 75.46 per cent of all the insured deposits in the United States and 65.52 per cent of all insured accounts. Illinois had 2,936,350 insured accounts totaling $694,830,000.

CANADA RATIFIES PACT TO HOLD UP PRICE OF SILVER

OTTAWA, March 26.—(AP)—The dominion government today forwarded to Washington the formal ratification of the silver agreement negotiated at the world economic conference in London last summer. The pact was signed by Prime Minister Bennett as secretary of state for external affairs.

Under the agreement the dominion, in common with Australia, United States, Mexico, and Peru, will cooperate in keeping a certain amount of silver off the market in an effort to maintain the price at a reasonable minimum.

The agreement was reached by delegates of India, China, and Spain as holders of large stocks and users of silver, and of Australia, Canada, the United States, Mexico, and Peru as principal producers of silver.

Australia, the United States, and India had already made formal ratification. Mexico and Peru have until April 1 to comply with the agreement.

ILLINOIS STOCK BROKERS' ASSETS MUST BE $5,000

Springfield, Ill., March 26.—(AP)—Persons with assets of less than $5,000 will not be issued licenses to conduct a stock brokerage business, the securities department of the secretary of state's office announced today.

Other rules announced put a curb on the use of long distance telephones by brokers in selling stocks, and forbid brokers from "permitting or encouraging investors from trading beyond their immediate financial resources.

"Financial responsibility of our stockbrokers is imperative, if fraud in the sale of securities is to be prevented," Secretary Hughes said. "We have already gone far in discouragement of blue sky salesmen. We must go further now, and in addition to closing out brokers for reasons hitherto cited, deny them license unless they are able to show at least $5,000 in assets."

GEN. ELECTRIC'S SHIPMENTS RISE LATE IN YEAR

While net sales billed, representing shipments, of the General Electric company fell off 7 per cent from $147,162,290 in 1932 to $136,637,268 in 1933—a total which, like the preceding year's, was the lowest since 1916, the billings for the last quarter of the year, amounting to $39,211,122, were the largest since the second quarter of 1932.

OWEN D. YOUNG.

Orders received during 1933 expanded 17 per cent to $142,770,791 from $121,725,772 in 1932, according to the pamphlet report issued yesterday. For the first time since 1929 orders received surpassed shipments, so that unfilled orders were greater at the end of the year than at the opening.

The statement accompanying the report, signed by Owen D. Young, chairman, and Gerard Swope, president, declares that between March 1 and Dec. 31, 1933, 8,363 employés were added to the company's pay rolls, and the total annual pay roll rate rose about $17,448,000.

Net Income Slightly Lower.

Net income, as the preliminary statement released March 2 showed, amounted in 1933 to $13,429,739, equivalent, after dividends on the special stock, to 38 cents per share on 28,845,927 shares of no par common stock, against $14,404,110, or 41 cents per share, in 1932.

After payment of dividends of $14,112,632 on the special and common stocks last year, there was a deficit of $682,893, which was taken from surplus. In the preceding year, after payment of cash dividends of $18,439,190, the deficit amounted to $4,035,089.

Costs, expenses, and all charges except plant depreciation and interest were reduced from $136,951,670 in 1932 to $123,585,652 in 1933.

Int. on market securities	717,342	227,038
Int. on bank bal. and receivables	1,266,460	3,079,795
Royalties and sundry revenue	606,574	487,125
Interest charges	409,713	412,540
Net income	$13,429,738	$14,404,110

Invests in Securities.

The statement of income and surplus account and the balance sheet have been presented in forms somewhat differing from those of previous years, and the figures for 1932 have been recast for comparison.

Total current assets on Dec. 31, 1933, were $175,314,394, compared with $173,691,673 at the close of 1932. Evidently a portion of the company's cash was invested during the year in securities, for cash declined from $107,804,164 on Dec. 31, 1932, to $60,901,643 on Dec. 31, 1933, while in the same period marketable securities, at the lower of par or market, expanded from $8,303,852 to $50,976,864.

The marketable securities consisted of $25,243,580 United States government securities [for the greater part due within five years], $999,245 Reconstruction Finance corporation notes, $9,450,000 Federal Intermediate Credit bank notes due in 1934; $8,340,740 state and municipal obligations [for the greater part due in four years], and $6,943,297 bankers' acceptances due within 90 days.

Inventories Are Increased.

Partly because of the large amount of orders received, and the excess of orders over shipments, inventories in factories and warehouses and on consignment increased from $41,686,432 at the end of 1932 to $45,467,409 at the end of last year.

Reserve Board Reports Large Gain in Trade

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 26.—Long strides toward busier and better times under the recovery program were taken during February and early March, the federal reserve board reported today.

Industrial production, employment, payrolls, and freight movements all increased during the month, the board announced. Prices, after a headlong rush which threatened consuming power, steadied. Department store sales kept to an even keel, but construction fell off.

Although strike threats in the early part of March caused some hesitation, after the gains of February, experts were hopeful today that the settlement of the automobile strike would clear the way for new business improvement.

Factory Output Rises.

Reporting the improvement in industrial production, the Federal Reserve board disclosed that its adjusted index of the output at mines and factories jumped from 78 for January to 81 for February.

"The advance reflected chiefly increases of considerably more than the usual seasonal amount in the output of steel and automobiles," the board explained.

"In the first week of March steel production showed a further increase and in the following two weeks remained unchanged. Activity at textile mills showed a further increase in February, partly of a seasonal character."

Two Dark Spots Remain.

Two dark spots remained on the economic horizon, however. One was a billion and a half dollars of credit lying idle in the reserves of banks. Steps which the government is taking to expand credit are only piling up more money in these inactive reserves, the board admitted.

The second dark spot was the lag in construction. Despite the public works program, construction contracts dwindled in February and the outlook was for a slump throughout the first three months of the year combined.

MIDDLE WEST GAINS

BY HOWARD WOOD.

The improvement in middle west industry which began with a spurt in the Detroit automobile factories in December has since spread to the rest of the middle west industrial region, according to the monthly report on business conditions released yesterday by the federal reserve bank of Chicago. The survey covers the seventh reserve district, which covers northern and central Illinois and Indiana, all of Iowa, southern and central Wisconsin and the lower Michigan peninsula.

February, according to this report, was the third consecutive month of business improvement in the Chicago district, with an expansion in employment and pay rolls as rapid as that which occurred during the most active period of the boomlet last summer.

Jobs Up 6 Per Cent; Wages Rise 14.

Increases of more than 6 per cent in the number of wage earners employed and nearly 14 per cent in pay rolls were reported. These averages were struck from returns from 4,112 manufacturing plants employing a total of 849,139 workers with weekly earnings of nearly 19 million dollars.

"While the gains in December and January were largely determined by the automobile industry centralized in the state of Michigan," says the bank's report, "those in February were common to all states of the district.

PWA FUND GONE, NEW REQUESTS TOTAL BILLIONS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 26.—The question of whether additional funds should be voted for public works projects was in effect presented to the senate today by the public works administration, which, in response to a resolution from Senator La Follette, submitted a report of its activities showing that applications received for nonfederal projects but not acted upon because of exhaustion of the original appropriation, totaled 6,106 with a volume of $3,423,024,774. The original appropriation was for $3,300,000,000.

No recommendation was made by the public works administration in submitting the report. It gave a detailed accounting of the administration of the public works activities by Secretary Ickes.

PWA funds, Mr. Ickes said, had accounted for the direct employment of 4,613,925 persons, including CWA workers and men in civilian conservation corps camps, also financed by PWA allotments. No attempt was made to enumerate the indirect laborers who have been aided by the public works program.

An analysis of funds allocated showed $1,100,983,131 was by legislative enactment or executive order, $1,378,846,755 for federal projects, including $400,000,000 for federal aid highways, $238,000,000 for naval construction, and $818,377,212 for nonfederal projects. Allotments to 15,203 projects were covered by the report. Of this number 13,138 were federal and 2,065 nonfederal.

Some Private Loans.

In addition to loans and grants to public bodies and private corporations, the nonfederal projects included those to limited dividend corporations for the construction of low cost housing and to railroads for steel rails and equipment.

Although allotments to nonfederal projects were $818,377,212, expenditures on these projects will be around $1,000,000,000, due to the expenditure of funds from other sources by recipients of grants who did not obtain loans from PWA.

While Mr. Ickes said the major portion of the effort of PWA "has been devoted to the immediate problem of getting money into action and men into jobs, the important problems of national planning have been considered as provided by the act."

Begins Long Range Studies.

In this respect the report said:

"The national planning board has begun a series of long range studies into the relation of public works to the many other factors in social and economic life. A Mississippi valley committee has been established to pass upon the immediate projects having to do with the control and utilization of that river, and also to formulate a general long range program of action covering such questions as flood control, power, irrigation, soil erosion, and navigation.

"The development of a national program of adequate size to utilize and recirculate the surplus national income, and to provide long term employment for the permanent surplus of labor will be greatly stimulated by the findings of this committee."

STOCKS RELAPSE AFTER ADVANCE ON AUTO PEACE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 26.—The armistice in the automobile labor war had no startling effect on the stock market today. A short lived flurry of strength at the opening was the extent of the market's reaction to the good news from Washington. The early buying over, stocks turned heavy, and the market returned to the rut it has been floundering about in lately.

Gains run up in early trading proved too attractive to pass up and the market consequently had to absorb subsequent profit taking and some liquidation, which tended to increase in late dealing. The result was an irregular finish, with the majority of the list showing small gains. Final prices were around the day's lows. Volume tended to contract on the reaction, however. The day's turnover was 1,296,000 shares.

Motors Lead Early Rise.

Motors naturally fared best in the early rise and made the best showing for the remainder of the day. Chrysler finished fractionally higher and General Motors was unchanged. Stocks of steel companies and other concerns destined to profit from the auto strike settlement also received the bulk of attention from buyers.

Having clung to a narrow range for the last month the market was in a position to react to favorable news and traders came into the market with buying orders in the expectation of a reversal of the intermediate trend. That the early advance was not sustained gave bulls no little disappointment, for they had been waiting on the sidelines for just such a break in the strike news.

Initial quotations showed gains of fractions to 2 points, while volume was the largest in weeks, blocks of 1,000 to 6,000 changing hands in brisk fashion.

Large Trades in Motors.

The upswing was paced by Motors. General Motors opened on 5,000 shares at 39¼, up 1¼; Chrysler on 6,000 shares at 75, up 2, and Nash on 2,000 shares at 28, up 1. Hudson started at 23, up 2¼. The size of the initial block sales indicated that shorts were in process of covering in motors, paying 1 to 2 points more than last week's closing prices.

As the opening buying wave died down prices reacted a little and the market entered a period of quiet but maintained a good undertone for the remainder of the afternoon. This sluggishness was one forerunner of offerings that broadened out at the start of the last hour on weakness in wheat and a report of a decline in steel operations. The latter news, however, did not cause real worry because ordinarily steel operations fall off after reaching a March peak.

Steel Shares Finish Lower.

United States Steel, Bethlehem and other members of the group backed off to close moderately lower and 1 to 2 points under their early tops. Other heavy industrial stocks reacted in like manner. Rails felt pressure on last week's carloadings reports showing a moderate let-down in accordance with seasonal trends.

Gold Mining stocks were active and strong. Homestake spurted more than 20 points net in its usual thin market, getting close to its record high price. Mining shares generally were firmer.

EARLY GAINS IN COTTON LOST IN LATE TRADING

Considerable strength was shown in the cotton market early with an advance of 4 to 9 points in Chicago, in sympathy with an upturn of 12 to 15 American points in Liverpool. Later selling pressure, based on weakness in grains, brought price recessions.

At the close futures in Chicago were 2 to 5 points net lower, with New Orleans off 1 to 3 points and New York unchanged to 3 points lower. In most instances the last sales were at the lowest prices of the day.

Initial quotations showed gains of fractions to 2 points, while volume was the largest in weeks, blocks of 1,000 to 6,000 changing hands in brisk fashion.

Spots at New York and New Orleans dropped 5 points, the latter being 12.05 cents and the former 12.20 cents. Galveston and Houston were unchanged, the former 12.20 cents and the latter 12.15 cents. Prices:

SHOW PAY BOOST WOULD REDUCE STOCK EARNINGS

Analysis Reveals Average Decline of 10%.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 26.—A detailed analysis of the labor costs of 75 leading corporations, in relation to the proposed 10 per cent increase in pay rolls, has been prepared by a large financial institution. The study has been definitly linked to the estimated net earnings of these companies on their common stocks for the present year, and shows that the average company would have its common stock earnings cut 10 per cent if none of the cost could be passed on to the consumer.

The survey shows that only one company would have its costs increased to such an extent that the net earnings applicable to common stock would be wiped out. Two companies would have their earnings on common cut 50 to 99.9 per cent, while two more would be cut 40 to 49.9 per cent. In four cases the earnings on common stock would be reduced 30 to 39.9 per cent, while in five the reduction would range from 20 to 29.6 per cent.

Other Companies Affected.

Common stocks of nine companies would suffer to the extent of from 15 to 19.9 per cent and in sixteen cases, earnings on common would be reduced by 10 to 14.9 per cent. In seventeen cases, the reduction would range from 5 to 9.9 per cent and in the remaining twenty-one companies it would range from 0.0 to 4.9 per cent of the estimated earnings on common stocks.

The survey points out that in some cases, the higher costs might be passed on, while in others like food and dairy companies it might be impossible to do anything but accept the full burden of these costs.

"While it is difficult," the survey says, "to make generalizations regarding the effect on individual industries, it seems safe to say that steel companies, shoe [and probably textile] producers, coal mining companies, and rubber companies would be especially hard hit. An increase of $2.50 a ton would about offset added costs to steel producers.

Would Hit Retail Stores.

"Retail stores are relatively hard hit, but it would be necessary to increase retail prices only about 1 per cent or increase the volume of business by about 3 per cent, to offset the added costs. Automobile manufacturers would have to increase the retail price of low priced cars about $25 [4 per cent] to offset the added pay roll costs [including those of parts manufacturers], but by as much as $35 if total pay rolls increased 10 per cent.

"Oil companies are relatively little affected, with those concerns concentrating on production affected least of all. Outstanding examples of industries affected almost not at all are gold mines and beverage and finance companies."

A grouping of the various companies, in which the total percentage change is added and divided by the number of companies in each group, shows that for seven merchandising companies, the average reduction in earnings per common share would be about 20.4 per cent if the proposed labor program is adopted and costs are met.

GRAIN BOARD MAKES RULES FOR HEAVIER MARGINS UNDER CODE

Minimum initial margins required on speculative operations in the grain markets, effective March 31 will be 10 per cent of the market price, according to regulations promulgated by the business conduct committee of the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday.

In order to minimize the calling of margins on small amounts from customers, the committee will permit members of the exchange to use discretion in calling margins necessitated by market fluctuations if the amount required is under 25 per cent of the initial minimum on grain, 5 points on cotton, and 5 points on provisions.

If at any time the margin on a customers' account falls below 50 per cent of the initial minimum required under the National Grain exchange code, the member must, under the new regulations, after proper notice and call for margin, either liquidate the account or reduce it to a point where the initial minimum is restored. However, this provision, according to the committee is not to be construed as the basis at which a call for increasing margins is to be made and any use of this ruling to circumvent the minimum will be considered as an evasion of the code and summarily delt with.

Open speculative accounts at the close of business on March 29, when under margined according to the requirements of the code must be segregated and held for the purpose of liquidation within a reasonable time. Customers having such open accounts cannot enter into new commitments unless the latter and the undermargined trades are brought up to proper margin requirements.

INSURGENTS ASK MONTGOMERY WARD PROXIES

Six persons to be proposed as directors of Montgomery Ward & Co. by an insurgent stockholder group, the Montgomery Ward Stockholders' association, are awaiting action by the group's board, according to Joseph Zook, president.

Mr. Zook said retention of Sewell L. Avery as chairman of the company had previously been recommended by the association, but that "discovery that specifications for Ward retail store building alterations call for products of the U. S. Gypsum company, of which Avery is president and chairman, may have an adverse bearing on stockholder opinion."

In seeking proxies for the coming annual election, stockholders are being asked by Zook's group if they favor the reëlection of Mr. Avery; if reelected do they favor continuance of his $100,000 annual salary for "part time service;" and do they wish action voiding the 100,000 share stock option "arranged by Silas Strawn with Mr. Avery?"

'INSURANCE WEEK' DRIVE PRODUCES $29,718,400 SALES

Walter Tower, managing director of the Chicago Association of Life Underwriters, announced yesterday that a greater volume of insurance was written in Chicago during "financial independence week" than in any other single week since 1929.

One hundred twenty-five agencies, he said, reported a total volume of life insurance business of $29,718,400 for the week March 19-24. The figure will be increased by $5,000,000 more when 35 additional agencies report, it is expected.

Sears Roebuck Directors Re-elected by Stockholders

WHEAT BREAKS 1 TO 1¼ CENTS ON CROP NEWS

Heavy Snows Reported in Dry Districts.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

More favorable crop weather over the winter wheat belt, with as much as 21 inches of snow reported at Amarillo, Tex., the heaviest since 1903 at that point, and 23 inches at Clovis, N. M., started wheat prices on the down grade yesterday in the face of the early strength in stocks. The lowest level was reached near the close. At no time did the market show much disposition to rally. Net losses were 1 to 1¼ cents, July weakest and closing at 86½ to 86⅝ cents, or ⅛ cent under May.

Corn and other grains were dull and weak. Corn lost ⅝ to ¾ cent, oats were ⅝ to ⅞ cent lower, rye lost ½ to ⅝ cent and barley ½ to 1 cent.

Foreign Wheat Firm.

Winnipeg wheat showed stubborn resistance to pressure and closed only ⅛ cent lower, with export sales estimated at 600,000 bushels. Liverpool cables reported better speculative buying of futures based on less favorable European crop comments and small world's shipments and closed ¼ to ⅝ cent higher.

While no rainfall of consequence was shown in the dry section of western Kansas the more eastern area reported rain and snow during the day. The Texas storm brought much needed moisture in the largest producing area in that state. At the same time the northwest sent in the most pessimistic views of the season as to the moisture situation in the spring wheat belt. Normally spring wheat seeding starts late in March and is completed around the middle of May. So far this season little wheat has been seeded, due to the dryness.

Local Pressure on Wheat.

The bulk of the pressure on wheat was regarded as of a local character, with selling based on the bill by Senator Smith, which seeks to curtail speculation and operations on the short side of agricultural commodities except cotton.

European comments on the new wheat crop in the last few days have become much less favorable. Broomhall cabled that a fungus disease was semi-officially reported to have destroyed about 50 per cent of the 2,223,000 acres of winter wheat in Czechoslovakia, which raised a record crop of 65,000,000 bushels last year.

A decrease of 2,265,000 bushels in the domestic visible supply brought the total down to 92,643,000 bushels, the smallest since June 22, 1929, and compared with 135,922,000 bushels last year.

Other grains weakened in sympathy with wheat, with May corn receiving support as it neared 50 cents, which has proven the pivotal price for several months. At the close, however, the nearby delivery was only ⅝ cent above the low on the current downturn.

HALL PRINTING 1933 NET EQUALS 24C PER SHARE

Net income of the W. F. Hall Printing company for the year ended Jan. 31, 1934, amounted to $132,401, after all charges, including provision of $353,342 for depreciation and additional reserves of $221,563 for possible losses in collections on business originating in the current year. After payment of preferred dividends, the net income was equal to 24 cents a common share. In the preceding fiscal year net income amounted to $330,957, or 75 cents a share.

A reserve of $923,627 was set up out of earned surplus to provide for possible losses in liquidation of accounts originating prior to Jan. 31, 1933. Total current assets as of Jan. 31, 1934, were $2,577,715, and total current liabilities, $904,181.

"Toward the end of our fiscal year many magazines experienced a gain in advertising lineage, and indications from advertising contracts obtained are that this gain will be extended throughout the next few months, at least," declares Frank R. Warren, president, in the report. "There has also been a marked improvement in retail and wholesale sales which forecasts an imminent rise in catalog circulation. The activity in these two directions should result in an increase in the volume of our company's business."

CREDIT OUTSIDE OF N. Y., CHICAGO LITTLE CHANGED

The amount of bank credit extended by banks outside New York and Chicago remained practically stationary last week, according to the weekly report on member bank position released yesterday by the federal reserve board. The report covers member banks in 91 principal clearing house cities throughout the country and is for the seven days ended March 21.

The aggregate figures for the 91 cities showed a drop of 40 millions in loans on securities and a drop of 45 millions in commercial loans. However, the figures for New York and Chicago banks released earlier had shown a combined drop of 45 millions in security loans and a decline of 38 millions in commercial loans. The net change for banks outside these two cities, therefore, was almost nil.

Banks in the 91 cities reported an increase of 36 millions for the week in their holdings of government bonds, 16 millions of which was accounted for by New York and Chicago banks alone. Buying of bonds other than governments apparently was concentrated in New York banks, because the combined holdings of such bonds by banks in the 91 cities increased 55 millions, whereas the increase in New York alone was 55 millions.

Following are comparisons of the principal resources and liabilities of wekely reporting member banks as at the close of business last Wednesday:

WOOL MARKETS

BOSTON, Mass., March 26.—The Commercial Bulletin today says:

"The wool market has continued listless again this week and prices are hardly so strong; in fact, there have been some sales of wool, tops and yarns at less money, although business has not been general.

"In the west there has been little done. Growers are mostly unwilling to accept the bids which dealers are willing to make.

CATTLE, LAMBS ARE HARD HIT BY LARGE RECEIPTS

Most of Supply Sells at a Loss of 25 Cents.

The heaviest live stock receipts in nine weeks depressed prices in the stock yards yesterday. Final tallies showed 74,000 cattle, calves, hogs, and sheep had passed through the gates before closing time. Not since Jan. 22 has Chicago handled a one day total of this size. Slaughtering for the day was 40 per cent above the average of the last three Mondays.

Cattle and lambs were hit hardest on the break, the latter slumping to the lowest price levels since Jan. 30, with the receipts of this species the largest since middle of last October. Losses in lambs for the day amounted to 25 cents, and quotations were $1 to $1.10 under the high point of the season.

Wooled Lambs at $9.10.

Shippers and city butchers bought top grades of wooled lambs at $9.10, while packers obtained the bulk of good kinds around the $9 line. At the high point on March 1 similar descriptions topped the market at $10.15, the highest mark in the trade since June, 1931. "Old" crop wooled lambs comprised the bulk of the increase in supplies, about 20,000 of them arriving from the principal feeding sections of Colorado and Nebraska. These two states practically control the supplies of fat "old" crop lambs available for market about this time of the season.

Some interests are attributing the sudden influx of last year's fed lambs to the reports that new crop lambs are ready to move earlier this year. In fact, California and Arizona are already moving spring lambs in volume. Freshly shorn lambs sold at $7.25 to $7.50.

Native Springers Here.

The run also carried the first native springers of the season. They were choice, averaging 50 pounds, and sold at $13.25 or about $6.60 a head, as against $7.50 per hundredweight for the first native spring lambs in 1933 when they arrived late in February and were too early to benefit from the Easter trade.

The cattle run yesterday was the heaviest since Feb. 12 at 17,000. Prices declined 15 to 25 cents with the closing quotations showing the full reduction.

A comparatively small proportion of the day's cattle receipts sold above $7. Although one consignment of long yearlings of show type, averaging 1,043 pounds, brought $7.65, as high as anything has sold since December, 1932. Prime 1,355 pound cattle were sold up to $7.50.

There was a two way trend in the hog market, spots showing 5 cents advance while other sales were off 5 cents. The general average remained unchanged at $4.25. Top sales at $4.60 were 5 cents over the close last week, but the lower close in medium and heavy stock offset this advance.

Six packing houses obtained about 2,400 hogs for relief, costing mostly $4.50 and $4.55.

LARD TRADING MODERATE; PRICES IRREGULAR AT CLOSE

Moderate pressure was evident in the lard market yesterday with packers the principal sellers. Buying was scattered and trading moderate. The close on lard futures was unchanged to 5c higher. Cash lard was steady at $6.27½ for regular, and 2¼ cents up for loose at $6.27½. Leaf advanced 12½ cents to $6.25. Liverpool lard was 6 to 9d higher.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, March 26.—(AP)—Raw sugar was quiet today. The buyers seemed ready to pay last spot prices for duty-frees, or 2.95c, but holders were asking 3c, and no sales were reported. Futures were firmer and just about maintained initial upturns which were due to increased covering and buying by trade and Cuban interest, promoted by expectations of early action on the revised sugar bill. The market closed at net gains of 2 to 3 points. Sales were 16,550 tons. Prices follow:
